

CAVE JUNCTION New Stop Signs Advised

By RUTH RAUSCH
Cave Junction—An inspection trip made here this week by a representative of the State Highway Traffic Safety department resulted in a decision to remove the one standard stop sign which stands in the center of the intersection of the Redwood and Caves highways. Rubber stop signs are to be placed on the center stripe on each entrance to the intersection. In addition, a standard stop sign will be placed on each corner for both north and south traffic turning from Caves highway into Redwood highway.

The state traffic representative stated the change would be made this month.

Secretary of State Mark Hatfield will be the principal speaker at the banquet for the delegates to the high school student council workshop which is to be held in Roseburg Oct. 20. Principal Vernon Larson will accompany the group attending from Illinois Valley.

The business meeting was a discussion of the coming toy sale. There will be another workshop day next Wednesday, Oct. 8, at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Brown from 10 a. m. to 3 p.m. Pot luck lunch will be served. Work project will be stuffed toys for the toy, baked food and rummage sale to be Nov. 21 and 22.

The next meeting, Oct. 15, at the home of Mrs. V. Kirk in O'Brien, will be a Halloween party with pot luck and games.

Hostess, Mrs. Musil served refreshments of sandwiches, fruit salad, coffee and tea.

The first American Legion Auxiliary pinocle party for the fall season will be a free party held in the Legion hall Saturday, Oct. 11. Refreshments will be served. This announcement was made at the regular business meeting of the Auxiliary Wednesday night.

The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual report. The Family Council does not give advice; it merely reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Barbara R. - I like to go Dutch with Peter.

Mrs. L. R. - She makes a doormat of herself.

Barbara R. - I am 22 years old and for the past year I have been seeing a medical student a few years older. So far we are just friends. We both go out with others. However, I do think I like Peter best. He has suggested marriage, but he said it would be many years before he would be able to marry.

When we go out together we always go Dutch. Peter's folks have barely enough to see him through school. He picks up some money at odd jobs, but needs it for books and clothing. I think it's only right that I should pay my own way.

My mother is very conventional and objects to this. She thinks a man doesn't respect you if you make things too easy for him. I think her attitude is just awful.

Mrs. L. R. - I think going out Dutch is all right for very young teen-agers, but by the time a man and woman are old enough to marry, the man should take over his proper role.

I know for a fact Peter takes advantage of Barbara's good nature. I have heard that when he goes out with other girls he does treat them. I have a feeling that when he is short of money he goes out with Barbara because she pays her own way. I also suspect Barbara has lent him some money.

It annoys me that Barbara seems always ready to make a doormat of herself for certain boys who don't appreciate her. The ones who treat her well and show her every consideration can't make any headway with her.

The Council: We think the Dutch treat is a fine institution under the right circumstances. But it appears that, in this case, Mrs. L. R. has a few valid objections. She is not taking a purely "conventional" point of view.

However, Mrs. L. R. may misinterpret Barbara's attitudes. Far from making a "doormat" of herself, Barbara appears to be trying to assert her power by taking more upon herself than is customary in a man-woman relationship.

The reasons for her doing this may be somewhat complex. Barbara may find it worth her while to think about it a bit before she becomes seriously involved in any relationship with a man.

A woman with Barbara's inclinations might easily wind up with a man who is quite dependent upon her. She may like this at first, but in time she could come to resent it, or an unpleasant rivalry might develop between her and her husband.

We think Barbara ought to try to concentrate her attention on some work or skill as a means to the power she seeks. This will give her more confidence in herself and she will be less bent on getting power over human beings. Then she will be able to enjoy the company of men who are as interested in giving as they are in receiving.
