

'HARDWARE' SALESMAN
Ravenna, Ohio—UPI—Traveling salesman James N. Zeh is one of the most popular callers at police stations in Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York. He's also the most camera shy. Zeh sells pistols, riot guns, tear gas, leg irons, blackjacks, handcuffs and similar hardware to policemen in the three-state area. When he hits the road in his station wagon he's a rolling arsenal.

"I've got about 30 revolvers in my car," Zeh said. "All I need is to have some thug see my photograph so he could hijack me. He'd have the arsenal, complete with bullets."

FOREST WARNING

Lafayette, Ind.—UPI—Unless U.S. forest lands are better managed in the future than they are now, this country may have trouble meeting its timber needs, says a Purdue University forester. Population increases, more reservoirs and highways and land urbanization are combining to reduce the amount of commercial forest land, three-quarters of which is privately owned. Most of the trouble, said the forestry expert, is that forests are not supporting as many trees as they should. Some areas, he said, have less than 10 per cent of the trees they are capable of maintaining.

TO DIE—Harvey Glatman, San Diego, Calif., rape-murderer of three women, has been sentenced to die in the gas chamber. Glatman kidnaped the women, raped them, took nude photographs, and strangled them.

Gen. Schriever States Security Fooled Personnel

Inglewood, Calif.—UPI—Maj. Gen. Benard A. Schriever said Friday that security preceding the orbiting of the Atlas missile was so complete that even some of the control bunker personnel were unaware of the giant rocket's destiny. Schriever, chief of the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division here, said "when they saw that the guidance system did not cut off at burnout as it had on shots up to now, they tried to punch the manual button, but they did not know that the manual button had been disconnected."

"They thought the automatic cut off was not functioning as planned," he added.

He explained the difference between guidance systems used to put earlier satellites into orbit and the type used in Thursday's Atlas firing was that the Atlas was kept under continuous guidance until it was put into orbit.

He said the reason for such secrecy in launching the 85-foot missile was that the Air Force wanted to see if it could do something without a lot of advance boasting.

Prestige of U.S. Soars World-Over In Wake of Atlas

Toyko—UPI—Americans prestige soared around the world yesterday in the wake of the Atlas satellite.

The United States' Asian allies, Nationalist China, the Republic of Korea, welcomed reports of the four-ton artificial moon-rocket.

Official and newspaper comments reflected the feeling that the United States finally had over-shadowed Soviet efforts in putting satellites into space.

The military implications of the successful shoot were noted, but more attention was paid to the major scientific advance it represented in the field of communication.

European newspapers also bannered the U. S. rocket success, but Moscow Radio noted only that 148 of the satellite's 8,000 pounds was payload.

European reaction concentrated on the advance in military weapons represented by the Atlas missiles.

Rome's Momento-Serra said the Atlas "proves that today America is in a condition to strike any target in the Soviet Union from U. S. bases."
