

Crater Hosts Yreka Miners on Friday

Central Point—Don and Ron Gillespie may have starting assignments as linebackers Friday night when the Crater Comets entertain the Yreka, Calif., football team here.

Coach Leonard Warren said the two brothers did good work yesterday in backing up the reserve line against the first offensive crew. By using them, he can give rests to center Bill White, who played the whole Medford game last week end, and to halfback Allen Barnes, who was shaken up in the Tornado mix.

Because of the bumps and bruises suffered against Medford, Warren has avoided contact work this week but the Comets did have some contact scrimmage yesterday as they geared their own offense and prepped to meet the multiple attack of the Miners.

Red Raider Newcomers Show Well

Ashland—Newcomers and the recuperated injured continued to show plenty of potential throughout the workouts this week on the Southern Oregon college Red Raiders reservation while they prepare for the gridiron classic with Oregon Tech next Saturday.

Punk Biddington and Del Brood both recovering from injuries early in the season are showing very good recovery according to SOC mentor Al Akins.

Biddington got into action for the first time last week against Portland State and proved a definite aid in rushing and pass receiving. Brood, on the other hand, is mainly a runner of the broken field type although he can perform well as a receiver and blocker.

Akins has also been experimenting with Pedro Colley and Neil Green in the offensive lineup to give it more weight and power. Colley weighs 290 and Green is right at 200.

Jack Brown and Lance Locke continue to pass in the workouts. There is still action being shown in the rushing end of things, too, although not too much.

The Raiders will be battling for possession of the Owl and to keep their own Tomahawk which they have held since the last basketball game which they won. Should the Techmen win they would gain possession of both trophies until the Raiders should win when basketball season rolls around. In the event of a tie the trophies remain in the hands of the team they were from the previous contest.

Southern Oregon college students will charter two buses for the trip in addition to the car caravan that will be leaving from the SOC campus at 11:30 Saturday morning so as to arrive in time for the game which starts at 2 p.m.

Bob Turley Named AL Player of Year

The 28-year-old native of Troy, Ill., one of the few pitchers ever honored, won over a field that included eight other players. A UPI board of experts, three baseball writers from each city in the league, gave him seven

6 A-1 Officials Request Long, Hard Look at Plan For Athletic Districting

Representatives in the Oregon School Activities association's District 6 A-1 yesterday voiced their opposition to a proposed redistricting of Class A schools for athletic purposes unless the program is examined from an entire state level.

The group, meeting here yesterday, voted to recommend to a special OSAA committee studying the proposal, that a thorough study be made on the state level by OSAA state officials on the redistricting matter. They oppose change in the present set-up unless and until a "long, hard look" is taken.

Medford School Superintendent Leonard Mayfield was instructed to take that recommendation to a meeting of the special committee this morning at Eugene.

Schools of the Willamette valley have asked that they all be placed in one district. They are North and South Salem, Albany, Corvallis, Sweet Home and Lebanon, now in District 8, and North and South Eugene and Springfield, now in District 5. The plan, they maintain, will solve travel and scheduling duties and restore old rivalries.

The proposal has repercussions in three other A-1 districts. Marshfield and Roseburg, now in District 5, would be placed in District 6 with Grants Pass, Medford and Ashland while new District 5 would be made up of Crater and Ashland, now in District 6, North Bend and Cottage Grove, now in District 5 and Willamette, Coquille and Douglas, A-2 schools due for A-1 status. Bend, Redmond and Prineville would be moved from District 8 to District 7.

Main objection to the plan lies in the prohibitive cost of travel for district play in all sports. It is contended that such travel would be practically impossible. Even Marshfield, one of the larger schools, views the financial handicap with alarm.

School officials here yesterday took the position that they can appreciate the problem of the Willamette valley schools but that it is not reasonable to satisfy one group at the expense of others. They maintained that the proposal would cause far more harm than benefit, that it would be no gain at all and would actually be detrimental to the state's athletic program.

Ashland Contends With GP Cavemen

Ashland—"We're not going down there to get licked." With those words, Coach Varney Corey of the Ashland high Grizzlies summed up the attitude of its squad as geared for its opening Southern Oregon conference football game. Ashland plays at Grants Pass on Friday night.

The Grizzlies, reshaping after an upset loss to Phoenix last weekend, will have the

Newman To Be Ready for UO

Pullman, Wash.—(UPI)—The Washington State Cougars were taking a dead aim on upsetting mighty Oregon Saturday after it was revealed that the Cougars' fine passer, Bob Newman would be ready for play against the Webfoots.

Newman wrenched his knee in the opening minutes of the Idaho game last week and was reported out for three weeks, but trainer Eddie Lane reported today that the knee has been responding "almost miraculously" to treatment, so that Newman could see limited action Saturday.

NE Team 2nd In Small School Gridiron Rating

New York—(UPI)—Mississippi Southern strengthened its grip on first place today in the United Press International small college football ratings while Connecticut replaced East Texas State in the runner-up spot.

The latest balloting by the small college board of coaches which rates the teams produced two newcomers in the top 10. Miami (Ohio) and California Poly of San Luis Obispo moved into the select group, replacing Central Michigan and Kent (Ohio) State. Voting was based on games played through last Saturday night.

HOCKEY NATIONAL LEAGUE

The Boston Bruins undoubtedly have more bounce to the ounce than any team in the National Hockey League.

Milt Schmidt's skaters spotted the New York Rangers a three-goal lead last Saturday night at Boston and battled back to gain a 4-4 tie.

Wednesday night the Bruins staged even a greater comeback, scoring four goals in the final period to dead-lock the Rangers again, 4-4.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Rookie forward Jacques Gagnon scored the winning goal and assisted on two others as the Hershey Bears stormed from behind to nip the Springfield Indians, 5-4, in the only American Hockey league action Wednesday night.

It was the third straight loss for the luckless Indians, every one of them by a one-goal margin.

Cus Trims Wings of Promoter

New York—(UPI)—Cus D'Amato clipped the wings of Emil Lence today.

The fiery manager of Floyd Patterson announced that promoter Lence has "absolutely no authority to make a match for the heavyweight champion."

Angry Cus added, "If there's any match to be made, I'll make it—and if it's for New York, I may let Lence promote it. That is—if he conducts himself properly."

Stocky, white-haired Cus blamed Lence "for continually popping off" during the recent negotiations for a Patterson defense at Madison Square Garden "and putting me in an unfavorable light" when the negotiations fizzled out on Tuesday.

Fraser Defense Draws Praise

Eugene, Ore.—(UPI)—Coach Len Casanova said today that second string quarterback Sandy Fraser would see plenty of action Saturday for Oregon against Washington State because "he is one of the finest defensive backs I have ever coached."

Casanova drilled his charges on defense, warning them that the Cougars have an underrated running game to match their pyrotechnical passing attack.

Nub Might See Saturday Duty

Corvallis, Ore.—(UPI)—Oregon State ran through offensive, defensive and running patterns Wednesday but did little scrimmaging for fear of adding to the Beavers' incredible injury list.

The Staters heard good news today, however, with reports that line-blasting full-back Nub Beamer would probably see some action Saturday against Idaho. Jim Stinnette was also reported ready to return to action, but tailback Grimm Mason was still a doubtful performer.

FEW NEW FACES

Moscow, Idaho—(UPI)—Coach Skip Stahley said that there would be a few new faces in the lineup Saturday when Idaho tangles with Oregon State here, but he declined to name names. The Vandals, still searching for an offense to match their tough defense, drilled on passing and punting Wednesday. He also worked his back hard on pass defense.

Zimmerman Bought by Sox

Boston—(UPI)—The Boston Red Sox today announced they had purchased the contract of catcher Jerry Zimmerman of Milwaukie, Ore., from their Minneapolis farm last season. He has been in the Red Sox farm system since 1952 after signing for a big bonus.
