Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

AN IMMACULATELY DRESSED but obviously distressed patient stretched out on a psychiatrist's couch for his first session, and began, "First, a word about my present status in life. I live with my family on a 40-acre estate with a tennis court, swimming pool, private golf range and five-car garage. I also own a town house, yacht and helicopter. My son is at Groton, my daughter at an exclusive finishing school outside Washington. And my wife, who adores me, is beautiful, and consistently voted one of the ten best dressed women of the year. "Sounds like a perfect set-up," said the analyst enviously. "Why do you need me?" "I've got to know how to keep going," admitted the patient, "without lowering my standards. You see my salary is only $50 a week."

"I wouldn't say he's exactly drunk," mused a Hollywood comic about a supposed pal, "but every time you close the door to his dressing room, the whole studio gurgles."

Quotes From the News

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

New York—Rep. Arden Hyman G. Rickover, in saying that Theodore Roosevelt would not have liked the concept of "togetherness":

"The quest of security at all cost, the inward turning to shut out the problems of a troubled world which is implicit in 'togetherness' would have seemed to him shirking a sacred duty."

Little Rock, Ark.—Gov. Orval E. Faubus, in deploring synagogue bombings in other states:

"We must do everything humanly possible to see that no such incidents occur in Arkansas."

North Adams, Mass.—The Rev. Edwin T. Dahlberg, president of the National Council of Churches, in noting that the ecumenical idea is like an egg, perfectly safe as long as it remains there:

"The trouble begins when the egg is hatched. Then it begins to scratch up the neighbor's garden and wake up people early in the morning."

London—Frank Sinatra, in commenting before an audience of London notables of rumors that he will marry Lady Beatty:

"According to the newspapers here I've been married more times than King Farouk and I'm not even as fat as he is."

Funeral Services For 'Doc' Simpson Slated Wednesday

Funeral services for Lewis L. (Doc) Simpson, 61, of 801 King st., Medford, who died here Saturday, will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday at Conger-Morris Funeral home, The Rev. George R. V. Bolster of St. Mark's Episcopal church, will officiate. Burial will be in the Siskiyou Memorial park.

He was born in Chicago, Ill., June 27, 1897. His father was Clarence Simpson of Chicago. His step-father, Dr. Henry E. Sauer, was chief of staff of the Grant Memorial hospital in Chicago. Mr. Simpson's grandfather, Josiah Lombard, was a prominent Chicago attorney and one of the pioneer residents of Chicago.

Mr. Simpson attended a private school in North Carolina. While there Harvey Firestone of Firestone Tire and Rubber company was one of his classmates.

Among First Volunteers
During World War I, Mr. Simpson served in the medical detachment of the Army in France. He was one of the first volunteers to go overseas. Following his discharge, he came to the Pacific northwest and enrolled in the forestry school at the University of Washington in 1919. While there he became a member of Chi Psi, national men's collegiate fraternity.

Upon his graduation he joined the forest service and served with the agency 14 years. He was married to the former Martha Ford in Okanogan, Wash., in 1936. She and their children survive him.

Organizations to which he belonged include the University of Washington Foresters Alumnae association, Society of American Foresters, forest products research advisory board of Oregon, former State Foresters Research Advisory committee on Forest Management, and was a past member of the Western Division Committee of the Forest Industries Radio Communications.

Professional Engineer
Mr. Simpson was a registered professional engineer, fire marshal for Jackson county Civil Defense, chairman of the Medford district bureau of land management advisory board committee, and chairman of the Jackson County Keep Oregon Green association. He was presented an award on Feb. 4, 1957, for his outstanding work in the Keep Oregon Green association.

The veteran forester and conservationist came to Medford in 1940 when he was with the forest service. In 1947 he helped organize the Southern Oregon Conservation and Tree Farm association. He was secretary-manager and forester at the time of his death.

He was largely responsible for tree farming and conservation efforts in private forestry in this area, and had an organizing hand in the formation of the nationally-known radio networks operated by SOCFITA in Jackson and Josephine counties, as well as the cooperative fire fighting organization of SOCFITA's member firms.

Survivors include his widow, Martha, and four children, Ferris, a sophomore at Southern Oregon college, and Martha, 15, Susan, 12, and Sally, 6, all at home.

Honorary bearers will be Edward Pease, Curtis Neheim, William Hagenstein, Glenn Hunter, Dale Prentice, William Moore and Loyd Silva. Active bearers will be Sam Taylor, Jack Crump, Arthur Davies, Donald B. Whalin, Melvin McGrew and Robert F. Kline.

The body will lie in state in Conger-Morris Funeral home until 9 a.m. Wednesday.

Radcliffe College for Women was founded in 1879.
