OUR HALLOWEEN IS FOR ALL THE WORLD'S CHILDREN

Children Asked to Support UNICEF Halloween Project

Children of the city, and their parents, are reminded today that the annual NCEF Halloween project will again be carried out in Medford, Friday, October 31. Children are asked to take part in this "great service for all the world's children" by collecting small coins in little cartons, the money to be used for the UNICEF project of buying milk and medicine for children in underprivileged countries.

UNICEF means the United Nations Children's Fund, and the project here is sponsored by Medford chapter, Oregon United Nations association. The chairman, Mrs. Marrs Gibbons, has announced the following plan for children who would like to participate.

4-H Club News

Rogue River Dairy Club
The Rogue River 4-H Dairy club met to reorganize at the home of the leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Parsons, Saturday, Oct. 18.

Five new members were enrolled for the coming year. Officers elected were David Carter, president; Ann Cordes, vice president; Marilyn Deckleman, secretary; Linda Cornutt, historian; and Lanny Parsons, reporter.

The coming achievement program was discussed, and we practiced for the skit we will put on.

Mrs. Parsons served cider, doughnuts, and Halloween candies to the members and guests.

Members and their parents of the Rogue River 4-H Dairy club attended the achievement program put on Monday Oct. 27 at the Grange hall in Wimer. A potluck dinner was served before the program. Glenn Klein and Marilou Garner, 4-H agents, presented pins and cards to members who had completed club work this year.

Our club scrap book, and the herdsman trophies we won at the fair were on display.

Lanny Parsons, Reporter.

Cooking and Sewing Suzies
A new club has been organized, Cooking and Sewing Suzies is the name. Our leader is Miss Gonzalez. We have nine members in our new club.

For our next meeting we are going to make cookies.
Deley Dibble, Reporter.

Children are to go to the gymnasium of the school they attend at 6 p.m.

2—The official tag and carton bank for collections will be given the children at the school.

3—After ringing doorbells for a time, the children are to return to the school, turn in their collections and then be treated to cider and doughnuts furnished by Medford service clubs.

4—In case a child wishes to assist and is unable to take part on Halloween night, small sums will help small children elsewhere and can be sent to the UNICEF Halloween chairman, Mrs. Marrs Gibbons, Route 2, Box 452, Medford.

Write-In Candidate To Seek Council Post
Cave Junction — Ellsworth V. Cooke has announced he will run as a write-in candidate for councilman on the Cave Junction city ballot Tuesday, Nov. 4.

Two vacancies on the city council are to be filled from the four candidates. Three names printed on the ballot are William Howland, Jewell Bunch and Ruth Rausch, with Ellsworth Cooke as a write-in candidate.

GE Offers Atomic Electricity Plan
New York — (UPI)—The General Electric Company offered the nation an atomic electricity plan today designed to enable housewives to start cooking on all four nuclear burners by 1965 without any hike in utility bills.

GE presented a 12-year, $350 million program, under which the nation would be ready for full-scale entry into the age of nuclear power by 1970.

But first would come a sort of dress rehearsal for the time when homes across the nation would be plugged into wires humming with atomic energy.

GE wants to start by selling utilities small $4 million package plants so they can learn the problems of producing nuclear power and consumers can get used to the idea of having nuclear reactors perking away in their midst.

Alaska's Statehood Will Increase Total Number in Congress

Washington — (UPI)—Alaska's admission to statehood will increase the total membership of Congress next year for the first time in almost half a century.

There have been 96 members of the Senate—two from each state—since March 27, 1912, when Senators were sworn in from the newly created states of Arizona and New Mexico. Two Alaska Senators will bring the membership to 98.

House membership has been held since 1913 at 435, the figure to which it was enlarged after the census of 1910. Alaska's new Congressman will increase the membership to 436.

However, this figure is scheduled to revert to 435 in 1963 in the Congressional re-portionment which will follow the 1960 census.

Juneau, Alaska — (UPI)—Alaska will choose two U. S. Senators, one member of the House and a governor Nov. 25 in its first election as a full-fledged state.

But Congress will have to decide how long the Senators are to serve. One will be given a term of either two or four years, the other four or six. The governor will be elected to a four-year term, and the Congressman will serve two years.

The Senate races pit Republican Michael Stepovich against Democrat Ernest Gruening, and Republican R. E. Robertson against Democrat E. L. (Bob) Bartlett.

Henry A. Benson is the GOP nominee for the House. His Democratic opponent is Ralph J. Rivers. For governor, it's John Butrovich Jr. (R) against William A. Eagan (D).
