

BEAMING AND IN A LENDING mood. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, left, entertains United Arab Republic Vice President Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer in Moscow. At the same time Khrushchev let it be known Russia is lending UAR $100,000,000 worth of materials and equipment with which to build the Aswan Dam on the Nile.

The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a Judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual report. The Family Council does not give advice; it merely reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Victor R. - She must break with her husband.

Ada S. - I'm grateful to Victor, but...

Victor R. - I am a bachelor of 34 involved in an affair with a married woman nearly ten years younger.

When I met Ada, she was already separated from her husband, and she seemed bent on ruining herself by getting involved with one of the most no-account guys I've ever seen. I rescued her from him and I have treated her with the utmost consideration. I am ready and willing to marry her as soon as she is free.

In spite of the fact that I have turned my life upside down in order to help Ada out of her difficulties, she keeps running back to her husband. I know he can never make her happy. He treats her miserably. I tell her she must cut it off clean. That's the only way.

Ada S. - I was very desperate when I met Victor. I had been married less than a year and our marriage hadn't worked out well. It is true that I was ready to throw myself at a good-for-nothing. Victor saved me from that and I am grateful for it.

However, I think Victor and I plunged into physical relations too soon. I like him very much, yet I find we have little in common. We just don't find anything to talk about when we are together. My husband and I were good friends for three years before our marriage. We really have a lot in common and he is willing to start again in spite of the fact that he knows about Victor. I am confused because I enjoyed relations with Victor.

The Council: It will take all the intelligence and effort Victor, Ada and her husband can muster to clarify the muddled waters of their individual lives.

Ada appears to be able only to act, or react, out of desperation. Instead of attempting to struggle with whatever difficulties she had found in her marriage, she was ready to throw herself at the good-for-nothing. Out of desperation at what she was about to do, she threw herself at Victor instead. When she saw that was a mistake, she decided to throw herself back at her husband.

We do not see that any one of these "throws" is much better than the other. Essentially, they are the gestures of a child asking someone to save her, care for her, make her happy.

Ada will have to recognize she is an adult woman who must make a rational decision for herself and put forward her best efforts to build something on the basis of that decision. We believe she is badly in need of counseling from a clergyman and a psychiatrist or trained social worker.

Possibly we'll surprise Victor when we tell him we think he is equally in need of this help.

Victor's impulse to "rescue" Ada from various situations rings of another type of despair. Victor appears to us to want power over a lost, helpless, dependent creature. He does not speak of his love or desire for Ada - only of all he can do to help her.

We are somewhat mistrustful of his pure altruism - particularly since it has been expressed in rather unfortunate form up to this point.

Victor is at least as lost and childish as Ada and he should not marry until he is ready to form a relationship which stands on firmer ground, both morally and emotionally.

Two Radiation Belts Revealed

Iowa City, Iowa -UPD- A physicist has revealed that data obtained from the Pioneer moon rocket indicates there are two high intensity radiation belts around the earth, the second ending at about 20,000 miles.

Carl McIlwain, a physicist at the University of Iowa who designed the radiation detector used in the Pioneer on its Oct. 11 flight said that new knowledge was gained about radiation between 11,000 and 19,000 miles in space.

Preliminary analysis of moon rocket data, he said, shows that radiation intensities of this area in space seem to correspond to those discovered by Explorer IV at 1,000 miles from earth.

This new information, McIlwain said, suggests the likelihood of two radiation belts, one from 2,000 to 3,000 miles and the other between 10,000 and 20,000 miles from the earth.

FREE PARKING
Charlotte, N. C. -UPD- Five persons failed to put money in parking meters at a new public parking lot, but authorities couldn't prosecute them. County commissioners never passed a law requiring a fee in the lot.

Washington -UPD- President Eisenhower played golf Wednesday afternoon.
