

Tunisia Charges UAR Trying To Dominate League

Cairo — (UPI) — Arab League leaders sought today to heal the rift—worst in the league's 13-year history—created by Tunisia's charge that the United Arab Republic is trying to dominate the organization.

UAR and Tunisian delegates walked out of Saturday's meeting of the league council. Assaad Al Fakih, the council's Saudi Arabian chairman, said he will try to persuade the UAR to return to today's session.

Tunisia will not be asked back, by what Al Fakih said was its own choice.

Boycotting Session
The Tunisian delegation decided to boycott the rest of the current session, whereas the UAR delegation withdrew only from Saturday's meeting, the Saudi leader said.

The Tunisian complaint caused turmoil here, highlighted by an unofficial threat to unleash on Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba the sort of bloodthirsty mobs that murdered Iraqi leader Nuri el Said in Baghdad in July.

Some newspapers charged that the Tunisian stand was the result of a "U. S. plot" against the league.

It was not certain immediately whether the league crisis would affect U. S. aid to this country, which is only just beginning to arrive for the first time since the Suez crisis of 1956.

ACCEPT SCIENTISTS
Washington — (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission has accepted 50 scientists and engineers from 18 foreign countries and seven Americans for enrollment at its International School of Nuclear Science and Engineering, it announced.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

AN AILING BUSINESSMAN had to consult a psychiatrist because of a strange obsession: he was convinced that every automobile he rode in was about to blow a rear tire.

The psychiatrist soothed him, and stretched him out to begin probing his subconscious. "You look quite comfortable now," he noted. "How do you feel?"

"I'll be great," the patient assured him, "if you'll let me get down on the floor and jack up this couch."

Francis Parkinson Keyes tells about the New Orleans gentleman who was reproached by old friends for shamefully neglecting his wife of 39 years. "Don't you love her any more?" asked one friend who believed in coming straight to the point. "I most certainly do love her," retorted the husband hotly, then added, "but I've sort of lost interest."

In the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS

The other night the people of the Klamath Basin came together at a dinner to do honor to Dick Neuberger and Tom Watters. Dick is Oregon's junior senator. Tom just completed a grueling term of service as the chairman and member closest to the spot of the Management Specialists group that has handled the complex and at times soul-trying job of termination of federal supervision of the Klamath Reservation as provided by Public Law 587, as finally amended.

In Oregon's long and honorable history, no two men have more richly deserved the thanks and the respect of their fellow citizens. Many good people helped with what turned out to be a staggering job. But Senator Neuberger and Management Specialists Chairman Watters carried the heavy end of the burden of responsibility.

The burden was heavy. The responsibility was great.

TOM WATTERS is my neighbor. I've known his habits for a long time. The load that came down on his shoulders when the secretary of the interior named him chairman of the Management Specialists group changed utterly his way of life.

It wasn't a pleasant change. He had to give up nearly everything he liked best to do. From May 2, 1955, when he was appointed, until August 25, 1956, when the job was completed, there was practically never a minute that he could call his own.

In those three years, Tom Watters became a DEDICATED man.

He dedicated himself WHOLLY to the job he had to do.

I've known Dick Neuberger ever since he was in college.

I opposed him in the campaign that resulted in his election as U. S. senator from Oregon.

I wasn't too much impressed by his first year in the senate.

But—There arose about then the necessity to amend Public Law 587 in order to make it fairer to all the Klamath Indians and less disastrous to the economy of the Klamath Basin and all of Oregon—especially Southern Oregon.

Senator Neuberger tackled the Washington end of the job. He made it his major interest.

Like Tom Watters, he became a dedicated man—dedicated to the greater welfare of the Klamath Indians, who were chiefly concerned, since the Klamath Reservation is THEIR heritage, and to the long-term best interests of his state.

He forgot politics and became a statesman.

OURS is a government of laws.

There are times when many of us fear it is trending toward a government of men.

But if we can keep the right kind of men in public service, we will have nothing to fear.

Philippine Navy Assists in Rescue

Manila—(UPI)—The Philippine navy today rushed two more ships to the Central Cebu Channel, southern Philippines' biggest sea disaster in 14 years.

The navy announced at noon today that rescue ships recovered 208 persons, "including 45 dead" from the 17-ton motor launch Princess of Madridejos.

The Princess of Madridejos was on its way from Cebu Island to nearby Masbate where the majority of passengers intended to celebrate a harvest feast, when the vessel capsized and sank.
