Mr. and Mrs. William W. Wheat

Miss Sharon Rose Picard Bride of William Wheat

Miss Sharon Rose Picard became the bride of William W. Wheat in a double ring ceremony held September 6 at First Methodist church. Dr. George G. Roseberry officiated at the eight o'clock evening wedding, attended by 150 relatives and friends.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Picard, 3400 Jacksonville highway. Mr. Wheat is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Wheat, 24 South Orange street. Pink and white gladioli decorated the church for the ceremony, and L. J. Skala was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white lace over silk gown fashioned with flared floor length skirt. Her veil was trimmed with pearls and was held by lace headress. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Nancy Picard was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a petal pink brocade frock styled on princess lines and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. Miss Kay Schwiager, Miss Sue Johnston and Miss Marilee Whitlock were bridesmaids. They wore frocks styled as Miss Picard's in sky blue brocade and carried pink and white carnations.

Richard Arnold served as best man while Gary Picard, brother of the bride, Robert Ayres, and Terry Brereton seated the guests.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the church. Mrs. Kenneth Dufour, aunt of the bride, assisted by Mrs. George Schwiager cut and served the wedding cake while Mrs. Roy Knoble presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Ethel Myre poured the coffee. Miss Joyce Lewis was in charge of the guest book.

The couple are making their home at 1424 Jasper street, Medford. The bride is a graduate of Medford High school and is employed by Van Lee's Super 88 store. Mr. Wheat is also a graduate of Medford High school and attended Lewis and Clark college.

Job in Senate Said Exciting

Washington—UPI—If you want a job in one of the most exciting places in Washington—the United States Senate—perhaps the easiest route is to have a father who's a United States Senator.

That's the path traveled by attractive and efficient Diane Carroll, daughter of Colorado Democratic Sen. John A. Carroll. But the crack 26-year-old executive secretary, who has hired the seven other girls on her father's staff, has other tips.

First, a recommendation from someone in the home state. Second, experience in a legislatively helpful field. Third, "congeniality," plus typing and shorthand.

A senate staff job may start at about $3,000 a year. The top job in a senate office has a legal ceiling of $16,300—that of administrative assistant.

On the experience question, Diane finds her two years as a District Court clerk in Denver an asset in matters which her father deals with as a member of the Judiciary Committee. Another staffer in the office is a former employee of the Army's liaison office and helps in military matters crossing the Senator's desk.

As for typing and shorthand, Diane feels most girls underrate them as a job entre which can overshadow an A.B. degree in, say, political science.

Important to remember in applying for a senate job is that it could lead to many other places in the government.

Carroll currently is looking for a new administrative assistant because his former aide has gone back home to run for Congress, well briefed for the office from his duty with Carroll "on the Hill."

Even if a Senator can't hire you, he or his office may help a promising applicant find a spot on a senate committee or in a government department or agency.

To Initiate

Royal Neighbors of America will meet Thursday, October 2, at 7:30 p. m. at the Pythian hall. Initiation will be held and formal dress is required of the officers.

Homemakers Program Open to County Women

Dedicated to the woman who wishes to "improve herself, her home, her family relationships and her community," the program of the Jackson County Home Extension service is an ever-expanding one. At present more than 800 women are enrolled in 29 units throughout the county; six were organized in recent months.

The home extension program is part of a national and state service which is the largest out-of-school educational organization in the world. It covers all phases of agriculture, 4-H club and home economics in Jackson county and is carried on through groups, by newspaper, radio, television, telephone service, office calls, home visits, and bulletins.

One of the most effective of the teaching methods of the home extension agent is the home economics extension unit. It is a "learning by doing" program designed to interest both the rural and urban dweller; at least half of the Jackson county members are living in towns or cities. Miss Mary Pat Lucy, home extension agent for this county, stresses that these women are "homemakers," not just housewives or housekeepers, and that any interested woman is welcome to attend and participate in the programs.

Tax Supported
The agents are graduate home economists placed in the county to direct the home economics program, and the service is a tax-supported one. Subjects to be studied each year are suggested by the members themselves and developed by the county agent and Oregon State college experts in the various fields.

The lessons cover hundreds of subjects of interest and useful to the women. Food study has covered food preservation, canning, freezing, pickling and preserving; nutrition as adapted to the home and family; food preparation, meat cookery, pastry and pies, yeast rolls and bread, main dish meals, herb and spice cookery, emergency meals, vegetable cookery, buffet meals, outdoor cookery, consumer buying of foods, seafoods, foods for health, and appetizing meals from canned, frozen or stored foods.

Clothing Topics
Clothing topics have included beginning sewing, pattern alteration and fitting, ironing and pressing; washing methods for wool and synthetic fibers; shirtmaking and sewing shortcuts; stain removal; coordinated wardrobe and accessories, and care of the sewing machine. Women learned how to make a functional housedress, how to make over clothing and how to sew for children. Making handbags and gloves has been studied.

In past years women have been taught the proper use of color in the home, how to upholster furniture, how to make simple household repairs, including the use of tools; how to make draperies, lampshades and rugs; how to select household appliances; how to select proper floor coverings, how to make cushions. They have studied flower arranging, how to plan proper window treatment, how to finish interior walls, how to plan and use storage space in a home, how to draft house plans, how to arrange the furniture in a room.

Lessons on handicraft have covered textile painting, copper tooling, embossing of metals and basket weaving. For the gardener there are lessons on landscaping, care and pruning of shrubs and early gardens.

Other topics have been family business and law, consumer credit and how to use it, understanding teenagers, getting along with the family, understanding yourself and family recreation.

The service has branched into leadership training, realizing that extension qualities are valuable.

Projects for this season include Christmas crafts, both gifts and decorations, "Improving Ourselves as Hostesses," a workshop on pattern alterations, a meeting on posture exercises for health and obesity, one on "Nutrition Food Value," one on care of shrubbery and one on "Distinctive Foods."

Aiding the extension service and the county agent for home economics is the County Extension committee, women who have worked in the program for several years and who aid with policy making and solving of problems.

Serving on the county committee at this time are Mrs. Leland Charley, Eagle Point; Mrs. W. W. Jackson, Eagle Point; Mrs. Elmer Reinking, Central Point; Mrs. Rollin Jones, Medford; Mrs. Paul Snook, Shady Cove; Mrs. Dora Krouse, Grants Pass, and Mrs. Edgar Pleasant, Central Point.

Society Conducts Rose Show

Guests and members of the Medford Rose Society commented on the deeper, richer coloring of the fall roses at a September rose show held at Hedrick Junior High school cafeteria September 22. Members of the Grants Pass rose society were invited to enter their roses in competition with the local members.

The two groups displayed a total of 242 entries in the horticulture divisions only. Ernest Vehrs of Grants Pass was in charge of the judging which was one by apprentice judges from the two cities.

Queen of the Show, a Ruby-lat rose, was awarded to Mrs. Victor Boght of Grants Pass, who also won a best large floribunda with a Siren rose blossom and best small floribunda with Pinkie. Best Pink Favorite was displayed by Mrs. Dayton Dupue, as was best three roses, Tiffany. Best grandiflora was a magnificent spray of Buccanerbush grown by V. L. Quackenbush. Best grandiflora, single spray, was a Montezuma shown by Mrs. Charles Hobbs. She also received an award for best large flowered climber with a Red Flare rose. Best single rose ribbon went to Mrs. Randal Axtell; best small flowered climber went to Eldred Peyton for an Elmshorn; best Peace rose went to Mrs. Edith Wilson.

Mr. Vehrs, who conducts the test garden in Grants Pass for this area, brought displays of the newer roses to show members the coloring and characteristics of these. Among the ones he showed were the new Ivory Fashion, Heat Wave, an orange red floribunda that should be good for arrangements, Michele Milland, Pink Favorite, Love Song and Sonata.

Twelve members of the executive board met Friday at the home of the president, Mrs. L. P. Rentschler, to make plans for attending the fall meeting of Siskiyou district on Tuesday, October 14, at Grants Pass. Members are invited to make their reservations at the next meeting or contact Mrs. H. L. Ekerson, 42 South Groveland avenue, phone SPring 2-2018.

Program Planned For Garden Club
