Camp White Man In Fair Condition

Jack Shipman, 59, of Camp White, was reported in fair condition Friday by Camp White authorities after apparently attempting suicide Thursday afternoon.

Chief Criminal Deputy Joe Walsh said Shipman had apparently tried to commit suicide before entering his office in the courthouse. He admitted to deputies in the office "that he had tried to do away with himself," Walsh said.

Sheriff's officers said Shipman came into the office Thursday and asked for the jailer. He started to vomit, removed a handkerchief from his pocket and an empty iodine bottle fell out, officers said.

Dr. A. Erin Merkle, public health officer, was called and Shipman taken to Sacred Heart hospital. He was later transferred to the Camp White domiciliary infirmary.

Shipman was arraigned Thursday on charges of grand larceny and the case was continued until Nov. 28 to permit him to obtain an attorney. He is charged with taking a tape-recorder from Purucker's Music House in Medford Nov. 1.

Centennial Group Seeks Picture of Applegate

Portland — The history committee of the Oregon centennial has asked anybody who has a photograph of Jesse Applegate, an Oregon pioneer, to report the fact to the committee.

Malcolm Clark, chairman of the history committee, said the committee is having a series of cartoons and biological sketches made ready for use in Oregon newspapers in the centennial year, 1959.

Clark said the committee has "found a photograph of each subject to be discussed in the series except Applegate. The only likeness we have been able to find of him is a sketch drawn by a nephew 20 years after his death."

Centennial headquarters are at 400 Jackson tower, Portland.

Leader of Column
Jesse Applegate was one of three brothers who moved to Oregon in 1843, and was a leader of a column of 900 settlers who crossed the plains that year.

He established a farm in what is now western Polk county, built a mill, worked as a surveyor and surveyed the site of Oregon City and in 1846 had a share in opening the Applegate trail to southern Oregon.

He was a member of the legislative committee of the provisional government in 1849. The lowest spot on earth is the Dead Sea near Jericho, Jordan, which is 1,300 feet below the level of the Mediterranean Sea.

1845 an influential in shaping the development of Oregon as a territory in 1857. Applegate died in 1888 at the age of 77.
