

HANK BAUER CRASHES YANKEES BACK INTO SERIES WITH 4-0 WIN

Drives In All Runs For 4-0 Win

By OSCAR FRALEY
New York—(UPI)—"Scrap Iron" Hank Bauer, a link with the days when the New York Yankees were a legend of power, crashed the embattled Bronx Bombers back into the World Series, two games to one, Saturday when he drove in all the runs in a 4-0 victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

than a decade, lashed out a bases-loaded single for two runs in the fifth and then brought those twice-beaten Yankees completely off the floor with a two-run homer in the seventh.

Those were the runs which carried big Don Larsen-loser in last year's finale-back to the winning heights again as he fire-balled and fielded the Yankees through seven suspenseful innings. Larsen didn't match his history-making no-hitter of 1956 because the recuperating arm which hadn't pitched a full game in three months tired and flame-throwing Ryne Duren had to come on in the eighth to close it out.

But Bauer's record-breaking bat-smashing out three of the four Yankee hits and running his consecutive World Series hitting streak to 17 straight games—spelled the difference as the Yankee hung the defeat on veteran Bob Rush before a roaring crowd of 71,599 this warm, hazy day.

Gave It All He Had
Larsen gave it all he had—and it was plenty while it lasted.

His bulleting fast ball and baffling breaking pitches set eight of those Braves down on strikes and stranded another 10 straining baserunners. And it was Larsen's sterling defensive play in the sixth which choked off the most dangerous Milwaukee threat.

Then, when his six-hit pitching and Bauer's bat had paralyzed the Yankees just two innings from home, Duren came on with the fastest and wildest pitch in baseball to turn back those Braves without a hit.

The Yanks threatened again in the sixth, getting two on with two out. However, Rush set them down before leaving the ball game for a pinch-hitter in the seventh. Del Crandall set up his exit by greeting Larsen with a single, Johnny Logan flied out, Rush's pinch hitter, Harry Hanerink popped out, and after Bruton walked, Schoendienst flied to Mantle.

New York was looking for a cushion about this time, with Larsen having "had it," and Bauer took care of the demand almost immediately. With one out, old Enos (Country) Slaughter batted for Larsen and managed to get himself hit by a pitched ball off the slants of Don McMahon.

That's when Bauer stepped in and knocked one into the left field stands for his third homer of this series and his sixth in classic play.

Today, when they come back to "the house that Ruth built," for the fourth game, both teams will go back to their "big men." For the Braves it will be Lefty Spahn, who won the opener at Milwaukee. The Yankees will shoot with Whitey Ford, the "little iceman" who started the opener which was lost in relief by Duren.

"We woke up today," Stengel said in the clubhouse after it was all over.

happy over the hitting—except for those three Bauer blows out of the past.

Error In Judgment Hits Braves

New York—(UPI)—Manager Fred Haney and third-base coach Billy Herman agreed Saturday that an "error in judgment" by Red Schoendienst caused the traffic tieup which broke the back of the Milwaukee Braves' sixth inning threat and let Don Larsen off the hook in the third game of the World Series.

"Red would have scored if he had kept going," said Haney. "It's hard to second-guess a play like that and I don't want to lay the blame on anybody. But I think Red would have made it if he had kept going."

"I waved him home and forgot about him," said Herman. "I thought he had it made or I wouldn't have sent him in. Hank Aaron wasn't at fault at all when he made the dash for third."

Schoendienst was on second and Aaron on first with one out when Wes Covington sent a sharp drive which bounced off first-baseman Bill Skowron's glove to the box seats behind first base. Schoendienst rounded third but held up 15 feet down the line and was hung up between third and home when Aaron dashed around second for second for third.

Tar Heels Nudge USC

Los Angeles—(UPI)—The North Carolina Tar Heels were willing to accept the two-point conversion rule wholeheartedly after using it to defeat favored Southern California Friday night, 8-7.

But the 42,238 football fans who saw the intersectional clash in Memorial Coliseum credited the powerful defense erected by Coach Jim Tatum for the victory.

The home team had an edge in the first period when it capitalized on end Al Goldstein's fumble to gain possession on the Tar Heel 46. USC moved to the 25 and then quarterback Tom Maudlin passed to end Hillard Hill on the one where defensive back Emil Decantis was called for pass interference. Maudlin scored easily and the Trojans played it safe and kicked the extra point.

The second period had just gotten underway when Cummings intercepted Maudlin's pass on his 33 and returned it to the Southern Cal 39. After the Tar Heels moved to the 27, Wade Smith went into action.

He boomed through the line on a quick-opener and then found running room, going all the way to score.

Ohio State Tops Husky Team 12-7

Columbus, Ohio—(UPI)—Erratic Ohio State, its heralded ground-eating offense slowed to a walk, turned a blocked punt into a fourth period touchdown Saturday for a 12-7 intersectional victory over the scrappy Washington Huskies before a sellout crowd of 82,901.

Sophomore guard Oscar Hauer, whose German-born parents came to Hamilton, O., from Communist Hungary six years ago, turned the tide in the hard fought battle by blocking quarterback Bob Schlored's punt on the final play of the third period. The ball, after a wild scramble, wound up in Ohio's possession on the Washington 27.

It took the Buckeyes, rated No. 3 in the nation, seven plays to score the winning touchdown with about three minutes gone in the final period. Hard-hitting senior halfback Don Clark, forced out of the game twice with injuries, carried two Washington players with him into the end zone for the winning touchdown.

Huskies Score Early
Washington scored early in the opening period on a 31-yard drive climaxed by fullback Don McKeta's 12-yard burst through the astonished Buckeye defense. George Fleming kicked the point after touchdown.

Late in the first period, Ohio got its first big break as substitute Washington quarterback Phil Borders' pass bounced off the hand of the intended receiver into the hands of Buckeye Fullback Bob White on the Washington 28.

Seven rushing plays later, with White carrying five times, Ohio scored its first touchdown, Jerry Fields slipping over from a foot out with 53 seconds remaining in the first period. Fields' attempt for the points after the touchdown was wrecked by End Lee Folkins, who downed Fields as he attempted to pass.

The Huskies, tasting defeat after two wins this season, outgained Ohio in net yards, 267-196, mostly on the passing of Quarterback Bob Hivner, who accounted for 69 yards on nine completed passes in 27 attempts.

Center Sparks 14-0 Win For Resurgent Oregon State

Corvallis—(UPI)—Resurgent Oregon State, sparked by a 50-yard touchdown run by center Bruce Hake on an intercepted pass, blanked the UCLA Bruins 14-0 in a Pacific Coast conference game Saturday to preserve Coach Tommy Prothro's record of never having lost a home game.

Hake, a 200-pound junior from Oceanside, Calif., who played only 28 minutes last season, picked off a pass from Don Long of UCLA on the second play of the second half and raced unmolested down the sidelines to score.

Oregon State, a disappointment in its first two games, got its other touchdown in the first half on an 84-yard drive sparked by halfback Paul Lowe, an old UCLA nemesis.

Hake also played a fine game on defense as the Oregon State line outplayed the UCLA forward wall. Tackle Ted Bates and guard Jim Brackins were other Oregon standouts in the line.

Oregon State had an alert pass defense, intercepting four UCLA aerials in all. Leon Criner, who alternated with Lowe at the tailback spot for Oregon State, grabbed off two of them.

UCLA Threatens
UCLA made its most serious scoring threat late in the final period when it drove 76 yards to the Oregon State five yards where it was stopped. Jim Steffen hit Jim Johnson on a pass just out of the end zone during the late stages of this drive.

UCLA drove 67 yards in the first half to the Oregon State 16 but wound up a yard short of a first down on a fourth down pass play.

Lowe, who two years ago led Oregon State to a 21-7 win over UCLA here, finally showed the stuff expected of him Saturday. During the first half 84-yard drive he carried the ball for 41 yards and passed to Jerry Doman for another 16. Lowe scored the touchdown from nine yards out.

Prothro, since coming to Oregon State from UCLA in 1955, has gone through 16 home games here and at Portland without defeat. Saturday's win was a special prize for the Beavers as it was their final scheduled game with UCLA due to the impending 1959 breakup of the PCC.

Oregon State now has a 1-1 mark in PCC play, it was UCLA's first conference game.

Hake was placed in a starting role after the death two weeks ago from leukemia of Buzz Randall, Oregon State All-Coast center of last season.

New York—(UPI)—In one of the closest finishes in Belmont Park's long history, Outer Space, a bay filly owned by Mrs. G. S. Smith, beat off three challengers in the stretch Saturday to win the $70,300 Beldame Handicap by a nose.

Calumet Farm's A-Glitter, who led the field by a head entering the stretch, finished second, a head before the King Ranch's Dotted Line, who in turn was only a neck ahead of Rare Treat at the end of the mile and one-eighth run.

Outer Space, who had a running mate in Alanesian, was timed in 1:49 2/5 and the entry returned $21.90, $9.90 and $7.20. A Glitter, one-half of the Calumet entry along with Rosewood, paid $13.80 and $8.80, while Dotted Line returned $7.00.
