New York Enchanted City During Christmas Season

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

New York—(UPI)—This is the time of the year I fall in love all over again with New York.

With the Christmas season, it becomes an enchanted city and its heart overflows with goodwill making me forgive it for its ugliness and brusque, uncaring personality the rest of the year.

One walk up gaily decorated Fifth avenue is enough to light the torch. A longer tour and I'm hopelessly enamored. Gotham in its holiday mood is something for all to see, to hear, to sense.

From regal Empire State building to the smallest shop in picturesque Greenwich village, New York shows its charms to native and visitor. The most famous holiday sight is the tree at Rockefeller Center—this year a 64-foot white spruce, a gift from Maine. One thousand plastic globes in red and white and three thousand fiery bulbs turn it into a breath-taking spectacle.

Christmas Menagerie
The promenade from Fifth avenue to the center itself is filled with wire-sculptured creatures of the forest, from tiny chipmunks and field mice to lordly deer with golden antlers.

Across the street, Saks Fifth avenue has turned its face into a pipe organ three stories tall. Life-size choir boys sing "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen" and other Christmas music for the shoppers along the famous fashion street.

Walk or ride down Park avenue, with its three-mile ribbon of Christmas trees, lighted each season by the residents of the Elite street, as a memorial to the dead of World War II and Korea. At the end of the avenue stands the New York Central tower, with its 200-foot cross formed by lighted windows to remind us of the holiday's significance.

Office buildings themselves seem determined to outdo last year in Christmas decor. The huge glass-enclosed lobby of Lever house on Park avenue has a carousel, which travels with a circus most of the year but now is glamorized with tiny red and white figures, a sleigh, and a skating pond nearby.

Warm and Gay
Across the street, the Seagram skyscraper has filled its plaza with a forest of 125 brightly decorated Christmas trees. Concealed stereophonic equipment pours out carols and hymns. And thousands come daily to my own office building, the Daily News, to see the lobby display—looking up toward the starlit ceiling, it is as if one were looking up through the center of a towering Christmas tree.

Yes, New York has more than its share of the holiday spirit. Faces of its millions wear smiles. Shoppers hum carols as they spend. For a little while, the city becomes warm and gay and human. It is a pity that we do not keep it so.

Lodge to Confer Rank of Page; Yule Party Held

The rank of page will be conferred upon a class of candidates at tonight's meeting of Talisman lodge, Knights of Pythias, set for 8 o'clock, in the Pythian building. The usual coffee hour will follow the initiation, according to Edward Bostwick, lodge secretary.

Donald Lacy, Central Point, has been appointed lodge deputy for 1959 by the grand chancellor of Oregon. Mr. Bostwick was mistakenly named as appointee in a previous list of newly elected officers for 1959.

Officers for the newly formed Rogue Valley Dokey club, will be elected following tonight's initiation, according to Joe W. Fritsch, DOKK secretary.

The annual Christmas party was held last Tuesday evening by the Knights of Pythias, Pythian Sisters, Sunshine Girls and Troop 16, Boy Scouts, their parents and friends. Entertainment before dinner was by The Shadows, a group of St. Marys high school boys who sang carols. Later several groups of the Sunshine Girls sang Christmas songs with Mrs. Bostwick, their leader, as pianist. Three Boy Scouts, Tommy Martin, Grant Schroeder and Warren Fullmer, entertained with accordion numbers, and Gordon Schroeder, Ernie Jones and Gary Christensen played piano numbers.

The Sunshine Girls teamed up with the Boy Scouts and Bliss Heine on his trumpet, for the song, "Jingle Bells." Tiny Susie and Ronnie O'Duane joined hands and wished everyone "Merry Christmas."

Santa Claus (Dan Kadin) gave out bags of goodies to the children and teenagers gathered around the Christmas tree. Rae Jack was general chairman, assisted by his wife, Mrs. Bostwick was mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Rene Grosh was chairman in charge of the dinner committee.

TIPS ON TURKEYS
East Lansing, Mich.—(UPI)—How big a turkey to buy? Here is what home economics extension specialists at Michigan State University advise.

If you need just four servings, then buy a 4-pound turkey. If you want 10 servings, get an 8-pound bird; for 20 servings, a 12-pound one. A 20-pound turkey will provide about 40 servings. As birds get larger, each pound yields more servings.

Couple Returns From Trip East; Durnos to Leave

Dr. and Mrs. Brian Stringer returned to Medford last week after spending a month in Boston, Rochester and Cleveland. The Stringers came to Medford in September from California where Dr. Stringer had been studying and working at the University of California hospital.

For the present the couple will live at 21 North Keene-way drive and later they will occupy the residence of Mrs. Stringer's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Durno on East Main street while the Durnos are in Salem. Dr. Durno was elected to the Oregon senate during the last election.

The Durno's younger daughter, Miss Kaye Durno, has arrived from San Francisco, where she teaches school, to spend Christmas with her family here. December 26 the Durnos and their daughter will leave for San Francisco to attend the East-West game. They will also be accompanied by another daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hensley, of Medford. The four will continue south to spend a few days at Palm Desert, Calif., before returning to Medford.

Passing Centuries Bring Many Changes In Styles for Toys
Minneapolis—(UPI)—Toys come in and out of vogue almost as often as silhouettes of fashion.

Greek children played with dolls. The Egyptians turned doll-making into fine art. Paris of their jointed dolls and animals—even a mechanical baker kneading dough—have been found in ruins dating back 4,000 years.

In the 16th Century, the playhouse was the most-wanted present. Some miniature houses were mansions with tiny paintings and elegant furniture.

The 17th Century saw the clockwork toy rise to popularity, and the 18th Century specialized in musical devices.

Now, the age of realism. New materials make it possible to manufacture dolls which do everything but breathe. Furry animals can be washed, and miniature trucks and cars have moving engine parts and friction motors.

LABELS FOR THE BIRDS
East Lansing, Mich.—(UPI)—Look for a government label on the holiday turkey you buy, say extension specialists in home economics at Michigan State University.

A label will tell you if the bird has been inspected for wholesomeness and graded for quality. It will indicate the age of the bird, and act as a guide for its cooking. The best turkeys are labeled "U.S. Grade A."

Keep Pie Crusty
East Lansing, Michigan—(UPI) Brush the bottom crust of fruit pie with oil or soft fat to prevent it from getting soggy, suggest Michigan State University nutritionists. Thicken juices of frozen fruit, and bake the pie at as high a temperature as the filling will allow.

Mushroom Stuffing
New York—(UPI)—The American Mushroom Institute suggests mushroom stuffing for turkey or chicken.

Mix 2 cups stale bread cubes (4 slices) with ½ cup chicken stock or water and ¼ cup melted butter or margarine. Add ¼ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Sauté ¼ cup finely chopped celery and ½ cup finely chopped onions in 4 tablespoons butter. Add mushrooms and saute. Sprinkle with ½ teaspoon grated nutmeg. Add to other ingredients and mix well. Stuff loosely into cavity and truss.

For a 12 to 15 pound bird, increase ingredients three times.

New Gift Plans Turn Expressman Into Grocery Boy

Chicago—(UPI)—The expressman looks more like a grocery delivery boy every year. Latest firm to load him with food parcels on a seasonal gift plan is a Chicago meat packer who has launched a mail order service for prime meats.

For $100, Pfaelzch Brothers, Inc., will ship basic meat-of-the-season boxes anywhere in the United States. Charges are slightly higher for shipment abroad.

By basic meat the company means prime rib roast for Christmas, hickory smoked ham for Easter, a grill assortment of loin lamb chops, barbecue ribs, chopped tenderloin steaks and boneless top sirloin steaks for the Fourth of July, and a hen turkey for Thanksgiving.

Add $25 to the basic plan charges and you can have all that, plus corned beef brisket for St. Patrick's Day, and a sampler assortment of prime steaks for Labor Day.

Remembering Mother's and Father's Days comes higher—a total of 30 steaks for the two occasions, plus six other holiday shipments, for $170.

If you want to go whole hog, it will cost you $210 to become a member of the meat-of-the-month plan. This starts with double lamb chops in January.

Rogue River Club Has Yule Party

Rogue River—Rogue River Garden club's December meeting and Christmas party was held at the home of Mrs. Carl Christenson on South Pacific highway December 16. Twenty-five members attended.

Refreshments were served by co-hostesses Mrs. Paul Hughes and Mrs. Roy Larson. A short business meeting followed.

Mrs. Lawrence Burkhardt gave a talk on the narcissus, and Mrs. Harold Weed spoke on the fir tree and mistletoe. As the highlight of the afternoon, Mrs. Carl Christenson gave the history of some of the bells in her collection of over 300.

Christmas carols were sung by the group, and a gift exchange brought the meeting to a close.

The group is remembering 10 shut-ins in the community with small decorated trees and is also helping with Christmas candy for the grade school in Rogue River.

The next meeting, January 20, will be at the home of Mrs. W. D. McGarvie on Savage Creek road.

Major Civil Rights Battle Shaping In New Congress

Washington—(UPI)—Statements from northern and southern senators made clear today that a major civil rights battle is shaping for the new Congress.

The northerners predicted the administration would call for more civil rights legislation and advocated federal action to help southerners ease racial tensions.

At the same time, the southerners predicted any attempt to curb the Senate filibuster rule would have little chance of success and advocated voluntary relocation of southern Negroes to northern states.

Here was what the senators said in interviews Sunday: —Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) called for federal action to free the South's "every able man for constructive services" in easing racial problems. He specifically mentioned Sen. Russell Long (D-La.) and Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.)

Equal Distribution
—Russell said he would introduce legislation aimed at bringing about a more equal distribution of Negroes throughout the nation. The bill would create a voluntary racial relocation commission.

—Sen. Clifford Case (R-N.J.) said he expected the administration to call for extension of the life of the Civil Rights Commission and strengthening of the Justice Department's power to act in civil rights violation cases. He said the administration also might call for an anti-bombing bill.

—Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) predicted efforts to curb the Senate filibuster rule—traditional weapon used against civil rights bills—would meet with little success. He said the filibuster has never defeated one bill beneficial to the people.

A majority of 16 new senators also urged in copyrighted interviews in U. S. News and World Report that the Senate curb its filibuster rules. Their statements added new pressure for an all-out fight over the filibuster on the opening of the new Congress next month.
