School Production Of 'Brigadoon' Is Well Done by Cast

A large audience saw the opening performance of "Brigadoon" at Medford High school auditorium last night. Performances are scheduled for tonight and Saturday, and curtain time each night is 8 p.m.

"Brigadoon" is a typical American musical-comedy with light, catchy songs, spacy dialogue, dance routines and colorful costumes. For a school production, it is very well done.

Rosemary Doolen, John Frohnmayer, George Koch, Sue Baker, Paul Moore, Marianne Samuelson, Ted Lawson, Rosemary Tokar and Dennis Barr play and sing the leading roles. Miss Doolen and young Frohnmayer are an appealing pair in the lead roles and Miss Doolen's sweet soprano voice has improved considerably during the past year.

In George Koch and Sue Baker the school has two students who fit easily into the roles of the fast-talking Jeff Douglas and the pert, saucy Meg. Both are naturals for comedy with a comedy touch. Ted Lawson turns in a good performance as Harry Beaton and his Scottish sword dance is impressive.

Dennis Barr does very well indeed with the mature role of Mr. Lundie, and Marianne Samuelson is a sweet and graceful Jean, the bride-to-be, playing the romantic bridegroom.

The set for "Brigadoon" is good, particularly the forest scene with its impressionistic trees and blue background and lighting. An enormous amount of work went into the set, staging and costumes, as well as into the rehearsing of dialogue, songs and dances, and a large cast and crew backed up the principals. The singing of the chorus brought considerably favorable comment last night, and the dancing is of the modern interpretive type.

The production staff included Lynn Sjolund, musical director; Lenore Zapell, dramatics director; Warren Wolf, set design; John Drysdale, orchestra; Melody Pierce, pianist; Judy Carver, organist; Robert Stedman, lights; Stanley Zapell, Earl Knight and Allen Con, set construction. Bonnie Cox was assistant stage manager; Rosemary Tokar was dance director and Phil Morgan, student lights director. The Art Students' league and drama classes worked on the sets.

"Brigadoon" is a typical American musical comedy written primarily for presentation before the ultra-sophisticated, jaded, adult audiences of New York, San Francisco and other large cities. This reviewer believes that it is too sophisticated, with its bar scene and frank dialogue, for presentation by a high school cast.

Labor Pledges Fight to Raise Minimum Wage

Washington — (UP) — Organized labor has pledged a determined fight to raise the minimum wage from $1 to $1.25 an hour. It has taken on the battle despite warnings of strong opposition even in the heavily-Democratic new Congress.

AFL-CIO President George Meany declared Thursday that the minimum wage should be boosted by a quarter and coverage should be extended to millions more workers.

Meany said the move would meet powerful opposition and cries of "socialism." But he said "the trade union movement will not be deterred nor halted by such meaningless and hypocritical attacks."

The AFL-CIO leader spoke Thursday night in an address climaxing a two-day conference marking the 20th anniversary of the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act which now provides for a $1-an-hour minimum wage. The conference was sponsored by the AFL-CIO and the National Consumers League.

Union Business Representative Shot By Painter

West Hollywood, Calif. — (UP) — "I only wanted to humiliate him in front of everybody. I told him to walk to the swimming pool and jump in and when he didn't I shot him in the stomach. He ran and I followed him and shot him again."

Howard Newman, 35, non-union painting contractor, Thursday explained with those words why he shot and killed Roderick MacKenzie, 66, a union business representative for Painters Union Local 5.

Witnesses told police Newman shot MacKenzie in the stomach as the union man approached a company site where Newman had a painting contract. He then shot him in the back and leg as the victim turned to flee.

MacKenzie fell to the ground and Newman went up to him, pulled up his head and fired a final shot behind the left ear, witnesses said.

Sheriff's deputies, who booked Newman on suspicion of murder, said the two men became involved in a dispute earlier in the week when MacKenzie pulled one of Newman's union workers off a job in retaliation for Newman's hiring of non-union workers.

Pulled Worker Off
"I had four men working for me Tuesday," Newman said. "When MacKenzie pulled the one union worker off, two of the others got scared and quit."

"There was only one man and myself working Wednesday. I was afraid MacKenzie would come back and pull him off. I brought a .32-caliber revolver from home, but I only intended to humiliate him by making him jump in the pool in the back of the building."

After the shooting, Newman walked into a nearby office, laid the gun down on a counter and told Mrs. Patricia Finger, 19, a switchboard operator, to call police.
