San Francisco — New salary requirements for the executive, administrative and professional employees from the Fair Labor Standards act will go into effect Feb. 2, 1959, Clarence T. Lundquist, administrator of the U. S. labor department's wage and hour and public contracts divisions, has announced.

Under the revised salary tests, an executive employee, to be exempt from the act's minimum wage and overtime provisions, must be paid a salary of at least $80 per week instead of the $55 now required.

Administrative and professional employees to be exempt must be paid at least $95 a week instead of $75, as at the present.

Lundquist said that regulations do not require employers to pay these salaries to persons doing executive, administrative or professional work. The new salary tests are for exemption purposes only.

The employer may continue to pay on a basis of a salary, but the act's minimum wage and overtime pay requirements must be met, unless some other statutory exemption is applicable, Lundquist noted.

The amended salary tests were scheduled for publication in the Nov. 18 federal register.

The last windmill of French Flanders, the one at Saint-Sylvestre-Cappel, which had kept its huge arms swinging well into the atomic age, has collapsed.

Life Insurance Classes Scheduled

Charles Bennett, southern Oregon manager for the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance company, is instructor of a class in life insurance training for the Life Underwriter Training Council, James P. Asher, area chairman for the Council, has announced.

The class is being conducted at Hedrick Junior High school each Monday night. The course extends over a two-year period with sessions scheduled between October and May each year.

Sponsored by the Rogue Valley Life Underwriters association, the course is designed to aid career life insurance men in keeping abreast of the recent techniques and development in the business.

EOKA Underground Member Slain

Nicosia, Cyprus — British troops today killed Kyriakos Matis, the second "most wanted" member of the Greek Cypriot EOKA underground organization.

The man with the highest price on his head is Col. George Grivas, head of EOKA, the outlawed organization which wants union of Cyprus with Greece. The organization has been carrying out a campaign of murder and violence against the British and Turkish Cypriots for more than three years.

Two Cub Scout Dens Tour Mail Tribune

Two Cub Scout dens of Pack 48, Eagle Point, toured the Mail Tribune plant Tuesday afternoon.

Scouts of Den 5 on the tour included Tommy Nelson, Ronald Wilson, Steve Mynt, John Dover and Rickie Trimble, accompanied by Mrs. Betty Pogue, Den mother.

Scouts of Den 3 touring the plant were Dennis Phillips, John Carlson, John Clayton, Jerry Bunker, Timmy Dufour and Jeff Stirewalt. Den Mother Mrs. H. J. Phillips accompanied Den 3.

Searchers Make Another Effort To Find Scouts

Tucson, Ariz. — Hope was all but gone today for three Boy Scouts lost since last Saturday without food and only lightly clad in the icy wilds of the Santa Rita mountains.

"It looks pretty dim. Unless they have found shelter of some kind they are probably no longer with us."

With those words Sheriff's Sgt. Fred Grim early today expressed the fear of nearly 100 rescuers as they made another assault on snowbound Mt. Baldy in search of three Tucson Scouts.

County Delays Lease To Airline Company

Yreka — The Siskiyou county board of supervisors has delayed granting a $50 a month lease to Northern Airways, Inc., for further study of the lease.

Previously, the board had agreed to a 10-year lease on about an acre of land at the Montague airport and the old Southwest airways offices for Northern Airways.

College Girl Appears To Have Clear Title To Moon

Guntown, Miss. — Charlene Magers holds claim to a huge, round piece of real estate, but doubts she'll ever set foot on it.

It's the moon. Miss Magers, a student at Mississippi State University, revealed Tuesday that the claim on the moon was filed on her behalf Oct. 14, 1950, at Tupelo, Miss.

She apparently has a clear title, too. When a Knoxville, Tenn., man tried to file a claim recently the U. S. Reclamation Bureau denied it on the grounds that Miss Magers had beat him to it.

Her claim reads: "I, Charlene Magers, am hereby placing claim on this planet's moon, and shall defend said title against any persons or nations that might attack."

She has not yet revealed any plans for carrying out such defense. Nor has she voiced any objection to attempts to reach the moon with a rocket.

She isn't the only member of her family with a celestial claim. Her cousin, Mitchell Herring, holds title to the planet Mars.

Queen's Critic Will Marry Irish Girl

London — Lord Altrincham, a distant cousin and much-publicized critic of Queen Elizabeth II, today announced plans to marry an Irish girl with whom he can't find fault.

The peer, who was blasted by thousands of Britons for saying the Queen lacked personality and made speeches like a schoolgirl, said he would wed 27-year-old Marian Campbell before Christmas.
