

Grange News...

Roxy Ann Grange
 Roxy Ann Grange met Friday Nov. 7, at which time election of officers for the coming year was held. New officers are R. J. Ritchey, master; Alva Sims, overseer; Mrs. Wilma VanGordon, lecturer; Roy Van Ortwick, steward; Orié Moore, assistant steward; Mrs. P. J. Ritchey, lady assistant steward; Mrs. Eleanor Mankins, chaplain; Mrs. Alva Sims, treasurer; Mrs. Cecil Hall, secretary; Mrs. Mabel Christiansen; Mrs. Paul Dalton, Pomona; Mrs. Donald Claypool, Flora; Clarence Pfister, Roscoe Roberts, and Charles Whitcher, executive committee.

Verda Quackenbush, Home Economics chairman, reported HEC met at the home of Mrs. J. O. Myhre with Mrs. Byron Ellis as cohostess. She announced there will be a card party Saturday, Nov. 22, at the Grange hall. The next meeting of HEC will be at the Grange hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Larsen were guests. They are now making their home in Portland.

Mrs. Clarence Pfister is in the hospital with a broken leg.

Charles Whitcher, agricultural chairman, reported little change in market. He said there was a sale of feeder cattle in Ontario which went as high as $33.80. He also reported demand for younger cattle. Cattlemen seem to be back in business. Oregon has a 70 per cent increase in hay in eastern part. California not using as much hay this year as last. Alfalfa is main feed.

Roscoe Roberts announced he had been to Tigard, Rainier and Tillamook to insurance meetings. He reported extended coverage not as high as he thought it would be.

Frances Moffatt, lecturer, announced booster night will be Saturday, Nov. 15. All people in the community are invited. Grange women are asked to bring pie.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Eva Garrett, Mrs. Madge Nowlin, Mrs. Ethel Byers, Webb Hickle and Lewis Bish.

Gold Hill Grange

At the regular meeting of Gold Hill Grange, Thursday, Nov. 6, officers were elected for the coming year.

The following were elected: master, Willie McLean; overseer, Hal Bishop; lecturer, Grace Bruce; chaplain, Nora Watt; assistant steward, Ferd Jones; lady assistant steward, Adali Jones; secretary, Lena Lork; treasurer, Vada Page; gate keeper, Della Cook; Ceres, Leona Jenks; Pomona, Mildred Wright; Flora, Josephine Loeffler; executive committee, Nina Dusenberry, Bob Cook and Alma Walker.

Eagle Point Grange

It was announced at the Nov. 4 meeting of the Eagle Point Grange that the first and second degrees would be exemplified at the Nov. 18 meeting and that the third and fourth degrees would be held at the Dec. 2 meeting. A. J. Grange in the county having candidates for the degrees are cordially invited to come and bring them.

Agricultural committee re-elected livestock prices still holding good but that chicken prices, especially broilers were low.

Master Cliff Moore presented C. C. Hoover with the $100 war bond and plaque won in the community service contest. Hoover was chairman of the committee and accepted the prizes on behalf of the committee.

A 25-year pin was presented to Mrs. Howard Short, representing 25 years of continuous membership in the Eagle Point Grange.

A letter from the highway department acknowledging a correspondence from the Eagle Point Grange calling attention to the condition of Highway 62 was read. The condition mentioned was the un-oiled shoulders of the road which during the summer months made driving hazardous especially when meeting or passing logging trucks. In conjunction with this Mrs. Jesse Tyner was appointed as the Grange representative on traffic safety.

The program was by the past masters, who brought a radio to the Grange and the literary hour was spent listening to the election returns.

SHADY PAST

New York (UPI)—Officials of the Richmond Hill branch of the Chase Manhattan bank gasped Wednesday when they heard of the background of a man they had employed as a porter last summer. Police said Leon Scott, 35, arrested Wednesday for entering the bank with a key he had kept and stealing a gun, had a record of 14 arrests and was on parole from Sing Sing on a burglary conviction.

Egyptians Battling Addiction To Drugs Among Teen-Agers

Cairo (UPI)—Egypt has a bold new plan to curb mounting drug addiction with the country's teen-age population as its main target.

The new plan, which applies the reform technique to the narcotics problem, developed out of a realization that the severe penalties provided by Egyptian law for narcotics users and peddlers have not stamped out the evil.

Leading the campaign to revamp the anti-narcotics campaign is the Supreme Council for Youth and Sports.

The council, which derives its authority in youth welfare work directly from the presidential office, is arranging for a mass crusade to combat the spread of narcotics.

From official statistics, Egypt is known to suffer the most from narcotics among all countries in the Middle East.

600,000 Addicts

Out of a population of 23 millions, there was an estimated total of 600,000 Egyptian drug addicts in 1937. Another 600,000 were said to be "on their way to addiction."

To break the narcotics tentacles that reach all over Egypt, the Council for Youth and Sports has planned to arouse the population to the magnitude of the addiction scourge.

The council hopes in this way to stem the evil of the largely uncontrollable dope smuggling racket.

The council's anti-narcotics reform technique is double-pronged to prevent as well as cure narcotics addiction so far as possible.

It wants to encourage drug addicts to come out and declare themselves so they can be cured and socially rehabilitated.

To make this possible, it has recommended that the government set up special clinics for the physical and psychological treatment of drug addicts.

Fear Can't Induce Change

The council considers that the fear of punishment by law cannot alone induce drug addicts or peddlers to change their ways.

The present Egyptian anti-narcotics law is probably the stiffest in the world. Addicts can get as much as 15 years in jail; peddlers, 25 years.

But just as most of the narcotics smuggled into Egypt is never seized, most of those who trade in narcotics or are addicted to them are never caught.

With this in mind, the Youth Council has proposed that the government amend the anti-narcotics law with a view to giving hope to those convicted of violating it that they still have a chance to remake their lives.

Trampoline contests were held with the class voting the winners in this event. First places went to Grady Brown, Ron Hale, Karen Aldridge, John Lampkin, Susan Whinihar and Rhonda Hess. Ping pong tournament winner was Larry Halmon. Checker tournament went to Terri Clark and the pool tournament was won by Joe Griffin.

Berry Fertilizer Booklet Topic

Corvallis—Latest fertilizer recommendations to boost strawberry yields while maintaining good quality fruit are reported in a leaflet just published by Oregon State college agricultural experiment station.

Recommendations are based on three-year trials near Oregon City, Salem, and Hillsboro. The leaflet, "Fertilizing Strawberries in the Willamette Valley," was prepared by R. K. Kirsch and T. L. Jackson, OSC soils scientists. Copies may be obtained from local county extension offices or the OSC bulletin clerk, Corvallis.

Fertilizer effects on yields were tested on irrigated and non-irrigated Marshall strawberries and on irrigated Pacific Northwest berries. Experiences also studied berry quality based on berry size, sugar content, and moisture content.

Allergy Research Gets U. S. Grant

Corvallis — Oregon State college research on allergy compounds, particularly grass pollen and house dust, has received a $13,900 supporting grant from the U. S. public health service.

The research is aimed at determining the nature and makeup of the active compounds that cause the bothersome allergies. Isolating the compounds and understanding of their chemical makeup should aid scientists, it is believed, in finding more effective treatments and preventives.

In western Oregon, house dust and grass pollen account for most of the inhalant asthma and hay fever. Across the nation, about 1 person out of 10 is affected by allergies. Almost unbelievably small amounts of the allergy compounds will bring reactions in some persons, according to Dr. Tsou E. King, project leader for the Science Research Institute at OSC. Co-operating with King in the study are Dr. Arthur Lietze, research associate, and Arthur Malley, graduate student.
