

Candidate Parade

(Editor's note: This is one of a series of articles concerning candidates for state, federal and county office, up for election at the November general election. They were prepared by the candidates themselves, or on their behalf, at the invitation of the Mail Tribune.)

EARL M. MILLER
(Republican Candidate for County Judge)

In this great country of ours, I believe the two party system has proved over the years to be the best form of selecting and electing public officials. I am also very strong in my belief, that after a candidate is elected, the administration of that office should be on a non-partisan basis for the benefit of all people regardless of their political philosophy. This, I would like to emphasize, is of great importance particularly in local government administration because all citizens live close to, and with, their local officials. Good public relations is a must in the administration of this office. The county court belongs to the people of Jackson county, and their needs should receive prompt consideration.

The office of county judge which I am seeking on Nov. 4 is an important one. As a member of a three man board, all business affairs of Jackson county must be acted upon and administered for the best interests of all citizens and sections of the county, without favoritism to any one, any group, or any section.

I am interested in good government and I believe that it is the responsibility of all men and women to work for good progressive government.

Because the office of county judge carries such great responsibilities I believe that previous experience in both municipal government and business is of great importance for a good sound administration. Having had the privilege of serving my community in local government nine years and operating a business in the county for 27 years, I feel that I am qualified as a candidate for this office. As a resident of Jackson county for 33 years, I believe that I am familiar with most county affairs.

Jackson county is growing and the potential in the future will be greater, in my opinion, if we work together progressively and faithfully. The population growth to some 70,000 is proof of their belief in the future of this area. It is important that all elected officials of the county be in harmony and at all times recognize any issue that would benefit the economy and welfare of the people in the county.

I believe it unfair for a candidate to make political promises to any person, group, or section of the county. My only commitment is to the people of Jackson county as a whole if elected county judge. I will do everything in my power to administer this office for the benefit of all people in Jackson county with fairness and courtesy to everyone.

Elephant Appears At Bar For Drink

Chesterfield, England — (UPI) — That was no pink elephant in the bar at the Portland hotel. That was a 1 1/2-ton, eight-year-old Burmese elephant.

She walked into the bar, sat down at a table and drank a pint of beer. "She loves beer," said trainer Gosta Kruse. "She often has it at the circus."

Kruse said it was the first time he had ever taken the elephant into a public house. It was not known how many bar customers swore off drinking.

SWISS AUTHOR DIES

Neuchatel, Switzerland — (UPI) — Prof. Charly Clerc, 76, noted Swiss author and poet, died Monday at his Pres-sur-Enges vacation home.

SCOTT HAMILTON
(Democratic Candidate for County Judge)

Scott Hamilton of Central Point has 22 years of active farming and fruitgrowing, and active participation in community affairs, including Grange and church activity, to qualify him for the position of county judge of Jackson county. Hamilton is closely acquainted with the problems of Jackson county, and believes firmly that the county court, as administrative body of the county, should keep abreast of the times and should provide the county with progressive, not regressive, administration.

Hamilton is 50 years old, and has lived in Jackson county for 48 of his 50 years. He was graduated from Central Point High school, and attended Oregon State college before becoming a fruitgrower. The Hamiltons have six children, four of whom are at home and attending school at Central Point. Two are married and living in Jackson county. Hamilton has been a Granger for 15 years, and the Hamiltons attend St. Mark's Episcopal church.

Hamilton is a firm believer that county government should be as efficient and as progressive as city government, and he believes that no one part of the county should be given more attention by the county court than any other part. He feels that no one group should dictate policies of the county, and therefore has repeatedly taken the stand that county government should be bi-partisan, and that appointments to county positions should be based entirely on qualification and ability, and not on political background.

"The cities of the county are part of the county, of course," Hamilton has said, "but the cities all have their own governing bodies, and are well able to take care of themselves. The duty of the administrative body of the county, which is the county court, is to take care of county government, and it should spend full time doing it."

Hamilton believes that all elements of the county, industrial, agricultural, horticultural and social, are vastly important in their own rights, and each should be considered as an important part of the economy of the county.

Television Reviewer Felt Placed on Spot by 'The Case for Dr. Mudd'

By WILLIAM EWALD
UPI Correspondent
New York — (UPI) — Dear Boss: I really feel TV put me in a squeeze Monday night with "The Case for Dr. Mudd" on CBS-TV's "Desilu Playhouse."

It was all about this Maryland doctor named Sam Mudd who helped out John after Booth had shot Lincoln and how the North put Mudd in jail and really treated him bad.

Now, I figure it like this: If I say the show was bad, the whole South will be mad at me. If I say the show was good, the whole North will be mad at me. And if I don't say anything at all, Desi and Lucy—or is it Desy and Luci?—will be mad at me.

Well, I'll chicken out and split it this way: The good side: Lew Ayres and Mary Anderson as Dr. and Mrs. Mudd were quite satisfactory and the acting of James Westerfield as Mudd's lawyer was better than satisfactory. Some of the scenes—such as the one in which Mudd was tried and the law flouted—were mildly gripping.
