TOPS ON THE RECORD SHELVES: "Originator," Columbia's 10th anniversary salute to LP, should be a collector's item in years to come. Stereo fans will find London's original edition of the complete Stravinsky "Petrouchka" ballet, as played by L'Orchestre de la Suisse Romande, a truly amazing performance. And for a pair of vocal delights, dig "The Best of Ella Fitzgerald," a double-disk release by Decca, and "Paris After Hours," with Vicky Autier, on Capitol.

MUSIC FOR FAMILY LISTENING: Let's roll back the rugs and dance. We'll tee off with "The New James," Capitol's showcase for the exciting Harry James and his swinging group. Now follow with RCA's "The Marvelous Miller Medleys" by the Glenn Miller orchestra. For a new sound, spin "Hits I Missed" by Ted Heath on London. It's in stereo. Decca has two strong entries in this class,

"Claude on a Cloud," with Claude Thornhill and his big sound, plus "Twelve Easy Lessons in Love" with Carmen Cavallaro toting the ball.

TUNING IN THE TEENS: There are some real gassers on hand for the jeaners this month. RCA's "Como's Golden Records" has some of the best tunes Perry ever put on shellac. Dot's Pat Boone continues his string of hits with "Star Dust," and, via the same label, "Billy Vaughn Plays the Million Sellers" is sure to please your listening circle. "A Guy in Love" will bring many fans back into Guy Mitchell's camp via Columbia.

COVERING THE CLASSICS: Classicists can have a wonderful time browsing through the many excellent new releases, in both monaural and stereo, now available. A pair you may want to review are "The Orchestra Sings," with Carmen Dragon conducting the Capitol Symphony, and the premiere American recording of Shostakovich's "Symphony No. 11," as played by the Houston Symphony under the baton of Leopold Stokowski, both on Capitol.

JAZZOMANIA: Andre Previn and his pals, Shelly Manne and Red Mitchell, have another blockbuster in their version of the music from "Gigi," a big one for Contemporary. For a vocal program, spin Mercury's "After Hours at the London House," an on-the-scene slicing by Sarah Vaughan. Capitol has a big bargain in "Popular Jazz Gold Album," spotlighting some of its top jazz names.

STEREO-SHOPPING: In addition to the stereo disks reviewed above, here are a few more "new-sound" releases to consider for your library—and don't forget, you can play these on a monaural system, too. London offers incidental music from Mendelssohn's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," by the London Symphony; the Paris Conservatoire Orchestra playing Chopin's "Les Sylphides" and Delibes' "La Source"; and Berlioz' "Symphonie Fantastique," with the Paris Conservatoire Orchestra.
