

Scientist Recruitment Must Begin With Teens

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
New York — UPI — America will have the scientists it needs only when it starts recruiting them in their teens and also starts paying them a living wage, says a top woman researcher. She is Mrs. Erna Leonhardt Gibbs, of Chicago, who with her doctor-husband has spent more than a quarter of a century studying how the human brain "keeps house."

"In any field of scientific research, it will be a long time before America can come back... can catch up," she said. "We haven't given children a chance to know about scientists... they get all their ideas from television. You know, the Frankenstein stuff."

Science Comes High
"They don't get to meet a real researcher, to see him at work. If we want scientists, we've got to recruit them in high school. It is too late by the time they get to college."

"And we've got to start paying them. A researcher stays with his field for love of it. My husband says you have to be crazy to choose research for a career."

"People can't afford to be scientists. We treat them like we treat teachers."

Even so, the couple's two sons are following their parents into research. One son, Erich, 20, is studying medicine at Harvard; another, Frederic, 17, is still in high school, but plans to be an atomic physicist.

Mrs. Gibbs and the family came to Medford last week to attend an American Women's association luncheon in her honor. She was presented the association's 27th annual achievement award; in other years, its recipients have included Margaret Sanger, Amelia Earhart, Frances E. Perkins and Carrie Chapman Catt.

With the award goes a scholarship fund which Mrs. Gibbs said would be turned over to the Brain Research foundation, a study center, which she and her husband helped to form in 1953.

Use "Brain Mapper"
Born in Mappert, Mrs. Gibbs began her career as a student laboratory technician in Massachusetts General hospital. She met Gibbs in 1929 when both were working on the same research project.

In their research, the Gibbs work with an electronic machine called the electroencephalograph, a "brain mapper" developed by Dr. Hans Burger, of Germany.

She has brain mapped the mentally retarded and the mentally sick, although she explained that the electroencephalograph will not register the changes in psychoses.

Phoenix Women To Hold Bazaar

Phoenix — Women's association of Phoenix Presbyterian church will hold a bazaar December 5 at the church. Members are asked to make donations of hand work, aprons, baked food and other articles for sale at the event.

The committee, Mrs. M. A. Williams, Mrs. W. M. Caldwell and Mrs. Edward Brown, will be glad to receive information concerning donations.

Plans for the bazaar and for division of the association membership into circles were made at a meeting last Thursday. It is planned to have two groups, one to meet afternoons and another in the evening. The circles will start meetings in January.

Mrs. George Osler, Medford, spoke concerning the international meeting of Women's associations of Presbyterian churches held last summer in West Lafayette, Ind.

Friday night the association sponsored a family night covered dish supper at the church, followed by the annual praise serve. The program was led by Mrs. William Saladin, with Mrs. Harold Ross assisting.

Ballet Film Set Tonight At Craterian

A concert showing of a full color, cinemascope film of the famous Russian Bolshoi Ballet company is scheduled for tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the Craterian theater. The film has been brought for one showing only.

Made in England, the film features Prima Ballerina Galina Ulanova who is often compared to the great Pavlova and whose dancing technique is described as dazzling. She will appear in "Giselle," a dance which is to the ballet what "Hamlet" is to drama. Also in the film are excerpts from "The Fountain of Bakhchisarai," "Swan Lake" and "Faust."

Other starring dancers of the Bolshoi (Russian for big) troupe are Raissa Struchova and Nikolai Fadeychev. The musical accompaniment is by the orchestra of the Royal Opera house in London and the Bournemouth Symphony orchestra.

The Russian film was brought to the United States as part of the cultural exchange program between the two countries under the sponsorship of the State Department. It is a Rank Film production directed by Paul Czinner who used five cameras. The film is said to capture the full impact of Russian ballet, and to show the marked contrast between the dancing of the Russians and those trained in this country. Bolshoi dancers are put into a special age-graded school at the age of eight years and remain until their training is complete. A personnel of 3,000 persons are said to man the Bolshoi Theater ballet in its various departments.

When the film appeared in New York City, it was described by dance critics as "a must of the season."

Speaker Named For Dinner Club

Ashland-Frank Branch Riley, Portland attorney, civic leader and publicist of the Pacific northwest, will speak for a meeting of Siskiyou Knife and Fork club Thursday, December 4. His topic will be "The Lure of the Pacific Northwest." Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. at the Plaza cafe.

Mr. Riley, a veteran of more than 26 transcontinental tours and over 2,000 addresses, is said to be a top-flight commentator on events, places and life in America.

Club members are to make their reservations with the secretary, Mrs. R. A. Herndobler, 1500 Oregon street, no later than December 2.

Rogue River Club Hears Talk On Soil Conservation

Rogue River—C. H. Ault, soil conservation technician with the Rogue Soil Conservation district, spoke for the last meeting of Rogue River Garden club November 18. His topic was conservation of wild life, a stream and soil, and he also showed slides.

Foster Luce spoke on flood control. Mrs. Paul Hughes spoke on "tucking in your garden for the winter." Mrs. Edward Engle told the history of the Oregon grape, the state flower, and Mrs. Herbert Brooks reported on the oak tree.

Mrs. Guy Hanley gave a short talk on the four-cent conservation stamp, and introduced Mr. Ault.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Sam Bellah on South Pacific highway, with Mrs. Willard Tenny and Mrs. Harry Andrews as co-hostesses. Mrs. Harold Weed won a prize.

Masonic Groups Make Plans for Church Sunday

Cave Junction—The Masonic lodge and its affiliated orders in the Illinois Valley will attend church in a body Sunday, November 30. The group will attend Immanuel Methodist church and members are asked to meet in Kerby and go to the church as a group.

Members of Bethel 36 presented their opening and closing ceremonies for the last meeting of Western Star chapter, Order of Eastern Star, held in the Masonic temple in Kerby. Jean Beam sang, accompanied by her mother.

Mrs. A. N. Collman, past master of Grants Pass OES chapter, was presented an honorary membership in Western Star chapter. The next meeting will be the annual Christmas party with gift exchange.

Episcopal Guild Cancels Luncheon

The luncheon scheduled for Friday, November 28, at 12 noon by the St. Mark's Episcopal church has been cancelled, according to Mrs. William B. Clegg. The meeting of the auxiliary will start at 1 p.m. as previously announced.

Veterans Plan Benefit Dance

Veterans of World War I will sponsor a benefit dance Wednesday, November 26, at Dreamland Dance hall. It will be open to the public and admission will be by donation to the "bucket of bucks." Proceeds will go to the barracks' welfare fund.

Music will be by a six-piece orchestra which regularly plays at the hall. Prizes will be awarded during the evening, those in charge state.

Californian Here To Visit Cousins
