

Sinatra Disclaims Romance Rumors

London—UPI—Frank Sinatra publicly disclaimed reports of a romance with Lady Beatty Monday night when he told a laughing audience that included Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh: "I didn't come to London to get married."

Sinatra made the statement from the stage of the Odeon Theatre in acting as master of ceremonies to introduce Danny Kaye and other film stars at a $73.50 a seat charity premiere of Kaye's new movie, "Me and the Colonel."

His name has been linked persistently with that of Lady Beatty, American-born divorced wife of war hero Earl Beatty, and several London newspapers have suggested they planned marriage. Lady Beatty was not in the audience which contributed $70,000 to the British Empire Campaign.

New Trial Slated On Tax Evasion

San Francisco—UPI—The U. S. Court of Appeals has ordered a new trial for William R. Foreman, of Bremerton, Wash., for conspiracy in connection with income tax evasion.

Foreman was convicted of the charges, but the appellate court recently reversed the conviction because of an unsound theory in instructions to the jury about the nature of the conspiracy charge.

In ordering the new trial Monday, the court accepted an argument presented by the government in a petition for rehearing. The court said Foreman could be tried on the basis of another theory as to the nature of conspiracy.

Foreman was accused of conspiring with Armador R. Seijas and his wife, Betty, to evade taxes on $172,000 in 1942-45. The money was obtained by withholding profits of pinball machines in the Bremerton area, according to the government.
