Stockton Orphans Again Assured of Merry Christmas

Stockton, Calif. –(UPI)– Once upon a time there was an orphans' home here where the 55 boys and girls who lived in the home were ordinary children except for one thing – they were hungry for parental love.

They had many friends in Stockton who supplied the orphan's home with the necessities of life, but the love normally furnished by fathers and mothers was not there.

To them Santa Claus was a jolly man seen in picture books. He did visit them each year, leaving modest gifts, and they were happy with them. But something was missing. Maybe it was the thing other people call Christmas spirit.

One Christmas, if the children had been looking, they may have seen and felt the glow of the Christmas star. If they had been listening, they may have heard the jingle of sleigh bells.

For Santa Claus arrived fully loaded that Christmas eve two years ago. He left playground equipment, bicycles, a record player and a supply of records for skating music and wallets containing three dollars each for spending money.

Badmen Turned Good

The children at least the younger ones, still don't know why Santa was able to be so generous that Christmas of 1956. It was through the kind hearts of the men of California's Folsom prison–2600 badmen turned good, 2600 hardened convicts turned soft.

For the men of Folsom rejoiced at the gladness in the hearts of Stockton's orphans. The Christmas spirit they gave was returned in the gratitude of the children.

These were bad men. Many of them were murderers, kidnapers and armed robbers, and their prison is the strongest in California.

But some of them, too, were orphans. And many of them were from broken or poor homes and knew the disappointment of an empty Christmas.

The convicts saved their small amounts of money, much of it earned in prison jobs at $3 to $12 per month. Others shared the small allowances they received from friends and relatives on the outside. Still others worked in the prison hobby shops to make purses wallets and jewelry to sell to visitors at the prison.

Most of them smoked "roll-your-own" cigarettes because they couldn't afford the more expensive kind they call "tailor-mades."

And they put their efforts together. Some gave a few pennies, others as much as five dollars. Last year things were a little tighter, and they could collect no more than $800.

Merry Christmas Assured

Last year Santa brought dolls, baseball equipment, footballs, wool blankets, more bikes and records, a TV set, nearly complete wardrobes and three dollars spending money.

Santa should have a heavy load this year, too. To make up for the shortage of money, the Folsom men built sand boxes in the prison for the orphans' playground. They also built a dog house for the home's big dog, a Dalmatian named Mr. C. H. but better known as "Sputty." And they made belts, slippers and wooden toys.

With the money they bought a sewing machine to teach the girls how to make clothes. And they bought a tether ball, roller skates, four radios, books, paint sets and clothing. And then there's an individual Christmas card for each one containing two dollars spending money.

The men at Folsom are not giving a party for the children because they can't be there. But other friends in Stockton will. And nobody doubts the orphans' happiness Christmas morning will be felt 75 miles away at Folsom.

COPS' VICTIM?—Mrs. Ogene Griffith, 22, here shown with her husband in their attorney's office has accused two Detroit policemen of raping her in an empty parking lot. She said she was driving home when the policemen stopped her, ordered her to follow them, and then at the parking lot entered her car and attacked her. One of the accused policemen has said that he "would kill myself before they get me into court." Both policemen have heretofore had good records.

Interest Sold In G.P. Building

Portland –(UPI)– Ben Dierks, Grants Pass lumberman, announced Saturday that the controlling interest in a nearly-completed 14-story medical building here which bears his name has been sold to a Portland syndicate.

The buyers include Carl M. Halvorsen, Portland contractor; Lloyd Babler, president of Babler Brothers, general contractors, and Commonwealth, Inc., the property's managing agent.

Dierks said the sale was prompted by the need for additional capital required to finish the four-million dollar structure.

Dierks said he was retaining a "substantial" interest in the building.

Nervy Thief Takes Christmas Presents

Portland –(UPI)– A thief with a lot of nerve stole a number of Christmas presents from the Frank L. McGuire home here, police reported Saturday.

The thief entered the home through an unlocked back door and took the gifts from under the Christmas tree in the McGuire's front room.

Restaurant Mishap Checked by Agents

Mexico City –(UPI)– Federal agents Saturday checked the possibility of political sabotage in an explosion that demolished the swank La Ronda restaurant killing six persons including a young American woman. A total of 24 persons were injured, four of them critically, including the young woman's companion.

The American woman was identified as Betty Arnold, of Houston, Tex. Identification was made through a 1957 Rice university graduation ring. She died on the way to Central Red Cross hospital.

Her companion was Richard Ray Herrin, about 30, also of Houston. He was reported in critical condition at the Central Red Cross hospital after an emergency operation.

The other dead were Mexican.

Ike or Nixon May Visit Oregon Soon

Portland –(UPI)– Gov.-elect Mark Hatfield told a joint meeting of the Marion County Centennial committee and the Oregon Statehood Banquet committee here Saturday that he is optimistic that either President Eisenhower or Vice President Nixon might come to Oregon in February for statehood celebrations in Salem and Portland.

Hatfield said he planned to make telephone invitations to both Eisenhower and Nixon. Present plans are for Hatfield and other officials to attend a centennial celebration affair in the rotunda of the state capitol building on the afternoon of Feb. 14 and then attend a statehood banquet in Portland given by the Sons and Daughters of Oregon Pioneers.
