Local Business Not 'Milking Tourist', Speaker Declares

Local business is not "milking the tourist," a former president of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce said yesterday.

"The tourist trade," according to John H. Pietsch, manager of the Jackson County Federal Savings and Loan association, "is like a dairy cow. If you don't milk her, she'll go dry."

Pietsch, speaking at the chamber's weekly round-table luncheon at the Jackson hotel, described the tourist trade as "intangible" compared to a manufactured product.

He explained this by the fact that while lumber can be produced in measurable quantities for market sale, tourist spending is difficult to predict.

"Nobody wants to invest money in an intangible," he said.

Ashland's Attitude
Pietsch discussed Ashland's attitude toward the Shaker festival in its early years. "People shuddered," he said, "when they saw an actor or an actress walking down the street though they were their 'dinnerpail'."

He contrasted this to the growing recognition of the festival's significance to merchants and motel owners as well as to the theater's box office.

Now, he said, the problem is to provide sufficient daytime diversions for festival goers. "What do we do the rest of the day?" he said, a common complaint.

"We as merchants," Pietsch said, "must remember one thing—we must not belittle any activity."

Hypothetical Objection
Responding to the hypothetical objection that the "Keeney Plan" proposed downtown parking platform would be too big, he said, "Let's fill it."

He said there was a similar objection when the Medford airport was to be built and now it is "not big enough."

"We don't have two levels of planning—short term and long term," Pietsch said. "I am a little concerned," he concluded, "about the enthusiasm of those living in the Rogue river valley."

Grants Pass Man Is Found Innocent by Federal Jury Here

A federal jury this noon found Robert Doland, Grants Pass, innocent of charges of intent to defraud the U.S. government. The trial started in federal court here Monday, and both the government and defense completed presentations Monday afternoon and this morning. The jury was given its instructions this morning before it deliberated.

Doland, who was represented by Lawrence Aschenbrenner, Grants Pass attorney, was charged with the intent to defraud the U. S. government by knowingly and wrongfully disposing of items which were mortgaged by the Farmers Home administration.

The items, sold for $1,290, according to the complaint, were five Jersey cows, a plow, manure spreader, and a disc.

Four witnesses testified for the government Monday morning. They included two FHA officials, a Grants Pass farmer and businessman. Defense witnesses included Doland, who testified in his own behalf, Mrs. Doland, wife of the defendant, a Grants Pass dairy farmer, and retired miner from Cave Junction.

Doland testified that it was his understanding that the FHA mortgaged equipment could be sold on the condition he substituted equipment of equal value. He admitted that he failed to notify government officials regarding the sale of the equipment mentioned in the complaint.

Doland was indicted by a federal grand jury earlier this year in Portland. U. S. Attorney Robert Snashall, Portland, presented the government's case.

Presiding at the case was U.S. District Court Judge William G. East.

Profit Taking Hits Wall Street Market

New York—(UPI)—Heavy profit taking hit the stock market today with prices receding late in the session on tickers that were falling behind the market.

Meany Disagrees On Jobless

Washington—(UPI)—AFL-CIO President George Meany was in sharp disagreement with President Eisenhower today over the meaning of recently announced government figures showing a 588,000 drop in unemployment in September to a new 1958 low of 4,111,000.

Meany said Monday night that an analysis of the Commerce and Labor Department report of last Friday indicated the unemployment decline was "at best only a modest improvement."

President Eisenhower had hailed the report as proof that the economy was making a speedy recovery from the recession.

Meany said that after carefully weighing all the figures "it is clear that America has not begun to solve the basic problems which have resulted in more than four million Americans being jobless."

Noting that productivity, sales and total industrial profits have risen sharply in recent months, the labor leader said the result was reflected only in "the boom on Wall Street. What America needs is a boom on Main Street—the boom that would come with an end to widespread heavy unemployment and a rise in consumer purchasing power."

George and Dawn Bell, route 2, box 966, Central Point, have filed a complaint in circuit court asking $4,000 loss to real and personal property and $2,500 attorney fees from the Quaker City Fire and Marine Insurance company, Philadelphia.

According to the complaint, the Bells purchased a fire insurance policy in 1954 from the Philadelphia firm. The policy was later increased to $4,000 coverage on the house, furniture and personal effects. The complaint charges that a period of more than six-months has elapsed since a fire on October 11, 1957, destroyed the Bell house.

Attorney for the plaintiff is Day and Courtright law firm in Medford.
