Pope Pius XII Passes in Sleep; Church Bells Toll

New Pope To Be Named at Conclave

Castel Gandolfo, Italy—(AP)—Pope Pius XII died peacefully in his sleep early today. A few hours later, a plenary conference of cardinals elected Benedetto Cardinal Aosis Masella as camerlengo or papal chamberlain.

In that role, he becomes acting temporal leader of the Roman Catholic church until a new pope is chosen. He wields some of the powers of the Sacred College of Cardinals in its name until that time.

The election of a Camerlengo was one of the first major moves by sorrowing dignitaries of the church in setting in motion the age-old ritual leading to the successor to Pius XII, the 82-year-old "Pope of Peace" who reigned for 19 years, seven months and seven days.

Church bells tolled and signs of mourning were donned throughout the Catholic world. Messages of condolences poured in from political and religious leaders of all denominations, for the late pope was not only the spiritual and temporal head of Roman Catholicism but a diplomat and statesman of universal standing.

Cardinals Will Meet
In addition to electing the camerlengo, the cardinals also appointed Msgr. Alberto di Iorio as secretary of the Sacred College of Cardinals. This means that di Iorio will hold the key post of secretary of the Conclave of Cardinals Oct. 24 and 27 to elect a new pope.

Cardinal Aloisi Masella is the 79-year-old archbishop of the Roman Basilica of St. John in Lateran and prefect of the Sacred Congregation of the Discipline of the Sacraments.

It now falls to the new camerlengo to take the responsibility for all the organization of the nine days of events leading up to the funeral of Pope Pius XII, the conclave and the eventual enthronement of the new pope.

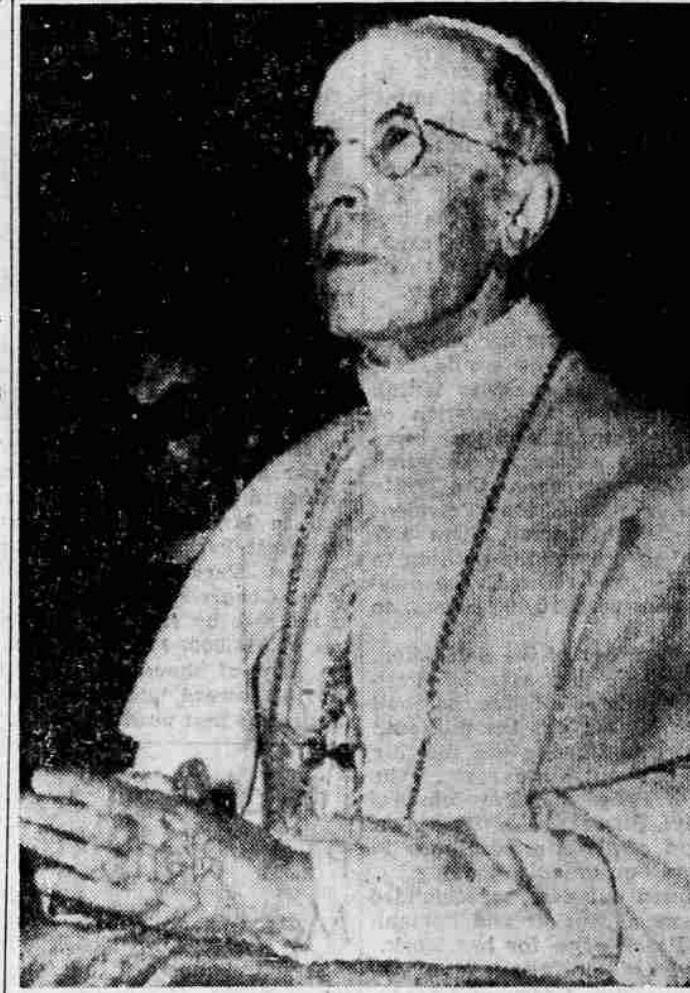

Hasten To Rome
The camerlengo was chosen by the 12 or so cardinals now here, who had to act immediately under the guidance of Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, dean of the sacred college. Meanwhile, most of the other of the world's 55 cardinals hastened toward Rome for the solemn conclave.

The body of the late Pope Pius XII, austere and kindly of face even in death, still lay in the room where he died at 3:52 a.m. (6:52 p.m. p.s.t. Wednesday) of a second stroke and heart and lung complications.

Later in the day, it was to be moved from the plain bedchamber on the second floor of the papal summer palace into the hall of the Swiss guards. There Pius XII will lie in state until 2 p.m. Friday when the body will be transported to Rome.

Vatican embalmers gave the Pope's body injections this morning and prepared it for the nine days of solemn ceremony before it is laid to rest in the grottoes of St. Peter's Basilica close to the tomb of the first pope, St. Peter.

In the room where the Pope died, his body lay on a shiny brass bed. It was dressed in flowing white robes, topped by the ermine-lined scarlet "mozzetta" or cape. The top of the head was covered by a scarlet camauro, also trimmed with white ermine, which fitted closely around the ears and left only the face exposed. (See stories on Pages 9, 10, 11)

Planners To Hold Special Meeting on Refuse Ordinance

A special county planning commission meeting to further consider a proposed garbage disposal ordinance will be held Oct. 29, at 8 p.m., in the county courthouse, it was decided at last night's meeting.

It was decided also to invite representatives of the local traffic association and the fruit growers association to attend the meeting to discuss regulations on pear cull disposal. Commissioners Robert Boyer and Stewart V. (Duke) McQueen said representatives of other industries which may be affected by waste disposal regulations should also be called in.

Planning commission members agreed that an order should be obtained from the county court specifying "how far the commission could go" on the proposed ordinance.

Letter Sought
A letter should be obtained from the City Sanitary Service in Medford stating in writing the company's agreement to certain rules on operation of the disposal site near Jacksonville, the commission agreed.

McQueen insisted the proposed ordinance should be "a simple thing."

State law merely makes recommendations as to the type of regulations on garbage disposal, Boyer pointed out. It is up to the county court to set up and enforce a set of regulations, he said. There is nothing in the state law which says all refuse must be covered, it merely recommends, Boyer stated.

Site Fillings
In the section dealing with filling garbage sites, the terms land fill or sanitary land fill should be specified, commissioner Jerry Latham suggested. This would give the county court a little leeway in enforcement of the ordinance, he explained. A sanitary fill would mean that the garbage disposal agency would have to fill dirt in over the garbage the same day as dumped. Circumstances such as weather may delay such operations, he said.

Applying the proposed regulations to cover all waste disposal is "too big a step to take in one stride," McQueen said. This would also include bark on a log deck and the pear culls not eaten by pigs, it was pointed out.

Definition of a dump should be redefined, Boyer suggested. The whole thing is too broad and too inclusive, McQueen argued.

Location Distance
The section specifying the distance a dump should be located from a dwelling might halt development, Commissioner John Niedermeyer pointed out. This could mean a garbage dump would form an island as business, industrial and residential districts sprung up around it, he said.

Sections concerning separation of types of garbage and cleanliness of container is a matter between the collector and his customer, Niedermeyer said. This was directed to be eliminated from the proposed ordinance. Only a metal garbage can should be specified, it was agreed.

Members of the planning commission who are farmers, disagreed at a provision which stated all refuse dumped by a farmer on his own land should be covered with 18 inches of top soil. Some areas do not have that much top soil, Chairman Ed Gebhard pointed out. This provision was modified.

Committee Visits
Latham reported that his committee visited various garbage dumps in the county and also looked at a recreation site on the Applegate. Instructions should be obtained from the county court on what the recreation committee is expected to do, he added.

Members of the county court and the garbage dump inspection committee checked several dumps, Commissioner Ed Strother, committee chairman, reported. He said he was not favorably impressed with the Ashland garbage dump. An attempt was made to burn the paper but the rest of the garbage was shoved off into a canyon not far from a stream which could be polluted.

The garbage dump at the county's southern boundary line on the Siskiyou is an unsightly fire hazard, Strother reported. This will probably be cleaned up when the state highway department can get in and burn, it was explained.

'Good Job'
The garbage dump operated by the City Sanitary Service near Jacksonville looks like the collection agency is "doing a pretty good job," Strother reported. A series of excavations are being dug and a tractor is being run over the refuse to mash it down. This will be covered with dirt, Strother said. Some salvage material is scattered around the rim of the excavation work and may harbor rats, the commissioner reported. However, he said he did not see any.

The prospect garbage dump is infested with white rats, it was reported. A family had left a couple of pets on the garbage pile just before it moved away. They have multiplied greatly since then, a commission member explained. Shady Cove, Eagle Point, Rogue River and Gold Hill also have garbage dumps. Grants Pass sanitary service serves both Gold Hill and Rogue River. Ashland and Medford have the other privately owned garbage collection agencies, Strothers said.

Ramp Plan Favored By Merchants Group

Medford's Retail Merchants' committee today formally approved the "Keeney Plan" for municipal off-street parking and asked the Jackson Medford's Retail Merchants County Chamber of Commerce to work on it next year.

The "Keeney Plan" calls for a multi-level parking platform straddling the Southern Pacific railroad tracks downtown. It has been developed over a five-year period by Robert J. Keeney, Medford architect.

The area necessary for the structure would be leased from the railroad. Several sources of capital, both public and private, are reportedly available to finance it.

Negotiations Start
According to Keeney, the city has begun negotiations with the SP on leasing terms. He said today the railroad has been "very cooperative."

But he declined to discuss financing arrangements himself.

Mayor John W. Snider, speaking at today's meeting, assured those present that if the city should operate the proposed facility it would not compete with private lots.

"It is not the city's interest," he said, "to engage in business in competition with private enterprise."

Otto Frohnmayer, president of the chamber, said he thought the "Keeney Plan" has "a lot of merit to it."

He said the cost appeared to be "absolutely at a minimum."

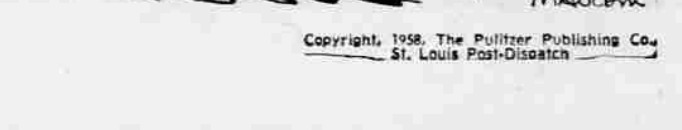

Keeney presented his plan to the city council a week ago and to the chamber of commerce roundtable Monday noon. He reviewed the plan again today.

The vote on Clifford Lovejoy's motion approving the plan was unofficially 32-0.

Chiang Kai-Shek Claims Victory In Quemoy Fight

Taipei, Formosa—(UPI)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek said tonight that the Chinese Nationalists had won the first round in the battle of Quemoy and had checked Communist designs on Southeast Asia.

The Nationalist President said U.S.-Nationalist cooperation in breaking the Chinese Communist artillery blockade of the Quemoy offshore islands had had "a stabilizing effect on the Far Eastern situation as a whole."

People Warned
"We have exposed Communist weaknesses to the world and have called their bluff," Chiang said.

But he warned his people that "we must be prepared to carry on a war of attrition against the Communists so as to destroy their military potential, disintegrate their puppet organizations and liquidate Communist traitors."

Chiang spoke in a broadcast marking Friday's 47th anniversary of the founding of the Republic of China. His speech was beamed to all Asia, including Red China.

Won't Negotiate
Vice President Chen Cheng said earlier that Nationalist China will not negotiate with the Communists on the Formosa crisis, and urged the U.S. to break off its Warsaw talks with the Reds.

Chen told a cabinet meeting that the Communists hope to win at the conference what they have been unable to gain on the "battlefield"—the abandonment of the outpost islands of Quemoy and Matsuo to their fate.

Two Stores Entered In Talent, Phoenix

Two stores in the Talent-Phoenix area were entered Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, according to Jackson county sheriff's deputies today.

Entered were the Talent Feed store, Old Pacific highway, and Midkiff market, 501 North Main st., Phoenix. Nothing was reported missing from either store, deputies said.

The Talent building was entered by breaking the glass in a side door. The market also was entered through a window in the automobile repair part of the building, where tools were taken to break windows in the food store.

Steward to Seek Replacement for Peterson in NW

It will take some time to recruit "a top man" to replace Dr. K. J. Peterson, state veterinarian, Robert Steward, director of the state department of agriculture, told the Mail Tribune yesterday.

In a telephone interview, Steward said he will search the Pacific Northwest, and if necessary, the nation, for the type of man wanted to replace Peterson, who resigned this week.

"If there are partisan political undertones I have not observed them," Steward said. "However, the Oregon veterinarians may be taking advantage of the political climate to advance their cause. This may have come a month before the general election largely on the presumption that the issue would get more attention at this time."

Steward said also that Peterson was influenced in his resignation by Clarence Milleson, Portland, president of the Oregon Veterinarians Medical association, and Walter Steele, another Portland veterinarian.

In spite of the controversy, the integrity of the state-wide brucellosis control and the meat inspection programs have not suffered, the agriculture department director emphasized.

Fries Elected to Festival Position

Ashland—A. C. Fries, Ashland, was elected president of the board of directors of the Oregon Shakespearean Festival association at the annual membership meeting here last night.

Eric W. Allen Jr., Medford, was elected vice president. Other officers are Rudolf E. Vest, Ashland, treasurer, and Mrs. Carl E. Wimberly Jr., Medford, secretary, both re-elected.

New board members are Dr. Duane Gillum, Ashland, and William Barker, Medford. Holdover board members are Phillip E. Gates, Ashland; A. C. Allen Jr., Eagle Point; and George V. Blue, Ashland.

The association announced that a total of 29,585 saw the four plays of the 1958 season, an increase of 21.6 per cent from the 1957 total of 24,338. Total receipts this season were $74,820, compared to $58,141 received last year, the association said.

Operating expenses during the past season totaled $61,993. The operational gain of $12,827 paid $3,669 in capital costs with the balance credited to reserves, board members noted.

The board accepted supplemental articles of incorporation designed to clarify status of the Festival for tax exemption purposes, and to assure that contributions to the organization are tax deductible.

Federal Jury May Get Case Late Today

The defense was expected to complete its presentation this morning in federal court in the case of Walter E. Wendgren, owner of Better Roofing company, Grants Pass, charged with income tax evasion.

The case is likely to go to the jury this afternoon. Wendgren testified yesterday afternoon he made what he thought were honest income tax statements.

None of the statements were returned during the years in question, he said. Also, no inquiries were made by the government during that time, he added.

"I did not make out tax returns with the intention of willfully cheating the government," the Grants Pass roofer testified from his wheelchair before the witness stand yesterday afternoon. He said after yesterday's session he was recovering from injuries received in an auto accident.

Elbert L. Mikesell, Grants Pass, attorney for Wendgren, brought out that Wendgren had never received help with his returns or his books during the period in question.

Wendgren was the only witness for the defense yesterday afternoon. He followed the last prosecution witness, William Webber Jr., Portland tax accountant.

Wendgren testified he gave the investigating agent all the records he had including the payroll records. He also showed him how he made estimates on various jobs and the books in which such estimates were made, the Grants Pass man testified.

Payments on a truck and on a building were not included in the list of expenses compiled by the investigating agent since the defendant was told they were personal expenses, Wendgren said. A number of items used in his business were not included in records, since he paid cash for them, he added.

Democrats' Drive Opens in County
Jackson county's "Dollars for Democrats" drive was launched at the monthly meeting of the Democratic Central committee at the party's headquarters in the Esquire theater last evening.

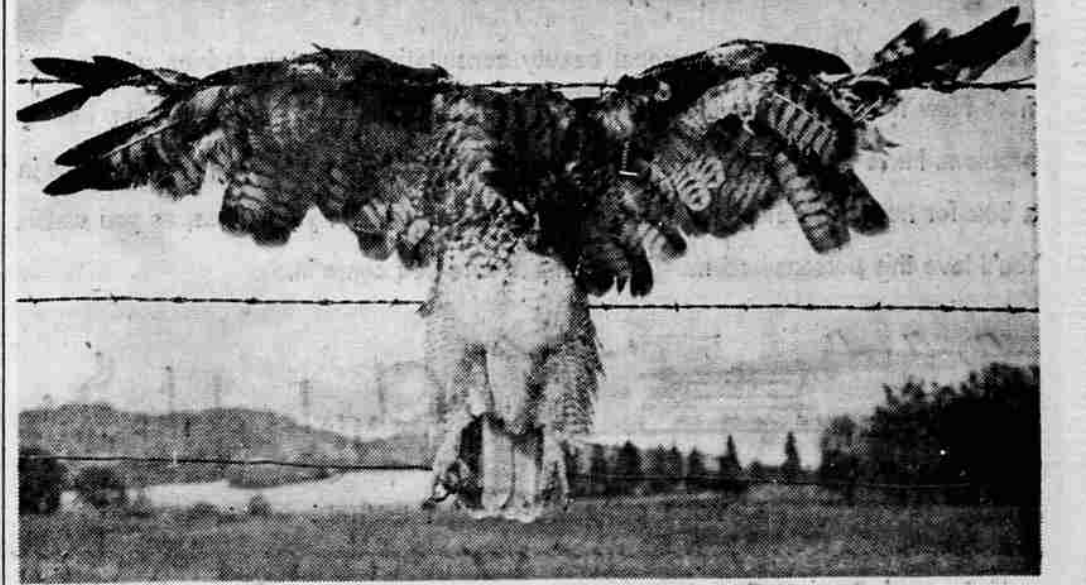

County Chairman James A. Redden announced that the door-to-door collection for the party will take place between Oct. 13 and 28, with precinct committeemen and other authorized workers participating.

K. C. (Swede) Wernmark, chairman of the drive, distributed certificate books and official badges for the workers. The identifying badge for collectors is a bright green square with black lettering reading: "Don't Pass the Buck—Give a Buck to Your Party. I am (Name), Your Authorized Dollars for Democrats Collector." Across the bottom is printed "Official Badge" flanked by stars.

Redden warned that only those wearing the official badge are authorized to collect money in the door to door campaign. Volunteer workers may be authorized by calling Wernmark, No. 4-2286. Anyone not contacted by the committee who would like to contribute may mail contributions to Dollars for Democrats Committee, box 421, Central Point, Redden said.

HAWK KILLED—This large hawk, apparently the victim of a sharp-shooting resident who has been losing chickens lately, hangs outstretched on a barbed wire fence along Sams Valley road, as if to warn other hawks of their possible fate. It is likely that the bird is a Swainson's hawk, which often has a wingspread of three feet or more. While the picture was being snapped, another hawk circled nearby.
