Parents Meet Teaching Staff
Cave Junction—At the initial meeting for the year of Illinois Valley High School Parent-Teacher association Elmer Flemming, superintendent of schools, welcomed back the old teaching staff and introduced five new teachers. They are Howard Alton, Eldon Durham, Robert Kellenbach, Miss Crystal Prine and Walter Eichler.

Mrs. Alton Sowell, president, announced committee chairmen. They are Mrs. Robert Bittel, program; Mrs. Jack Williams, membership; Mrs. Robert Cherry, hospitality; Mrs. Jim McDermott, publicity; Van Johnson, music; Vernon Larson, education; Mrs. Charles Lemmon, ways and means; Mrs. Clinton Etherton, historian; and Leland Rosenberg, student council representative.

A lengthy discussion on the proposed PTSA dissolved in a resolution to table any action until the next business meeting. The proposed budget for the year was accepted.

The money making project this year will be a minstrel show scheduled for early fall. It is hoped it will be the first presentation on the new high school stage. Proceeds from the minstrel show will be used to support the local and state PTA scholarship fund and to purchase a curtain for the stage.

The October meeting will feature a panel discussion on teenage problems. Panel speakers will be Judge Orval Millard, Dr. William J. Moore, John Wetterman, juvenile officer and the Rev. Gene Denning. s...Oodsenlpknight-1tv

Mrs. Stewart will speak at 8 p.m. at Girls Community club and the public is invited to attend.

Supermarkets Plus Toddlers Bring Grey Hair
By PATRICIA McCORMICK
United Press International
New York—(UPI)—Toddlers on the loose are prematurely aging supermarket clerks and managers across the land.

To a toddler, there is joy in pulling one orange from the bottom of a neat pyramid. Done right, the whole thing tumbles down.

In the bottled goods department, nothing attracts like the shiny neck of the catsup bottle. It's easy to pick up and has inherent ability to slip, accidentally, out of pinched hands that are "just looking" for smashing success.

Little fingers succumb easily to the temptation of a meat package stowed on the lower shelf of a supermarket cart. Poked properly, the thing squirts juice.

Unwrapping those paper rolls mommy gets for the bathroom produces untold delight. Provided, of course, the young tormentor can make the tissue trail like a kite's tail while he—or she—runs up and down aisles.

Bare pleasure from pushing other people's carts. Pop chases after, but before he can apprehend the bundle of humanity on the loose, many strangers are apt to get bumped.

Imprisoning the youngster in those seats in the carts takes its toll of adult nervous systems, too. There is an occasional screech. When moms aren't looking, the young things have been seen dropping canned goods on eggs.

Plan Dance
The Swinging Pairs Square Dance club will hold a dance at the Square Corral near Camp White starting about 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Douglas Fosbury, Medford, and guest callers will call, and potluck refreshments will be served. All square dancers are invited.

Miss Kell Honored
Miss Laurene Kell, Medford, department president of the Veteran of Foreign Wars auxiliary in Oregon, was honored at a reception Sunday, September 28, given by her home auxiliary, Del Rogue, in Grants Pass. In the receiving line were Miss Kell, her father, Charles Kell, Gold Hill; Elmer Riblett, commander of the Grants Pass VFW post, and Mrs. Riblett, auxiliary president.

Eighty-five post and auxiliary members from all parts of Oregon attended the tea. Among the guests were Jerry Leibe, commander of the Department of Oregon; Past Commander Harry Birch, Medford, and Mrs. Birch, hospital director for the southern district.

Mrs. Mabel Drinkwater of Del Rogue auxiliary provided interlude music, and Mrs. Marie Bowling sang. Accordion duets were played by Sheila Vancil and Linda Johnson. Mrs. Bowling and Mrs. Dorothy Cotton were in charge of the refreshments.

Following the reception Miss Kell and members of the Grants Pass post and auxiliary went to South Grants Pass Junior High school to participate in the dedication ceremonies for the new building. The post and auxiliary donated 24 small nylon flags for the class rooms, and a large nylon flag for the outside pole.

Four Men Head PTA
Sams Valley—Sams Valley Parent-Teacher association believes that it can boast of something which is unique in the county, and possibly in all Oregon. All officers of the association are men. V. H. Croxton is president, W. C. McDonough is vice president; John Dean is secretary and William Brewster, treasurer.

At the first meeting of the unit Mr. Croxton named committee chairmen for the year. They are: Audiovisual, Mr. Brewster; membership, Mrs. Beryl King and Mrs. Edward Sollinger; program, Mrs. Tom Ambrose and Mrs. Edgar P. Leasant; hospitality, Mrs. John Eckerman; ways, means and budget, Mrs. James Shope; publicity, Mrs. Milson Sanderson.

Mrs. Ambrose exhibited a large aquarium, purchased with the $10 prize money won by the third and fourth grades for having the largest number of parents attending PTA meetings last year.

The program consisted of a discussion of coming school activities and the possibility of a school band.

Potpourri

Vienna today is vastly different than it was five years ago according to Mrs. I. E. Schuler, of Medford. Mrs. Schuler, who left Rome recently for the Austrian city to meet her granddaughter, Miss Cathy Treece of Portland, writes that she finds Vienna "unbelievably different."

"I left Rome thinking I had an apartment, and reached here to discover that the woman was having building problems and could not take me until October," she wrote. "Along with me on the third of September came 8000 chemists for a 'congress' so that Wien was packed with tourists. Following that was an International Fair, and now the big international atomic energy meeting. And I came into all this innocent and unknowing."

I hunted the city over and stayed for one week one place, and then had to move to the mother of the frau where I was staying; She is keeping me out of the kindness of her good Austrian heart. This week, though, I have found a place, and I think it will be satisfactory.

"What a change in the five years since I was here. It is fantastic-unbelievable. Where everything was quiet and people poor and shabby now all is brilliance and speed. It's almost as bad as Rome—excepting that these people are more God-fearing. The shops shine and are filled with charming things; cars are as numerous as in Rome, and prices have skyrocketed.

"Cathy is wonderfully situated and is blossoming forth beautifully. The young girl with whom she is living is lovely, and she likes the entire family. It amuses me to see her outlook change in just the three weeks she has been here. We have started studying French on Saturdays with the Dr. Matyka I studied German with before, because Cathy thinks it's dreadful she can't speak any other language than English. It hurts her pride that all the young girls she has met speak about three languages.

"I fairly burst with Carrie Nation desires—I hear and see so much. I have developed two egos—a European and an American. I get furious when any one here criticizes us (and they do—plenty). Then I get furious at the things our politicians are doing, as seen from here. And our 'head in the ground' school ideas! Our schools are so far behind European schools it's just tragic."

The last letter from the young marrieds in Spokane also brought a comment about schools. The letter said "Kenny is very happy with his work here. He says the teachers and students (at Mead school) are very friendly, and he has the feeling that he'll be able to accomplish something. The superintendent seems to be mainly interested in educating the students instead of collecting trophies, although they seem to do that, too. All study halls have been eliminated from the high school, and every student enrolls in six subjects. All activities are conducted after school, and they run buses to take the students home who participate in them. The idea is to accomplish four years of work in three, and it looks as if they are doing it."

Scene in Mann's Department store: A polite and interested clerk holds one of those frilly crinolines which teenage girls buy by the million to wear under their full dresses, while a man measures the ruffle. Man finally says, triumphantly, "There, I knew it! Some of them might be 20 yards, or even 30. But they are not 40 yards around the bottom."—O.S.

NEW FAD?—A few innovative homemakers are dyeing their carpets to match their hair, says the National Cotton Council. This young matron chose the honey color of her locks for her deep-pile cotton carpet by Wunda Weve. Others are having floor coverings custom dyed to match a favorite dress, their pet or just about anything.

DIGGING IN—Mrs. Helen Bird, 47, of Quincy Mass., shovels silver dollars onto the scales in Canada Dry Sweepstakes at TV studio in New York. Mrs. Bird, allowed to keep all the silver dollars she could shovel up in five minutes, dug herself up a fortune of $17,400.

Doll Dress Makers Draw Line at Chemise
Gary, Ind. —(UPI)—Dolls costumed, constructed, shod, or simply coiffured — are the hobby of two sisters, Carrie and Ella Coash.

The sisters have been producing dolls and clothing for people from Germany to the Hawaiian Islands for the past eight years.

In the parlor of their home are hundreds of dolls from tiny blonde models to a large 100-year-old creation given them by a relative. All the dolls are completely outfitted, from pajamas and housecoats to aprons and shoes.

Some have their own cradles and beds, and all have complete sets of under-clothing, hosiery, and hats.

The sisters take a grim stand against the current chemise.

"We don't like to see them on women. We certainly wouldn't create them for our dolls," they said.

Chrome Producers File Articles Here

Articles of incorporation for the California Oregon Chrome Producers association have been filed with the Jackson county recorder's office.

They are signed by Jack Eggers, Cave Junction; Eugene R. Brown, O'Brien and Harry E. Hawk, 1673 Park st., Ashland.

The association, organized without capital stock, is for the purpose of mining, milling, storing, and purchasing equipment and supplies for resale or rental to members, conversion of chrome and other ores and concentrates to higher end-use and more salable products, marketing, research, and such other activities as may be conducted by cooperative associations for the benefit of its members.

The association will have the power to borrow money and act as an agent for its members. Membership fee is $5 according to the articles.

Headquarters for the association will be 212 Levelette building, Medford, with Bruce J. Manley, Medford attorney, as their agent.

Peaches 'n' Cream Sherry
New York —(UPI)—Peaches take on a nutty flavor when baked in sherry, Spanish style. Arrange 6-8 peach halves in baking dish, cover with 1/2 cup sugar and sprinkling of cinnamon. Bake in 350 degree oven until sugar melts. Add 1/2 cup sherry (oloroso or cream type) and bake 15 minutes longer. Serve hot with cream.
