

Champagne Supper Given; League Plans Open House

The champagne supper which Junior Service League members gave Saturday at Rogue Valley Country club was a "Playboy" party. The dramatic black and white decorations were themed to the magazine of that name, and had in part been provided by the magazine's management.

Figures wearing "white tie and tails" and the rabbit's head symbol of the magazine stood in the corners of the reception hall and in the main dining room hung on the walls beside huge replicas of champagne glasses. An improvised bar in the small hall leading to the dining room was edged in black and white rabbit cut-outs, and the shiny black menus were decorated with the black and white rabbit heads. One wall was adorned with copies of Playboy covers, and huge bouquets of white chrysanthemums stood in the room corners.

Supper was followed by a short revue which was also keyed to the magazine's monthly "Playmate" feature. Mrs. Billy Blackstone, January Playmate, modeled a yellow chiffon evening gown and Mrs. Carl Wimberly Jr., wearing ski togs, was February Playmate. Mrs. Donald Herried, wearing furs, was the March and September Playmates. Mrs. Oscar J. Halboth and Mrs. Frank Howell modeled black cocktail time dresses as the April playmates.

Mrs. Edward Collins modeled a frock with harem type skirt as the May Playmate, and Mrs. Jack Lewis, wearing a flowered frock and carrying a hoop with posies on it, represented June Playmate. Mrs. Gordon Hudson, clad in bathing suit with furs around her shoulders, was July Playmate and Mrs. Richard Reum, gowned as August Playmate, carried an enormous champagne glass from which patrons sipped as she walked among the tables.

Mrs. Walter Graff and Mrs. C. H. Buffington modeled closely-fitted velvet lounge trousers and jackets, one in black and one in an orange shade, as October Playmates, and Mrs. David Holmes modeled a black frock with bodice covered with roses as the November Playmate.

Mrs. Robert Taylor and Mrs. William Barnum brought the show to a close as December Playmates. Mrs. Taylor wore a white bodice ensemble and carried a black candle, Mrs. Barnum a black en-

School Night Set By McLoughlin School Teachers

The teachers of McLoughlin Junior High school will hold the ninth annual "Back to School Night," Thursday, November 13, beginning at 7 p.m. All parents are invited to attend and enter into the program. All will have an opportunity to meet and visit their child's teachers and follow his schedule through a day at school.

Parents are to first go to their child's home room where they will receive their class schedule and register. Then, they are to go to the boys' gymnasium for a brief assembly period of welcome and instructions and orchestra concert.

A baked-food sale will be held by the McLoughlin Junior High Parent Teacher association in conjunction with "Back to School Night" immediately after class schedules in the school cafeteria. Refreshments will also be served.

Mrs. E. W. Ingram and Mrs. Dale Franklin are committee chairmen for the food sale and Mrs. William Cowan is in charge of decorations. The executive board will serve refreshments headed by Mrs. William Rambo, president of the association.

Health Officer To Be Speaker For Assistants

Dr. Merkel's topic will be "The place of public health in this modern age."

Medical assistants in Grants Pass have been invited to attend.

Hedberg Return From Trip North

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood B. Hedberg and three children have returned to their home on Grand avenue after a time spent in Portland where Mr. Hedberg attended a meeting of the Professional Engineers of Oregon.

The family visited Mr. Hedberg's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Elwood Hedberg, formerly of Medford and now of Portland. The return trip was by way of the coast, with an overnight stop at Depoe Bay.

Southern Oregon History Program for Organization

More than 50 members and guests of the College Women's club of the Rogue River valley met at the Girls' Community club Saturday afternoon to hear more of the early history of Southern Oregon told in song and story. To introduce the theme, Mrs. Amos Willis presented Mrs. Richard Joy of Ashland, who sang a group of folk songs reminiscent of the pioneer period of Oregon history.

Introducing the ballads, Mrs. Willis said that the folk song of this era was often accompanied by the banjo, which she described as the only original folk instrument in America. It is related "to its mother's side" to primitive West African stringed instruments but "brought up" by Negro slaves and taken over by Southern mountaineers. Mrs. Joy then sang "Cindy" that brings out the banjo rhythm. Then came "The Red River Valley," a little tune "that drifts straight into your heart like smoke from a lonely cabin."

Another song of the period was "Down in the Valley," a lonesome tune distilled out of the quiet of the mountain coves. The last number was the familiar "Jeanie with the Light Brown Hair" by Stephen Foster, who was the popular writer of the day.

At the October meeting of the club, Dr. Frank Haines of Southern Oregon college described Indian life in Southern Oregon. Mrs. George Carter, whose grandfather, John Beeson, settled on Wagner creek in 1853, continued the history of this area beginning with the coming of the white man. She read excerpts from her father's diary which he began on his 15th birthday and continued for 42 years. The diary begins when the family was living on the rich farm lands of La Salle county in Illinois. After seeing neighbor after neighbor leave for the Oregon country, the Beesons decided to follow, but there were an infinite number of things to do before they were ready "to roll."

This included the buying of two yoke of oxen, the killing of two hogs to provide meat on the journey, the baking of crackers and making soap and candles.

Parting Hard Parting with prized possessions and old friends was a hard but not so bad as shooting the old cat, Socrates, to keep him from "fretting" for them after they were gone.

Finally on March 17, 1853, they were off, and on August 30 they sighted the Bear creek country, finding houses deserted as the owners had taken refuge in the Jacob Wagner fort west of the present town of Talent, for the Indians were on a rampage. On September 4, 1853, the Beesons chose land between the Anderson and the Wagner claims; on September 6, they moved to their new farm.

September 6, 1853, 25 men raised a sawmill, the first in this valley. After several planning meetings, the men of the community built a schoolhouse of hewed logs, and on June 20, 1854, a Mr. Gray opened a school, the first in the Rogue valley. Five miles up the valley was Helman's "cornpounder" that provided their bread until August 24th of that year when the Ashland Mills ground the first flour used by the settlers.

July 13, 1854, a group started for the new diggings.

Designer Introduces Space Suit

By NATALIE BEST United Press International Los Angeles—UPI—The most successful "moon shot" of the year may be in the world of women's fashions. At least an interplanetary space-suit today won the approval of some 70 fashion editors from across the nation attending the Eighth Annual Press Week.

This "first" in the highly competitive apparel industry came from California designer Phil Rose, a veteran of the world's second largest fashion market.

This is not the first time the zany moonwear manufacturer has thrust startling new ideas on the fashion world. In his 20 years of apparel business, Rose launched the first Capri pants—1946, adapted the Italian look for America—1952, introduced the Scandinavian look—1957, and is heading for the moon—1959.

Exploring the possibilities of "fun wear" Rose actually was looking for a reason to make long coveralls for women. He had a new fabric and nine shockingly new bright colors to try on Miss and Mrs. America. By accident he fell into rocket-age styling when several of the strange new colors were called "out of this world" by his colleagues.

Zoom! He was off. He immediately saw his new colors for what they were, reproductions of the eerie jet-stream greens, blues, reds and pinks. He named them in celestial terms such as Jupiter pink, Saturn yellow, Martian blue, Mercury green and solar orange. To Rose this spelled something hot—thermonuclear in color and the unheard of something "new" in fashions.

Undaunted by the jeers of others in this field, he went ahead and quietly designed futuristic space wear—six completely durable, comfortable, slip-on "flight suits" for the woman of tomorrow.

Y Knot Twirlers Set Thursday Event

Talent Gardeners Make Ornaments For Camp White

Talent—A workshop on candle making and one on Christmas ornaments preceded the last meeting of Talent Garden club, held at Community hall. The ornaments were made from tin can lids, egg cartons and used flash bulbs, and will be utilized in making wreaths and swags for decorations at the Camp White dormitory.

The hostesses, Mrs. Philip Hoyland and Mrs. C. S. Barrett, provided coffee at noon, and a business meeting followed lunch.

Members of the club will decorate the Camp White chapel November 22.

Next club meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. William Bagley.

Roosevelt PTA Announces Talk By Superintendent

Dr. Leonard B. Mayfield, superintendent of Medford schools, will talk on "Academic comparison of Medford schools to those of the nation" at the November meeting of Roosevelt Parent-Teacher association. It will be held Thursday, November 13, at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

For the parents of younger children, a film "The Sociable Sixes to the Noisy Nines" will be shown.

Boy Scouts of Troop 14 will present the flag. Refreshments will be served by mothers of children in the sixth grade.

Thursday Club

The Thursday club will meet Thursday, November 13, at the home of Mrs. Michael Popow, 3744 Calhoun road. Co-hostesses will be Mrs. Robert Furry and Mrs. Raymond Furry. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. and will be followed by a demonstration on "The Making of Christmas Bows."

Favorite Pudding New York—UPI—A simple but delicious pudding combines two children's favorites—chocolate milk and coconut macaroons.

Soften 2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin in 1/2 cup chocolate milk. Heat remainder of chocolate milk to boiling point, add gelatin mixture, a dash of salt, and 1/4 cup sugar. Stir until gelatin is dissolved and chill until slightly thickened.

Mix and bake one 13-ounce package coconut macaroon mix according to package directions. Cool, and divide into 6 individual serving dishes. Fold 1 cup heavy cream, whipped, into chocolate milk mixture and spoon over cookies. Chill until firm and serve.

Students Attend State Education Meeting

Ashland—Three student representatives from Southern Oregon college attended the state meeting of the Student Oregon Education association in Portland recently.

Lola May, Ashland, state treasurer of the SOEA, Marlene Addington, Central Point, and Danny Thompson, Klamath Falls, were accompanied by the campus chapter adviser, Miss Florence P. Allen, associate professor of education.

European Tour To Be Subject Of Altrusa Meet

Mr. and Mrs. D. K. McGovern of Eagle Point will be guests at the regular dinner meeting of the Medford Altrusa club Thursday, November 13, at Pung's Gardens at 7 p.m.

The McGoverns will speak about their recent three-month tour of Europe, and will show three-dimensional slides taken on the trip, including pictures of the World's Fair, according to Mrs. Lucine Miles, who is in charge of the program for the evening. Hostesses will be Mrs. Maisie Daily and Miss Catherine Fonken.

Altrusans were conducted on a tour of the Pacific Telephone company's Dial office recently. Miss Myrtle Otterdale, president of the club and chief operator of the telephone company, was hostess for the social hour which followed in the lounge.

White ink or showcard colors can be mixed easily if several toy jacks are kept in the bottles. The jacks dig into the pigment and blend it when the bottle is shaken.

WHICH WASH-n-WEAR Will Fall APART?

Select Wash-n-Wear Clothes for Children Carefully

If you choose to buy them. One brand may launder satisfactorily. Another may turn dirty yellow or fall apart. This may happen to dress or sport shirts, blouses, work or play clothes, or other wash-n-wear fabrics and garments, white or colored, normally bleached for stain removal and retention of original whiteness.

According to AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF LAUNDERING, inferior wash-n-wear garments may be made with certain resin finishes that absorb chlorine from hypochlorite bleach, commonly used. This can't rinse out and heat from ironing creates an acid which yellows or destroys the fabric.

If you buy wash-n-wear or other washables, be sure they carry the CERTIFIED WASHABLE SEAL of American Institute of Laundering. It certifies we can launder them to perfection.
