

Two Medford women were among those honored earlier this month at the University of Oregon when Nu chapter of Gamma Phi Beta sorority held a dinner in recognition of charter members of the sorority there. From Medford were Mrs. R. B. Hammond, (second from left) class of 1908, and Mrs. Olen Arnsperger, (center) '07. The occasion was the golden anniversary of the chartering of the sorority. Other charter members present for the event were Mrs. L. A. Henderson, Oregon City (left); Mrs. O. F. Stafford, Eugene (second from right); and Miss Mary Gray, Portland. —(Eugene Register-Guard photo)

Latest Social Register Has Shocks For Socialites

New York—(UPI)—The Whitneys seem to be following in the footsteps of the Astors and the Vanderbilts—OUT of the New York Social Register. For the first time in its 73-year history, society's "Who's Who" has dropped a member of the socially supreme Whitney clan without being requested to do so. The 1959 register, just off the presses, gave the name of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney. The Register's mysterious "advisory committee" apparently bounced the mining tycoon turned film producer because he divorced his second wife to marry Mrs. Mary Hosford, a divorcee he met when she was playing a role in one of his movies.

The little black volume, compared to the three Astor listings and three Vanderbilt listings that have managed to survive divorce, scandal and other Social Register bugaboos. There was many a shock in the register for sensitive socialites. Barbara Hutton apparently gave the kiss of death to the listing of young author Philip Van Rensselaer, descendant of one of New York's oldest Dutch clans. Barbara, who was dropped years ago, travelled all over Europe and Mexico last year with Philip, and it was widely reported that they were thinking of marriage despite the fact that he was 20 years her junior. Rosemary Warburton, who has been vying with Mrs. Thomas Bancroft Jr. for the title of No. 1 New York hostess, failed to get back into the register by marrying one of its listees, poet Hugh Chisholm Jr., scion of a Maine

Women's Group Contributes Fund For CARE Project

Cave Junction—Illinois Valley Federated Women's club held the annual food sale Saturday to raise funds for CARE, principal project of the Oregon Federated Women's clubs. Last summer at the 43rd annual convention, the Illinois Valley club won honorable mention for being among the top 10 clubs contributing the most money to the state fund for CARE.

The club will hold a Christmas party December 12 at the home of Mrs. Earl Boyd. Gifts costing no more than $1 each will be exchanged. Members attending are asked to take canned food for the American Legion auxiliary's Christmas baskets.

paper manufacturing family. The register dropped Chisholm, although Rosemary was once listed in its pages as Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt's daughter. She made the mistake of marrying an unregistered doctor for her first husband.

Not many couples celebrate their wedding anniversary by attending a PTA meeting, but Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Fagone did. Mrs. Fagone is president of Lincoln Parent-Teacher association, and her husband is a past president. When their 15th wedding anniversary came on the same night as a PTA meeting, Mrs. Fagone sighed and said she didn't feel she could skip the meeting.

Mr. F. made plans. When the business meeting had concluded Mr. Fagone rose and formally asked permission of the chairman (his wife) to make a few remarks. A bit mystified, she granted the request. Mr. Fagone went to the front of the room, and standing beside his wife, explained that it was their wedding anniversary and that he had a surprise for her. He unveiled a cake which was inscribed "For Dopey (his pet name for Mrs. Fagone) Wife-Mother-President." John Lusk played Anniversary Waltz, the cake was served and everyone was happy. Mrs. F. confesses "I could have wrung his neck—but I loved every minute of it."

The Fagones really had two anniversary cakes, because their daughters, Toni (short for Antoinetta) and Patty Ann, had baked a cake for their parents. The Fagones also have an older son, Sammy, who is 14. Mrs. Fagone says she has a deep attachment for Lincoln school. She attended school there as a child, all three of her children attended Lincoln, and both parents have been Lincoln PTA presidents. When she was Helen Smedley, Mrs. F. lived with her family on Pine street and early in her marriage, Helen begged her husband to move back to Pine street because of sentimental reasons, and so they did.

Mr. Fagone, originally from New York, is known to everyone as Benny, but his real name is Sebastiano. For years Mr. F. still thought of himself as a New Yorker, but now he knows he's an Oregonian, just like Helen.

Potpourri called Mrs. Fagone to say that a friend had telephoned and wondered if there would be a story in the fact that Mrs. Fagone, and other residents of the area, were engaged in counting cars for the state highway department. Time went by on wings, and by the time we got around to calling Mrs. Fagone, the car-counting was completed.

Mrs. F. wasn't quite sure what the car census is all about, but said it had been an interesting experience. The car counters made notes (she had been on the night shift) on the type of cars, what the load was if the car was a truck, the direction and other facts.

"I wish you'd call some one and find out what it was all about so I'd know what I was doing it for," said Mrs. Fagone. She added that her interesting experiences had included being frightened to death all one night after hearing stories about an "abominable forest man" roaming around in the area to which she was assigned, and having worried people come to check and see if she was in trouble, since the car was parked in one spot for so long. One school boy, noticing the car and solitary woman, sent his mother back to find out if she needed help.

A note which came last week from Mrs. Alfred Prevot was filled with news about the Prevot's new daughter, and about a trip to France last summer to visit Mr. Prevot's family. Mrs. Prevot, the former Susan Inskip of Medford, wrote "I'm sure you have heard the wonderful news—we have a daughter, born in Greenville, Miss., October 18. She is a beautiful child with titian hair—and it is curly. Her name is Suzanne-Helene. It is to be hyphenated, as is very often the custom in France. Suzanne is the French version of my name and Helene is the name of her paternal great-grandmother."

"Our trip to Europe last summer was such fun. During the five months that we spent there, Jules (the Prevot's son) learned to speak French perfectly and during the month of October attended a boys' school in Paris, the cours St. Louis, with, of course, all the classes in French. I attended classes, too, at the Cordon Bleu—and Alfred Lunt was one of my classmates! I do hope that on our next trip to Medford, we can talk about all the interesting events that have happened."

When pappy heard about the men of the news room growing beards, he inquired, innocently, "Is it a part of the Tribune campaign to Make Medford Beautiful?" O.S.

Smooth-skinned winter Calavo avocados are now in season. To start off company meals, serve an avocado half shell with pink grapefruit sections and halved, seeded Tokay grapes. Top with a lemon juice and oil dressing flavored with celery seed.

Use Evaporated Milk For Tapioca Pudding
New York—(UPI)—Tapioca pudding with a party air can be made quickly and easily with carton or bottled chocolate milk.

Beat 1 egg white until foamy, add 2 tablespoons sugar, one at a time, and continue beating until stiff and glossy.
Beat 1 egg yolk, add 2 cups chocolate milk, 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 2 tablespoons sugar and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture reaches a boil, about 5 to 8 minutes.

Pour a small amount of hot mixture into egg white, blending well. Stir in remaining hot mixture, add 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, and cool slightly. Turn into 4 or 6 sherbet glasses, top with shredded coconut and grated unsweetened chocolate. Chill.

Meeting Changed By Parents' Club

An exhibit of student work will feature a meeting of St. Mary's Grade School Parents' club Monday, November 24, at 8 p.m. in the school activities room.

The meeting date, usually the first Monday of the month, was advanced one week from December 1 in order not to conflict with the Institute for Archdiocesan Elementary Teachers, which St. Mary's grade school teachers will be attending at Mt. Angel December 1-2.

Host couple for the evening will be Dr. and Mrs. Arnold Depper. Mrs. Arnold Becker and a committee of mothers of pupils in the fourth and fifth grades will serve refreshments during the social hour.

Noting the attendance of more than 100 parents at the October meeting, the Very

Rev. Carl Mai stated that the increasing interest and participation in the club's meetings and activities is most encouraging. Club officers urge parents of all the school children to attend all the meetings if possible; a special invitation is extended to the parents of new students.

Natural Foods Publications To Be Topic

Natural Foods' associates will hold a public meeting on Tuesday, November 25 in Medford High school at 8 p.m. in Room 30.

Mrs. Esther Coleman will report on the commercial production of vinegar. The balance of the program will be a report on each of the six leading monthly magazines published in the field of natural foods and human nutrition. Various members of the club will report on each periodical.

These magazines include the official publication of the organization which is called, "Natural Foods and Farming" and "Let's Live," "Prevention," "Modern Nutrition," "Organic Gardening and Farming," and "Herald of Health."

This is an open meeting and everyone is welcome.
