Ambassadors May Meet to Discuss Berlin Situation

To Demonstrate Solid Determination

Washington - (UPI) - The United States, Britain and France probably will hold a special ambassadorial meeting in Bonn this week to discuss Allied moves to hold the Western position in Berlin.

Informal sources said one major purpose of the meeting would be to demonstrate solid three-power determination to remain in Berlin despite Communist harassment and possible efforts to force them out.

American officials, meantime, saw grounds for hoping that the Soviet challenge in Berlin would ease without developing into a full-fledged crisis such as the 1948 Berlin blockade.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was reported adopting a calm attitude and trying to work out strategy to keep the Berlin situation from becoming more explosive.

One of Dulles' top aides on Germany, U.S. Ambassador to Bonn David K. E. Bruce, was at the state department conferring with officials. Bruce, who has been in Washington about a week for consultations, will return to Bonn, Tuesday for the possible Big Three ambassadorial meeting.

Tension Develops

Tension over future Communist moves in Berlin developed recently when Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said Russia would turn over its remaining functions in Berlin to Communist East Germany.

The statement was interpreted as a move to force Western recognition of East Germany, perhaps a forerunner to trying to force the Allies out of Berlin and maybe a preliminary to demanding that U.S. forces even leave West Germany.

But Khrushchev said Friday night that the Soviet Union would present proposals for the government of Occupied Berlin to the Allies. Officials here greeted the remark with a sigh of relief. They interpreted it to mean Khrushchev wanted to ease the crisis atmosphere surrounding Berlin and discuss future moves calmly with the West through diplomatic channels.

County to Survey Recreation Site

Further steps will be necessary before the county court can obtain clear title on two acres of a proposed recreation site on Dead Indian rd., members of the county court said Friday.

Suggestions as to the best use of the acreage will be requested from national park service representatives, County Judge Rodney Keating said. The county will make a survey of the site, he said.

At Wednesday's county planning commission meeting, Commissioner Jerry Latham said the county could obtain clear title to the acreage from the owners by installing a pipe under the road and a drinking trough for cattle. The acreage is desirable for a roadside recreation site since it is on the road to the Howard Prairie reservoir, he pointed out.

Make Medford Beautiful

WEEDS AND DEBRIS - This assortment of spare lumber, rubbish and (on the far right) an airplane carcass is scattered behind a building on the approach to Medford's airport terminal. It is in plain view of visitors en route to or from the terminal, and presents a rather poor first - or last - impression. The weeds are no asset either. Clearing this up would be a good "Make Medford Beautiful" project for someone.

WINTER SCENE - This tree on the north slope of Roxy Ann butte is typical of scene confronting area residents yesterday morning following the first substantial bit of winter. Cold air is expected to remain the next couple days, but chances of more snow flurries are slim, weather bureau officials said.

Lows this morning and tomorrow morning are expected to be about 22 degrees at the Medford airport with highs about 45. An inch of snow was recorded at the Medford weather bureau station during the storm Friday.

City Officials Plan to Attend League Convention in Eugene

A host of city officials are packing their bags this week end for the 33rd annual League of Oregon Cities convention in Eugene, which gets under way this afternoon.

A list of 26 from Medford are planning to attend. Delegations from other Jackson county communities are also turning north.

Several Medford officials are to take an active part in the three-day program.

Mayor John W. Snider, who is a director of the league, is scheduled to preside at a luncheon Tuesday at which Governor-elect Mark Hatfield is to extend greetings.

Discuss Tree Program John Williams, member of the city's street tree committee, is to discuss Medford's tree program Monday morning at a planning and zoning meeting.

Robert L. Lee, water superintendent, is slated to discuss special assessment procedures and financing as applied to water mains that afternoon.

City Attorney E. Roy Bashaw is to address an attorney's meeting at the same time. He is to lead a discussion on recent Oregon decisions on municipal law.

Frank J. Van Dyke, a Medford lawyer who while not a city official is a member of the state legislative interim committee on judicial administration, is scheduled to lead a discussion of proposed changes in traffic law and procedures Tuesday morning.

Other Topics Other discussion topics of particular interest to Medford officials and residents include current city off-street parking programs, improvement requirements in subdivision regulations, tapping community resources for park and recreation programs, local cooperation in entertaining Centennial visitors, new provisions of building codes, crime and the community and, "what of the future?"

The league's current membership includes nearly all of the over 200 Oregon cities eligible. It was formally organized in 1925, at a meeting attended by representatives of 26 cities.

Its primary objectives are these: 1. To secure cooperation among cities for thorough study of local problems and for application of efficient methods to local government; 2. To serve as a focal point where officials can exchange ideas and experiences and obtain expert advice;

3. To gather and distribute information about municipal government; 4. To study and draw up uniform ordinances and practices; 5. To originate and promote in the state legislature measures benefiting cities and their citizens and to oppose detrimental measures;

6. To secure harmonious action between cities in matters affecting their rights and liabilities; 7. To assist member cities in the courts in matters relating to municipal rights and liabilities under the constitution, statutes or ordinances;

8. To do anything else necessary or proper for the benefit of Oregon's cities.

In pursuing these goals the league's program includes regional meetings and training conferences as well as the annual convention. It offers a wide range of publications. Technical arm of the league is the bureau of municipal research and service at the University of Oregon. Bureau officials, for example, are currently assembling material for a study and model ordinance for trailer parks.

Herman Kehrl since the mid-30's has served as director of the bureau and executive secretary of the league itself. Officials to attend the convention this week-besides those already mentioned-are City Manager Robert A. Duff, Public Works Director Vernon Thorpe, Police Chief Charles Barker, Building Inspector Oliver R. McNeil, Recorder-Treasurer Darrel Huson, Municipal Court Judge Noreen Kelly, Purchasing Agent and Airport Manager Richard Hogan; and Mrs. Dorothy Sneden, the mayor's secretary.

Others include all eight city councilmen plus Councilman-elect Stanley Stark (Ward IV); Paul Selby, Jack Edson and Charles Cray of the city planning commission; and Jerry Poulos, chairman of the parks and recreation commission.

Personal expenses in making the trip are provided for by "schools and conferences" allotments in the city's budget. The sum of $1,170 was set aside in the current budget as dues for league membership.

Organizations or individuals who wish to donate to an underprivileged family may contact the office in the Red Cross building. Residents who have names of persons who may receive such baskets are asked to contact the committee's office. Jones said donations of money also will be accepted to purchase meat for the baskets.

16,761 Votes Cast For Boundary Fixing

Total vote results on the measure of fixing state boundaries was 16,761 yes votes and 3,801 no votes, according to the final canvass of votes in the county elections department.

A typographical error in the Mail Tribune had given 1,676 as the total number of yes votes cast.

Hollywood Star, Tyrone Power, Dies in Madrid

Collapses on Movie Set After Scene

Madrid, Spain - (UPI) - Hollywood Star Tyrone Power, 44, died of a heart attack Saturday after collapsing on a movie set here.

Power died on the way to a hospital. He had collapsed half an hour earlier just after the filming of a fencing scene for the movie "Solomon and Sheba." He was carried unconscious to a car and rushed to the Ruber hospital.

Dead on Arrival A spokesman at the hospital said he was dead on arrival. A doctor said Power died of angina pectoris.

The body will be flown to the United States by military plane for burial, probably today. It was removed from the hospital and taken to the U.S. Air Force base at Torrejon, 13 miles from Madrid. Plans for disposition of the body had been delayed because the widow was too distraught for several hours to discuss the matter with U.S. embassy officials.

All work halted on the color film which still had a month of shooting. Director King Vidor said the United Artists company in Hollywood would have to decide whether it should be scrapped.

Studio officials said Power had complained recently of not feeling well, and had a heart checkup a few weeks ago. Although some concern was felt about his health, no one realized his life was in danger.

Saturday he worked in a dagger-dueling scene in which he was supposed to be thrown to the ground to avoid an assassin's knife.

As soon as it was finished, he called for brandy and went into his dressing trailer. A moment later, makeup man Ray Sebastian came out to report that the actor complained of pains in both arms and had difficulty in breathing.

Producer Ted Richmond called for a car. By the time it arrived, Power was unconscious.

Power made his first movie appearance in 1931 as an extra. Later that year, he played a small part in a Chicago stage production of "The Merchant of Venice" and then went to New York with the Chicago Civic Shakespeare company as a page in "Hamlet."

First Film The first film role for which he is remembered was the lead in the 1936 movie, "Lloyds of London."

Power was the son of Frederick Tyrone Edmond and Patia Emma Power. He attended public school in Cincinnati, Dayton preparatory school and St. Xavier University.

He was descended from a line of distinguished actors, and was the fourth to act under the name Tyrone Power.

Russia Rejects One Western Proposal For Nuclear-Age Peace; Another Seen

Geneva - (UPI) - Russian Saturday rejected one western proposal for nuclear-age peace as a "waste of time" and indicated it would turn down another at the two deadlocked East-West conferences here.

Observers said there was no hope of any early break at the separate meetings on ways to prevent surprise attack and ban nuclear test explosions.

At a one-hour meeting of the surprise attack talks, Soviet first deputy foreign minister Vasili V. Kuznetsov insisted that there must be a political settlement. He was seconded by delegates from Czechoslovakia and Poland in rejecting the proposal of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy for considering only technical means of preventing any sudden attack.

Kuznetsov said the western argument was a "waste of time" and that nuclear disarmament and scrapping of foreign military bases must be included in any agreement on preventing of surprise attack. The delegates agreed only to meet again on Monday.

Two Killed in Crash

Verbal Barrages Hurlled by Oregon Solons, Hatfield

Neuberger Invites Gov-Elect to Tea

Portland - (UPI) - Verbal barrages were hurled by the two Oregon senators and the governor-elect Friday with one result being an invitation to tea extended to Mark Hatfield and his wife by Sen. Richard L. Neuberger.

Oregon's senior senator, Wayne Morse, accused Neuberger of "snide political backknifing" Friday after Neuberger had stated it was regrettable that Morse had rejected Hatfield's request for a conference with the Oregon congressional delegation.

Hatfield had asked for the conference in a letter to Morse because it would "have benefit in giving me a better appreciation of our delegation's plans for the next session of congress."

Morse refused because he said that he did not know of any purpose by which the conference could be constructive. Hatfield expressed regret at Morse's refusal and said, "this is no time for pride and prejudice."

Neuberger observed after the refusal, "it will be very unfortunate if the great and urgent needs of our state are neglected while Sen. Morse and Gov-elect Hatfield jockey politically for 1962."

Morse will be up for reelection in 1962, and Hatfield has been mentioned as a candidate for the Republican nomination for senator in 1962.

Neuberger, in a later statement, said that, "... to do my own part toward putting an end to this distressing bickering, I have invited Governor-elect Hatfield and Mrs. Hatfield to have tea with Maurine and me at our home the day after Thanksgiving, where I trust we can discuss problems of federal-state relations which Oregon confronts."

Morse said he would send copies of the Hatfield proposal to other members of the Oregon congressional delegation. He also assured Hatfield that the services of his office would be available to Hatfield on any matter within the jurisdiction of the federal government concerning Oregon.

Policemen Being Trained in Radar

All Medford policemen are currently being trained in use of the department's new "Patrolmaster" radar set, according to Police Chief Charles Champlin.

Champlin said Friday the department has received a temporary operating permit from the federal government with a regular permit to follow.

He reported that Patrolman Duane Franklin and Robert H. Larson, of Max-Sig Communications at the Medford airport, are in charge of instruction.

Both the police department and the public works department are scheduled to use the set. It will see service in routine detection of speeders, checking on special complaints of basic rule violations and traffic studies.

Sports Bulletins

Eagle Point battled its way into the Oregon A-2 high school football semifinals by licking Oakridge 33 to 6 here last night. The Eagles will play Vale in this area next week and for the right to enter the championship finals. Getting off to a 20-point jump, Eagle Point led 20-6 at the half and scored twice in the fourth quarter.

Salem - (UPI) - Ray Sharrah scored three touchdowns to lead Pendleton to a 26 to 14 win over North Salem in the state class A-1 quarter-final game here last night. The score was tied 7 to 7 at halftime. Pendleton will meet Medford in Medford next week end in the state semi-final game.

"Can You Make Out If They Look Real Determined?"

Consolidation Being Studied by Boards In Talent, Phoenix

The educational, legal, and financial questions involved in a proposed consolidation of Phoenix school district 4 and Talent school district 22 are being discussed and studied by school boards and administrators of both districts.

School officials said that under the proposed plan, high school students of both districts would attend school at Phoenix, occupying the present high school plant there. Junior high school students from both districts would attend and utilize the present Talent High school plant.

Officials feel that such consolidation would enrich the high school program for students from both districts, and will help to fill small classes conducted in college preparatory subjects in both high schools at the present time.

New school names would be considered for the high school at Phoenix, and the junior high school at Talent, they noted. Phoenix is now a first class district with an enrollment of 820 students, and Talent is a second class district with 580 students.

Administration of the consolidated district would pass into the hands of the school officials of "the most populous district" as defined by Oregon law, in this case the Phoenix school district.

After such consolidation residents of both districts will be eligible for school director at regular school elections. Employees of both districts would be retained in the combined system.

School officials said it has been agreed that each district would retain its own bonded and other indebtedness. Petitioning and voting procedure in both district to effect the consolidation will be initiated at an early date, officials said.

$2,000 Raised at Smorgasbord

Nearly $2,000 for the Medford High school band fund was raised Friday by the Southern Oregon Salesmen's club.

Almost 6,000 tickets were purchased for the feed at the Big Y market, according to Nick Egbert, who with Milt Evans, a fellow Grants Pass resident, headed up the effort.

Proceeds will go toward expenses for sending the Medford band to the Shrine East West All-Star Football game, Dec. 27, at San Francisco.

A smorgasbord was held a week ago at Grants Pass. Another one will be held Dec. 12 at Klamath Falls. Bands of all three southern Oregon cities have been invited to participate in pre-game and half-time activities at the all-star game.

The salesmen, who obtain large amounts of food donations, offered "all you can eat" for 25 cents. They said that some people, however, paid as much as 50 cents and others $1. Mothers of band members baked pies with donated pumpkin pie crust mix. Jaycettes and store clerks helped salesmen.

Grants Pass Woman Killed in Accident

Phoenix Accident Fatal to Women From Washington

Five Are Killed In Past Six Days

Two persons were killed and two others injured in a two-car accident just south of Phoenix on Highway 99 about 7 o'clock Friday night.

Mrs. Hannah Dawson, 81, of Seattle, Wash., was killed almost instantly, state police said. Mrs. Hannah Jane Olson, 52, of Langley, Wash., died in a Medford hospital Saturday morning of injuries received in the accident.

The fatalities brought to five the number killed in traffic accidents in Jackson county in the past six days, and it was the second crash in which more than one person has been killed in a week. Last Saturday night, two persons were killed in an accident just north of Ashland.

Eighteen persons have been killed in traffic accidents so far this year in the county. Last year at this time, there were 23 traffic fatalities.

Mrs. Dawson and Mrs. Olson were passengers in a car operated by Arthur Efrain Olson, 55, of Langley, Wash., police said.

Treated at Medford Osteopathic hospital were Richard L. Wessell, 21, of 180 Sherman st., Ashland, driver of the other car involved, and his wife, Mrs. Sandra Lee Wessell, 20. Police said Wessell suffered bruises and a sprained arm, and Mrs. Wessell suffered lacerations.

Both were reported in good condition Saturday morning. In Front Seat Police said Mrs. Dawson was sitting in the front seat next to the door when the Olson vehicle was struck bradside by the Wessell car. Olson, traveling south on Highway 99, started across highway separator islands to enter a motel where the highway divides south of Phoenix.

The Wessell car, traveling north, struck the Olson car in the right side, police said. Mrs. Dawson was killed almost instantly, police said. Mrs. Olson suffered internal injuries.

The bodies of Mrs. Dawson and Mrs. Olson were taken to Seattle, Wash., by Conger-Morris Funeral home for services.
