

Though this young man won't grow up to be a locomotive engineer, he can still dream, as many of us did, that it would be an exciting job.

Fascinated railfans turn out to take pictures of an old-time steam locomotive as it makes its farewell run through New Jersey in 1957.

the IRON HORSE isn't dead yet

by Maud R. Turley

DRAWN BY AN ELDERLY steam locomotive, the train speeds through the countryside, crowded with eager railroad fans. Startled by the fast-moving train on seldom-used freight tracks, cattle scurry to escape.

For more than 20 years, railfans have been taking chartered trips over freight, branch, and main lines of railroads.

They may ride in modern coaches with dining-car service, but there's always a steam locomotive to add excitement.

Stops are made along the way so fans may observe and photograph rolling stock stored in cornfields—the graveyard of old engines.

The fans scramble through the weeds, impervious to insect bites and the hot sun as they crawl over old cars and engines to take pictures. Clothed in blue jeans and trainmen's caps, they roam through the cars, swapping railroad news and exchanging photos taken on previous outings. Scrambling up in the front coach, they focus their cameras on the iron horse, soon to breathe its last.

One of the first fan clubs, Railroad Enthusiasts, Inc., sponsored the first railfan trip in 1934 over the famous little "Hoot, Toot, and Whistle" railroad (Hoosac Tunnel and Wilmington) in New England. There are other clubs in every state as well as in Canada, England, and Australia.

When vacation time comes, railfans enjoy more ambitious trips. Railroad magazines list exciting rail tours lasting two or three weeks. The Railroad Enthusiasts of New York even chartered a plane to Europe in 1955 to ride the railroads of England, Holland, Switzerland, France, and the Riviera!

CONSTIPATION affect you this way?

Tired and sluggish? Nervous, irritable, maybe from constipation due to lack of bulk? There's a safe, natural way to regularity—the Kellogg's All-Bran way.

A daily half-cup of Kellogg's All-Bran with milk gives you needed bulk for regularity—without habit-forming laxative drugs. Treats you to the wonderful flavor of bran, too. Put Kellogg's All-Bran on your shopping list, and overcome your constipation problems due to lack of bulk.

A GLASS OF MILK A DAY

You'll say one glassful isn't enough! But to thousands of children overseas, who rarely know how it feels to have a full stomach, it's like a gift from heaven. Some will gulp it down. Others have to be taught to like this white liquid they can't remember ever having tasted. Providing a glass of milk a day for millions of children is one of the vital aid programs carried on by America's 3 great faiths—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish. It's only one small phase of programs that save countless lives overseas. Support your faith's OVERSEAS AID PROGRAM.
