President Calls Top-Level Political Rally for Monday

Washington—(UPI)—President Eisenhower expanded his own role in the Republican congressional campaign today and called a top-level political meeting for Monday to try to pep up the rest of the GOP. The White House announced the President's plan just one day after Eisenhower had told a news conference that Republicans must abandon their "sitting-on-hands and complacency" if they want to win in November. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the chief executive would enlarge his scheduled campaign trip to California and Chicago later this month by adding visits to Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Abilene, Kan.; and Denver. He said the President's meeting with top party leaders Monday would have a three-fold objective: To attack apathy in GOP ranks; to discuss Eisenhower's personal campaign plans; and to exchange ideas on the campaign in general. The President's move tied in with action by other GOP leaders to put more life in the Republican struggle to regain control of Congress this fall, or at least prevent a runaway Democratic victory. Vice President Richard M. Nixon has already hit the campaign trail with a series of hard-hitting speeches on the West Coast. Meanwhile, GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn and House Republican leader Joseph W. Martin (Mass.) both issued statements designed to rally the rank and file. Martin said the GOP can win if party workers will "work and slug." He said every party member should be out on the firing line, helping GOP candidates for the House and Senate. More Speeches Planned The GOP leaders invited to the Monday conference included Nixon, Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland, who is seeking the governorship in California, the chairman of the House and Senate GOP Campaign committees. As the scope of Eisenhower's own campaigning expanded, Hagerty said still more public appearances in behalf of Republican tickets were in the planning stage. Presumably these will primarily concern Eisenhower activities in the East. The White House recently announced political speeches and appearances by the President in Los Angeles Oct. 20, San Francisco Oct. 21, and Chicago Oct. 22.

Nixon Tells Need Of Attack Campaign To Save Republicans

With Nixon in California—(UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican party's No. 1 fireman, turned to Northern California today in his campaign to rescue the GOP ticket in the November election. He said the President's meeting with top party leaders Monday would have a three-fold objective: To attack apathy in GOP ranks; to discuss Eisenhower's personal campaign plans; and to exchange ideas on the campaign in general. Nixon was flanked in San Diego by Sen. William F. Knowland, the GOP candidate for governor in California, and by Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, the party's nominee for the U. S. Senate. Knowland was defeated last June in a "popularity contest" primary election by Democrat Atty. Gen. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown by more than 600,000 votes while Knight trailed Democrat Clair Engle in the Senate race by 560,000 votes although he had Republican opposition. In a speech reminiscent of his fighting attacks on the Democrats back in 1952 and 1956, Nixon in San Diego accused some Democrats whom he did not identify with "loose and reckless talk," in criticizing defense and foreign policies of the Eisenhower administration. "Constructive criticism is necessary and helpful, but some of it has been of great disservice to the country because it has been unreasoned, uninformed and deliberately distorted," he said.

CAN YOU PICK THE BUMBLE BEE TUNA?

It requires real skill. There are people at Bumble Bee who have been picking the best of the tuna catch for 20 years or more. They're tough judges. How do they do it? They pick tuna with a light, clean color and a bright, fresh look. It must have that fine, fresh, just-out-of-the-sea smell. Gills are examined. Meat is tested for solidity and firmness. Maybe you can pick the winners now, a and b. They have that true Bumble Bee quality. The others were good, but not good enough for the Bumble Bee experts, who feel that careful selection of tuna makes uniform fine eating. An Oregon Product
