Group to Serve Workers' Meal During Crusade

Medford Jaycettes will prepare and serve a luncheon again this year for workers in the annual United Medford Crusade. The luncheon will be held October 20 at the YMCA. Mrs. Glenn Jennings is chairman of this service project.

Plans for the luncheon were made at the monthly meeting of the group held at the home of the president, Mrs. Arthur Van Leeuwen. Cohostesses were Mrs. Ronald James and Mrs. Charles Henry.

A nominating committee, composed of Mrs. Allen Carpenter, Mrs. Glen Jennings and Mrs. Wilbur Robertson, was named. The committee will present a slate of candidates at a meeting October 1.

Members of Central Point Jaycettes were guests for the evening. The guests were Mrs. Richard Stratton, president, Mrs. Gay Hallett, Mrs. Chester Ayres and Mrs. Don Squire. Mrs. D. F. Lundung and Mrs. Wallace Nelson were also guests.

Mrs. Calvin McKibben, vice president, and club members provided the program, which was a show of homemade clothing and hobbies. Mrs. Carpenter modeled a green cotton satin sheath with square neckline, and Mrs. McKibben showed a petal chiffon dress of dark blue with white flowers. In preparation for school days, Mrs. Warren Hayes had been sewing for her daughter. She displayed a dress of blue and white stripes in polished cotton.

Mrs. Glenn Jennings brought a redwood brown and white wool knitted dress she is finishing and Mrs. Walter Smith modeled a black basket weave cocktail dress with matching jacket. For evening she made a red velvet and silver lame formal gown.

For her husband, a golfer, Mrs. Glen Keyes made a hand-tooled leather golf bag. Mrs. Donald Madden displayed her handmade Christmas cards, hand painted in watercolors. Mrs. Ted McLain displayed a chocolate set of jet black ceramic ware which she had made for use in her home, and a pair of Chinese figurines. Mrs. James modeled the latest type maternity clothing, a balloon type top of brown gathered around the bottom and worn with a matching brown straight skirt.

Mrs. Van Leeuwen explained how to make felt-gram pictures.

A meeting on October 1 will be held at 1202 West Second street at 8 p.m. This will be candidate's night.

R. Stanley Dollar Dies in New York

New York—UPI—R. Stanley Dollar, 78, noted San Francisco shipping magnate and head of the Dollar Steamship Line, died unexpectedly today in his New York hotel apartment.

Dollar was stricken in his bath about 9 a.m. and died, apparently of a heart attack, a few minutes later. Mrs. Dollar was with him.

At the time of his death, Dollar was president of the Robert Dollar Company, a holding company with interests in lumber, shipping, airlines and communications fields, and also was president of Globe Wireless Ltd.

A business associate said funeral arrangements would be made after his son arrives tonight from San Francisco.

Nashville, Tenn.—UPI—June has lost the traditional title of marriage month in the Nashville area. The county clerk's office reported Tuesday that only 289 weddings took place during June of this year, compared with 319 in August.

Spoon marinated green beans into tomatoes cut to open in flower fashion. Garnish with deviled egg quarters and a shiny ripe olive.

doubtedly one of the oldest students returning to any campus this fall and also undoubtedly one of the youngest.

"I have always had work to do," said the sprightly, German born Mrs. Koepke. "Always around the house... I still do all my own cleaning and cooking. I used to have a big garden, but since living in an apartment I cannot do that anymore."

"I am blessed with good health; otherwise I could not do all the things I still do. I did setting-up exercises every morning of my life... I gave them up at 75."

Leads Own Life
Mrs. Koepke, born in Berlin, grew up in Hamburg where she was married and then moved to Bremen where she lived until her husband's death in the middle 1940's.

She came to the United States 10 years ago, at the invitation of a daughter, Mrs. Eva Opton. A son and daughter were lost in World War II.

"But before I came, I insisted I should have my own life," said Mrs. Koepke in an interview. "I have an apartment quite near my daughter, so I have a family and my own life too." She also has become a citizen.

Mrs. Koepke has been taking courses in her great "love" literature—at NYU's Division of General Education virtually ever since she arrived.

Youngest in Class
"If open-mindedness and enthusiasm are characteristics of the young, then Mrs. Koepke is the youngest student in the class," said Prof. Nathan Teitel, who taught her last year.

Said Mrs. Koepke: "I will go to school as long as my mental and physical capacities hold out. Going to school keeps you young too."

This fall, Mrs. Koepke, who has 16 grand and great-grandchildren, enrolled in an afternoon course in which she will review works already familiar to her—reading Shakespeare, Milton, Dante, and other "greats" of literature. She goes to class by subway, and does all her reading without the aid of eyeglasses.

She is not working toward a degree—"Oh, I'm too old for that," she laughed. "Maybe I would, if I were younger but 60 years ago it was not the style for a girl to be educated. Girls settled down and got married."

Potato Growers Ready To Start Harvesting

Bend—UPI—Potato growers in this area today prepared for the fall potato harvest following the first killing frost of the season.

The frost was the first in 130 days, marking the end of what may be a record growing season. Growers welcomed the frost that kills potato vines and permits the potatoes to ripen in the ground before digging starts.

Another can opener quickie with ripe olives is sandwich spreads. Use the handy 4 1/2 ounce cans of chopped ripe olives with egg salad or cream cheese combinations. Or use pitted ripe olives to garnish toasted bacon and tomato sandwiches.

Women Present Doll Style Show At Last Session

Members of the Woman's society of First Methodist church held a doll fashion show at their last meeting. The prize winning doll clothes modeled at the meeting will be displayed in the window of Leon's Tots to Teens the week preceding the church's annual bazaar which takes place November 13. All doll clothes modeled at the fashion show will be sold at the bazaar in the Children's fair room.

Mrs. John Kent, who is in charge of this bazaar booth, also displayed other toys at the meeting Tuesday. These have been made for sale at the bazaar and some of them will be displayed at Leon's Tots to Teens also.

Since the bazaar is the main source of revenue by which Methodist women help support mission work in the church, they have been working on it throughout the year.

An apron parade was held last spring from which many unusual aprons were collected for sale at the bazaar, and throughout the summer various members have been starting plants for sale in the Green Thumb shop. Among others a Swedish Tea shop and a Children's Book store have been planned for the bazaar, the theme of which is Old Time Towne.
