

Civic Music Association Launches Membership Drive

Music enthusiasts from all parts of the valley gathered for a dinner in the Jackson hotel last night to launch the annual membership campaign of Jackson County Civic Music Association. With two outstanding attractions already booked—the famous soprano, Blanche Thebom and the widely known dance team of Goya and Matteo—officials and workers displayed confidence that the annual task of enrolling members for the association would be successful.

Seth M. Bullis, association chairman, presided and explained that because outstanding artists are now booked more than a year in advance, it has become necessary for the association to sign up one or two concert artists in advance of the driver, rather than waiting until it is completed as was done for many years.

This year the dance team of Goya and Matteo was available in October and the board booked the pair for Monday, October 13. Since the auditorium at Medford Senior High school is undergoing renovations, they will appear at Hedrick Junior High school. Later in the season the concerts will be held in the senior high school auditorium as usual.

John Udry, representative of the Civic Concert Service, Inc., is here to conduct the annual campaign and spoke briefly last night. He stressed that the campaign lasts but a week and will close Saturday, October 11, at 5 p.m. No single admissions are available for any concert. The Ashland drive deadline is Friday. Mrs. Karl Peterson is drive chairman for Ashland with Mrs. Edla Peterson assisting.

Mr. Udry stressed that receipts must be given this year since these, or cards mailed to members who renewed early, must be used for admittance to the first concert next Friday night.

Louis Clayton, faculty member of Southern Oregon college, sang a group of four songs, accompanied by Miss Helene Robinson. Miss Robinson also announced a piano concert will be presented at Southern Oregon college Sunday, November 16, at Churchill hall without charge.

Mr. Bullis introduced the drive chairman, Mrs. Paul J. Dix, who spoke briefly. Mrs. Lyle Schoppert and Ray Lewis were dinner chairmen.

Also introduced were Mrs. Leland Mentzer and Mrs. W. H. Arnold. Medford, and Oscar Bjorlie, Ashland, board members.

Sorcerer's Omelet

To make this authoritative omelet start with 4 slices of bacon cut into tiny bits. Place a skillet or omelet pan over a medium high flame and fry the bacon bits until they are crisp. Add a scallion or two cut into small pieces, 1/2 teaspoon of salt, 1/2 teaspoon Tabasco sauce and 1 cup shrimp cut into pieces about the size of peas. Toss vigorously, keeping the heat quite high. When the shrimp is pink and fluffy, add 6 eggs which have been slightly beaten with 11/2 teaspoons curry powder. Cook the omelet fast, roll it dramatically out of the pan and serve to 4 hungry people. Cool beer and green salad are nice accompaniments.

When ironing tablecloths, press the center crease only. All other folds are best made by hand, because ironed creases do not lie flat on the table.

When the man around your house claims you, according to Mrs. Holmes, it's probably for one of several reasons.

You wear him down with your monologues; you don't pay attention when he talks and silence is his way of reciprocating; you interrupt when he talks, and plain discourage him.

Or, you commit the sin of sins by greeting him at night by saying:

"Your mother is filling for divorce and your brother was arrested this morning. Why don't you ever tell me anything?"

Part of the trouble also stems from the fact that the wife is in the house all day and hubby is at the office.

Mrs. Holmes says women cooped up all day with one-sided agonies of soap operas are at a loss for oral stimuli and, so naturally, they can hardly wait to get a real live husband within earshot.

But poor hubby, in his quest for the day's bacon in the business world, runs into such a barrage of words from nine to five that all he wants to pursue when he gets home is a little peace and a lot of quiet. He clams up for sheer escape.

AMA Booklet Explains Why Husbands Don't Talk

But men should understand that women are just born talkers. Mrs. Holmes said. Any pediatrician will tell you girl babies learn to talk quicker than boys.

"With a head start like that, we'd be fools to stop," she added.

When a wife just can't stand the silence of her mate a minute longer, Mrs. Holmes suggested meditating on the following:

"Talk they say, is cheap; silence, golden; actions speak louder than words. Maybe the real pitch of this whole man-woman relationship lies in what isn't said."

Nasser To Tell Of Reorganization

Cairo—UPI—President Gamal Abdel Nasser was expected today to announce a long-heralded reorganization of his government, following the resignation under fire of its chief Syrian official.

The semi-official Mideast News Agency predicted Monday night that the announcement will come today—and that it will include the news that Syrian Vice President Sabri el Assali has been dropped from the lineup.

The central government will include three vice presidents. They are planning Minister Abdel Latif el Baghdadi, War Minister Gen. Abdel Hakim Amar and Syrian Justice Minister Akram Hourani.

Although the agency mentioned no other names, it was considered certain that Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi will retain his post.

The effect of the cabinet reshuffle will be to tighten Cairo's control over Syria. In the present government, most departments are headed by two ministers, one Egyptian and one Syrian, with no control except that provided by Nasser's palace staff.

Assall announced Monday that he had resigned, as a result of reports that he had conspired with the late King Faisal to unite Syria and Iraq.

Responding to the gifts and congratulations, Mr. Bowmer said he was "deeply touched" and added that he faced the future with every confidence that the new theater would be the fulfillment of the desires of festival workers and patrons and that it would see finer plays than were ever produced on the old stage.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Allen Jr. of Medford were chairman of the dinner.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture says a tomato powder soon may be on the market. The powder mixes readily with water to make a juice for use in sauces, soups, and dry mixes. Dry, it can be stored indefinitely without refrigeration.

Although the congressman had a history of heart trouble, he had been campaigning actively for reelection.

He was opposed by Democrat Robert W. Levering of Mount Vernon, the same man he defeated two years ago.

Potatoes With Dill

Cook tiny potatoes in their skins over a high flame for 15 minutes. Combine 1 can condensed cream of chicken soup with 1 can of potato water and heat thoroughly over a medium flame. Add the skinned potatoes and cook about 5 minutes, or until they are heated through. Serve in a warm dish, sprinkle generously with fresh dill chopped in 1/4 inch pieces.
