

New Justice of Supreme Court Faces Scrutiny

Washington - (UPI) - Potter Stewart, the new Supreme Court appointee, was certain today to undergo careful scrutiny by Southern senators before winning confirmation to the nation's top tribunal.

Sen. Spessard H. Holland (D-Fla.) indicated he and other Southern senators would take a long hard look at Stewart's record when he comes before the Senate next session.

President Eisenhower late Tuesday named the 43-year-old judge of the U. S. Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit to succeed Justice Harold H. Burton on the Supreme Court. Burton retires next Monday.

Except for Justice William O. Douglas who was appointed at the age of 40, Potter is the youngest man named to the court in 105 years. Initial reaction to the appointment was favorable.

Southern legislators, however, were believed certain to scan Stewart's past record for indications of his rulings on integration and states rights issues.

There was no immediate indication whether any significant opposition to the confirmation would arise.

Followed Court's Decision
The rangy, handsome judge from Cincinnati, Ohio, wrote a concurring opinion in an integration case involving a group of Negroes who wanted to attend a previously all-white school in southern Ohio.

His opinion closely followed the Supreme Court's 1954 school integration decision. A close friend said Stewart had a "fairly conservative viewpoint without being a stand-patter. He is a progressive conservative who believes in the American system in the things which have made the country strong."

Man on Way to 20-Mile Altitude

Alamogordo, N.M. - (UPI) - A giant plastic balloon soared toward a 20-mile high destination today with an airman aboard as the much delayed Man-High III project got underway.

Lt. Clifton M. McClure, 26, a jet pilot from Anderson, S. C., was the lone passenger in what Air Force authorities called a "perfect" takeoff.

The Air Force hopes the balloon will reach the edge of outer space. The long awaited launching followed a wind collapse of another balloon Tuesday when a sudden gust of wind spilled it across its desert launching site.

Air Force officials said the balloon was drifting slowly south and southwest in almost calm conditions. They said it might come down over Albuquerque Thursday morning, after more than 24 hours aloft at a 100,000 foot altitude.

Net Farm Income In Oregon Declines

Corvallis - (UPI) - An Oregon State College farm economist reported today that net farm income in Oregon in 1957 was down 11 per cent from the previous year at $147,500,000.

Mrs. Elvera Horell, said that was the lowest total net farm income in the state since 1954. Averaged out on a per-farm basis, each farm operator in Oregon earned an average net farm income of $2684 last year, compared to $2946 in 1956.

Mrs. Horell reported, however, that the first seven months of this year show an increase in receipts from sales of farm produces of nearly 9 per cent over the same months in 1957. Both crop and livestock receipts show gains.

Headache Remedy Sales Up in Arkansas

Raleigh, N. C. - (UPI) - A headache remedy manufacturer says sales have "skyrocketed" at Little Rock, Ark.

State Veterinarian Resigns; Raps Steward Administration

Salem - (UPI) - Dr. Kermit J. Peterson, state veterinarian, resigned Tuesday and Agriculture Director Robert J. Steward said he would accept the resignation.

In his letter of resignation, Dr. Peterson said that "under the present administration it is impossible for me to conduct a sound animal disease program or a sound meat inspection program."

He continued: "The conducting of such programs is the duty of the state veterinarian and when conditions exist which do not allow proper protection to the livestock industry and the people of Oregon, I no longer feel that I should remain."

Elderly Tillamook Hunter Sought

Tillamook - (UPI) - A search party of Tillamook county sheriff's officers, state forestry personnel and volunteers set out at dawn today to continue a hunt in the Walter Tree Farm area south of here for an elderly Tillamook man reported lost on Monday.

Frank Sullivan, about 70, was reported missing by his family when he failed to return home after a one-day deer hunting trip about five miles south of Tillamook.

Two Norman Wilson bloodhounds from Dallas were to be used today, weather permitting. Searchers said the dogs were on the man's trail Tuesday but lost the scent when it began to rain.

Lebanon Forces To Leave Soon

Washington - (UPI) - The State Department announced today that "barring unforeseen developments," all U.S. military forces will be withdrawn from Lebanon by the end of this month.

The announcement said the "current unrest" in Lebanon "appears to have essentially domestic origins," unlike the outside interference which caused the United States last July 15 to heed the plea of then President Camille Chamoun for American military forces to bolster his tottering regime.

"In view of the progress made toward more stable international conditions in the area," the department said, "it has been concluded that United States forces can now be totally withdrawn from Lebanon."

"It is the confident hope of the United States government that the republic of Lebanon, its sovereignty and independence strengthened, will move forward in unity, peace and prosperity."

Storyteller First On Knife, Fork Schedule for Year

A master storyteller spoke at the first fall meeting of the Rogue River Valley Knife and Fork club Tuesday evening at the Rogue Valley Country club.

Speaking to a capacity audience, Mrs. Emily Kimbrough, author-speaker and managing editor of the Ladies Home Journal, told of "Further Confessions of a Scapegoat."

She explained that all the experiences she writes about in her various books have actually happened to her and regards herself as a member of a fraternity of scapegoats, victims of the ignominious for whom life is a series of "dismal surprises."

Foreign Language
Mrs. Kimbrough stressed the importance of having knowledge of a foreign language while traveling abroad and added that children in the United States should be taught to master English as well as another language.

H. D. Christensen, president, introduced the speaker and persons at the speaker's table. They included Mrs. Dan A. Hull, entertainment chairman, and Mr. Hull, Archie C. Pierce, vice president, and Mrs. Pierce, and Mrs. Christensen.

Four out of town guests were present. Other speakers scheduled by the club during the year include Dr. Walter H. Judd, William Clyde Donald II, Cy Radcliffe, Philip Geary, and Dr. John Furbay.

Explorer IV Signals Stop

Washington - (UPI) - The Army's Explorer IV satellite, launched July 26, has stopped sending signals back to earth, the government's Space Agency announced Tuesday.

This left the U.S. Vanguard I, launched March 17, and Russia's Sputnik III, launched May 15, as the only satellites still broadcasting.

Explorer I is still orbiting. But it lost its voice Feb. 28, about a month after its launching Jan. 31.

Explorer IV's tracking transmitter stopped sending signals Sept. 9. The other transmitter stopped sending scientific information Sept. 22 but continued to broadcast another signal. This one was victims of the ignominious, Monday by the tracking station at Antofagasta, Chile.

Vanguard I is transmitting on power supplied by the sun. It is expected to continue sending back signals as long as the satellite stays in orbit, perhaps 200 years.

Army-Navy War Game Scheduled

San Francisco - (UPI) - More than 25,000 soldiers and sailors will begin gathering at West Coast ports late this month in preparation for the biggest Army-Navy amphibious exercise since 1950.

Named Exercise Rocky Shoals, the maneuver will send 13,000 troops from 19 Army posts and 40 Navy ships ashore along a 30-mile stretch of the central California coastline Nov. 5.

Troops will hit the beach from helicopters and landing craft. The maneuver will use simulated atomic weapons in the first evaluation by the Army of its "pentomic" organization in an amphibious assault.

Navy ships will depart from San Diego and Long Beach Oct. 20 headed for Puget Sound, Wash., ports, where troops will go aboard from Fort Lewis Oct. 26-30. Nov. 5 is "D-day" on the beaches of San Simeon, Calif., and the maneuvers will continue until Nov. 10 in the Hunter Liggett Military reservation, Camp Roberts and the Hearst ranch at San Simeon.

Eisenhower to Get Giant Birthday Card

Washington - (UPI) - Republicans will extend good wishes to President Eisenhower on his 68th birthday Oct. 14 with a giant birthday card.

The card, expected to be larger than the average-sized door, will be presented to the President at a birthday breakfast here. It will bear the signatures of hundreds of GOP leaders and workers from every state and U.S. territories and possessions, as well as of the 650 persons expected to attend the celebration.

Washington - (UPI) - Factory employment showed a "modest improvement" in August, the Labor Department reported Monday. Layoffs declined instead of rising as is usual in August, and hiring increased, the department said.

Television Turns Boy Into Zombie, Father Complains To London Court

London - (UPI) - A father complained to a magistrate's court Tuesday that his son had turned into a zombie—the living dead—because he did nothing except watch television.

The magistrate ordered the boy to undergo psychiatric treatment in hopes it would cure his television sickness.

Names of the 16-year-old boy and the parents were withheld because he is a juvenile.

Has No Control
The father took him into the magistrate's court Tuesday and said he no longer had any control over his son who has watched television "all and every day" since he left school last February.

"He has been reduced to the state of a zombie," the father said, and because of television caught a "sickness requiring treatment."

"Please," the father pleaded with the court, "make him cooperate with the doctors." He said his son had refused his own orders to do so and was living in a strange, isolated world of the walking dead.

"He won't get away from the television set," the father said. "He has no other interest in life. He does not even want pocket money because

UNFIT INVITATION

London - (UPI) - The Soviet Embassy rejected an invitation to attend the Piccadilly Theatre premiere of "Shadow of Heroes," a story of the Hungarian rebellion. Daily Express critic John Barber said the embassy "did not merely decline. It sent back the invitation, Eisenhower fashion, as unfit to be considered."
