

Moratorium on Nuclear Tests Under Attack

CONSTRUCTION TO START—Development of Medford's $1 1/2 million shopping center, located at Jackson st. and Biddle rd., will be in high gear within a week or so as construction crews and equipment are moved in, according to reports. Workmen have already laid out the corner forms (see arrows) for the 75,000 square foot Sears Roebuck and company building and erection of the construction office (foreground above) was expected to be completed Saturday. Going up at the same time as the Sears building will be a large Safeway store, located further east on the 28.3 acre plot. Construction of the project was held up this summer due to some changes in plans, but no further delays are anticipated, reports stated. Development of the center is the construction firm Buttress and McClellan, Inc., Los Angeles.

Unemployment Down by 588,000 During September

Washington — (UP) — Unemployment in the United States dropped by 588,000 in September to a 1958 low of 4,111,000, the government reported today.

A joint report by the Labor and Commerce departments said September saw "a significant improvement in the job situation," especially for men.

Million People View Procession To Eternal City

Saturday Starts Nine Days of Mourning

Vatican City — (UP) — Pope Pius XII returned in death to Vatican City tonight, mourned by millions and honored with all the panoply of the Roman Catholic church.

Body of Pope Pius Taken To Vatican

The body of the late pontiff crossed the border into the Vatican State as dusk was falling. It was borne in a long and solemn procession from Castel Gandolfo, where he died Thursday, into Rome and then across the Eternal City before the eyes of a million watchers.

Placed Before Altar

At precisely 6:06 p.m. (9:06 a.m. p.s.t.) members of the Sediari—the men who carried his ceremonial gestatorial chair in life—bore the Pope's casket through the portals of St. Peter's Basilica and placed it before the majestic Altar of the Confession.

The crimson-shrouded casket was laid on a catafalque in the heart of the great church—the largest in the world. Its arrival there was a prelude to nine days of mourning and funeral ceremonies of the church he headed for more than 19 years.

The nine days start Saturday. An immense procession, rich with the age-old forms of the church of Rome and the honors of state, escorted the pontiff's body to the basilica through streets packed with Romans and visitors.

The silence of the throngs and the immensity of their number as the cortege carried the Pope's body from the Basilica of St. John in Lateran to St. Peter's Square in Vatican City was accentuated by the tolling bells of the many churches of the Eternal City.

Here, inside the great Basilica of St. Peter's prayers for the Pope will be said and the final rites and ceremonies will be followed as the body lies in state in full regalia for the veneration of the thousands who will file past the bier.

On Monday, the 82-year-old pontiff will be buried in the vaults beneath the church. (See stories on page 9)

Nationalist, Red Planes in Dogfight

Taipei — (UP) — Chinese Nationalist Sabrejets, outnumbered more than three to one, shot down four Communist MIGs and damaged two today in a 25-minute dogfight near the Matsu outpost islands, the Nationalist Defense Ministry announced.

A fifth MIG and a Sabrejet collided and crashed in flames into the Formosa Strait, the ministry said, adding that no Sabres were shot down.

The Communist radio, describing what apparently was the same battle, said the Reds shot down two Sabrejets and damaged a third in a dogfight "over Fukien Province." The broadcast made no mention of Red losses.

Dulles, Two Others To Attend Pope's Rites

Gettysburg, Pa. — (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and two other prominent Americans were named by President Eisenhower today to represent him at the funeral of Pope Pius XII.

Accompanying Dulles will be Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, former Ambassador to Italy, and John A. McCone, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Mekvold Attending National Meeting

Alf B. Mekvold, Jackson county school superintendent, left Thursday for Minneapolis, Minn., to attend the week-long meeting of the 13th national conference of county and rural area superintendents.

Mekvold, president of the Oregon Association of School Superintendents, will lead a discussion on the topic of "Elements of Quality Education." Mekvold plans to return Oct. 21.

Wild Geese Possible Cause of Plane Crash

Air Force C123 Falls in Idaho; 19 Persons Die

Payette, Idaho — (UP) — An Air Force C-123 transport plane that crashed Thursday night killing 19 persons may have been disabled by a flock of geese, witnesses said today.

The plane, en route from Pope AFB, N.C., to McCord Field, Tacoma, Wash., plummeted to earth at dusk Thursday after it knifed through a formation of wild geese.

An explosion and fire followed the crash which occurred on the Claude Smith ranch about 10 miles east of this farming center on the Idaho-Oregon border.

Air Force officials withheld the casualty list pending identification of the bodies and notification of next of kin.

The plane had made a refueling stop at Hill AFB, near Ogden, Utah and had checked in with the Civil Aeronautics Administration tower at Boise, Idaho, less than a half hour before it came to grief. The Boise tower said no message was received from the plane indicating any difficulties. The CAA said the plane was on course for Tacoma when it crashed.

One of the eye witnesses, Eldro Gissell, who operates a ranch about four miles from the crash scene, said he saw the plane fly through a string of about 200 to 250 geese at an estimated height of about 2,000 feet. The area is on the north-south "flyway" for wild geese and other migrant wild fowl.

"The formation of geese broke up and the birds flew in all directions, honking wildly," Gissell related. "Then I heard the plane's engines stutter and the plane seemed to go into a stall and spin. For a brief moment, the engines roared wide open and the plane seemed to pull up. Then it knifed down toward the ground. A moment later I heard the explosion."

Displays Planned At Candidates Fair

Maps of the Rogue river basin and projected recreational areas, architectural drawings of the detention home, county farm buildings, and the recent off-street parking proposal in Medford, are among wall displays planned at the Candidates Fair at Hedrick Junior High school gymnasium next Friday.

The Fair is being sponsored by the Medford League of Women Voters, and is being planned so voters may meet state, county and city candidates and obtain information concerning measures which will appear on the Nov. 4 general election ballot.

Mrs. Thomas Rutter, chairman of the League's voter service committee, said booths will include a "later I-Q test," a United Nations booth, and a straw ballot operated by radio station KMED, which will be broadcast from the Fair.

The Voters' Information Sheet, prepared by the state League of Women Voters, will be on sale for 10 cents per copy. The sheet contains pro and con information material on measures on the November ballot.

The Fair will start at 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 17. Meanwhile, Gov. Robert D. Holmes has confirmed that he will attend the Candidates' Fair. He and Mrs. Holmes will arrive in Medford Friday morning, Oct. 17, and leave Saturday morning.

The Holmes' schedule includes a luncheon in Grants Pass, a safety award presentation at the Medford YMCA, a tea for Mrs. Holmes at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duncan, a tour of local mills, a dinner sponsored by the Democratic Social club, and a breakfast at the home of Gordon Hudson on Saturday morning.

Grants Pass Man Found Innocent By Federal Jury

A federal court jury found Walter E. Wendgren, Grants Pass, innocent of income tax evasion late Thursday following two hours of deliberation.

Wendgren, owner of the Better Roofing company, Grants Pass, was represented by Elbert L. Mikesell, Grants Pass attorney, in the trial which started Tuesday.

The jury of eight women and four men was empaneled Tuesday, along with another jury which is scheduled Monday to hear the case of the U. S. Government versus Robert Doland, Grants Pass, U. S. Attorney Robert Snashall, Portland, will present the government's case with Lawrence Aschenbrenner, Grants Pass, attorney for the defense.

Three witnesses appeared for the defense Wednesday and Thursday including Mr. and Mrs. Wendgren. More than 10 witnesses testified for the government.

The government charged that Wendgren filed a false return with the intent of defrauding the federal government. He was charged with filing three tax returns for the years 1951, 1952, and 1953, for $310 total when he should have paid $3,700.

O & C Fund Formula Change Discussed

An organizational meeting of 40 educators and interested persons from the 18 O and C counties was held in Roseburg Wednesday. The group discussed matters regarding proposed changes in the distribution formula by which O and C funds are distributed and matters where the basic school distribution formula is applied.

The group met to appoint a committee to study possible legislation which would reduce school monies to O and C counties where the basic school distribution formula is applied.

The 18 Oregon counties that receive O and C monies are opposed to proposed legislation approved by the state legislative education interim committee. One of the suggestions by the interim committee was to include 25 percent of O and C land receipts in the money to which the basic school distribution formula would apply. This would literally eliminate the equalized money received by the county from the state school support fund, it was reported.

Attending the meeting from Jackson county were County Judge Rodney Keating, member of the Association of O and C Counties; Dr. Leonard Mayfield, superintendent, Medford schools, who acted as chairman of the meeting; John Harr, superintendent, Rogue River; Glenn Hale, superintendent, Eagle Point; Alf B. Mekvold, Jackson county school superintendent; and Gerald Latham, school board member who attended as legislative member of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce.

A committee of nine persons were selected at the meeting to work with the Association of O and C counties on educational matters. Appointed from Jackson county were Dr. Mayfield and Latham.

A telegram was sent by the county court today to the O and C legislative committee meeting in Portland stating that the court is opposed to any change in the distribution of O and C timber sale receipts, members of the county court said.

With these statements, 25,000 booklets will be mailed. They include a summary of taxes, explanations of the ad valorem tax system, a summary of the codes, and levies of the taxing districts, the county assessor said.

The booklets are being mailed for the second year. They were mailed originally to acquaint the taxpayer with the operative procedures involved in the evaluation, processing and collection of taxes for taxing units, Schumacher explained.

Vancouver, Wash. — (UP) — Sale of the interests of Capt. A. Leppaluoto in Inland Navigation Company and seven other affiliated firms was announced here today by the purchasers. Financial consideration was believed to be in excess of $2 million.

Both Lodge and Zorin said in their prepared speeches they expected the Geneva meeting to be held.

Soviet Foreign Minister Derides Year's Suspension

All-or-Nothing Stand Seen Obvious

United Nations, N.Y. — (UP) — The Soviet Union today attacked a U.S.-British proposal for a one-year moratorium on nuclear weapons tests to begin when talks on the subject open in Geneva, Oct. 31.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerin Zorin said his country was ready to agree to suspend tests "for all time." But he derided the Anglo-American offer for an unconditional test suspension for a year.

Stand Obvious

He said the U.S. and British statements on this "are in effect negative."

Zorin made it obvious that, as of now, the Soviet Union was taking an all-or-nothing stand.

Zorin spoke to the 81-nation Main Political Committee of the General Assembly shortly after U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge opened the annual disarmament debate with an offer to disclose more secrets in future arms negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Conflicting Viewpoints

Lodge emphasized that the U.S. offer for a one-year halt to nuclear weapons testing starting with the Geneva talks was not conditioned on other aspects of disarmament but only on Soviet compliance. He said it would go on indefinitely each year as long as "we know the inspection system is working and we are making reasonable progress on other aspects of disarmament."

But he said the U.S. always had and would continue to insist on considering the permanent reduction of nuclear and conventional weapons together.

Speech Disappointing

Zorin called Lodge's speech "profoundly disappointing." He repeated Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's threat earlier this week that the Soviet Union would continue test explosions until it had caught up to the U.S. and Britain numerically.

And he indicated this might mean about 100 such explosions.

Both Lodge and Zorin said in their prepared speeches they expected the Geneva meeting to be held.
