Handsome Appetizer Can Be Made Ahead

Here's a sweet and savory appetizer for an important sit-down dinner. Iced fresh fruits are wedged by a dash of liquor or flavoring for offering lucky guests along with pungent canapes perhaps combining pimiento cream cheese and red caviar on crisp crackers.

Day before party, section oranges and grapefruit, add thinly sliced red-skinned apples and put in a refrigerator container. Add enough orange juice to cover fruit and any flavored flavoring (creme de menthe, cointreau, rum, brandy, vanilla or almond flavoring or liquid from green or red maraschino cherries with some of the cherry added).

Chill overnight to blend flavors. At serving time, arrange in prettiest sherbet glasses. Add a few banana slices and a sprig of mint if you like.

Spicy Ham Loaf For Open House

For open house for a crowd or simply to have on hand for family enjoyment, a well-seasoned ham loaf is a happy thing to have handy. Can be put together the day before; baked then for serving cold or refrigerated and baked another day for serving hot. Make one, two or more loaves according to demand.

3 cups ground or finely chopped cooked ham
1/2 cup fine bread crumbs
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/8 teaspoon allspice
1/8 teaspoon ground cloves
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/2 cup milk

Combine ham, bread crumbs, onion, green pepper, mustard, allspice and cloves. Add eggs and milk and mix until well blended. Pack into a one-quart loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 45 minutes. Unmold and serve, garnished with lemon or orange cups filled with cranberry relish. Dress up platter with shiny leaves from shrubbery.

Orange Egnog For Small Fry

Small fry take special delight in doing what their elders do, so give them the pleasure of sipping eggnog made especially for them. They'll never suspect that it is packed with good nutrition. Top with a "whip" and a dash of nutmeg for glamour.

Combine one quart milk, one-half cup confectioners' sugar, two well-beaten eggs, one-half cup orange juice, one teaspoon grated orange rind and some ice cubes in a shaker. Shake well.

Offer with Mickey Mouse or animal crackers, sugar wafers, arrowroot biscuit, graham crackers or other assorted cookies dear to the hearts of childhood.

Pineapple Bowl

Party trick certain to be admired is easily achieved. Choose pineapple for looks as well as ripeness. Cut crown from pineapple about two inches down from top, following scallops of the shell to give scalloped effect. Remove core and hollow out fruit with a sharp knife.

Chop fruit chunks fine and you'll have about two cups. Soften an eight-ounce package of cream cheese at room temperature; blend with two tablespoons light cream on low speed of electric mixer or otherwise. Fold in the chopped pineapple. Return to pineapple shell and refrigerate overnight for flavor-blending. Surround pineapple bowl with cracker assortment; use pineapple crown as platter decoration.

Coffee for Crowd

Throughout the holidays, the cup that cheers helps keep festive spirits high. Coffee for a crowd is made in a matter of minutes when you have a two-ounce jar of instant coffee at hand. No coffee measuring or guessing.

For 32 cups of consistently good coffee, empty one two-ounce jar instant coffee into a pot; add 1 1/2 gallons (six quarts) boiling water. Stir, cover and let simmer several minutes but do not boil. Watch it! Do not boil! Have fun!

Sauce Sorcery for Leftover Fruit Cake

For leftover fruit cake that will really "take the cake," try some sorcery with sauces. These alluring looking, good tasting foamy sauces, heated in a double boiler, will put your leftover fruit cake slices and pieces right up in the party-glamour class. Pure vanilla extract blends the other sweet flavors.

Creamy Hard Sauce. Cream one-half cup butter or margarine until softened. Gradually blend in 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar along with one teaspoon vanilla extract. Fold in one-half cup heavy cream, whipped. Serve over steamed puddings, steamed fruit cake, garnish with a sprinkle of grated orange or lemon rind if you like.

Mocha Sauce. Cream one-half cup butter or margarine until fluffy. Gradually blend in one cup sifted confectioners' sugar and one egg yolk. Cook over hot water until hot, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Beat in 1 1/2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract and one-half teaspoon instant coffee. Carefully fold in two stiffly beaten egg whites. Serve warm or cold over steamed pudding, cottage pudding or sponge cake. Garnish with shaved unsweetened chocolate, if desired.

Market Plantiffs

December's end and the new year in our immediate future finds us raiding the refrigerator and vegetable bins, checking the breadbox and the cake box; figuring ways of using all those delectable leftovers. Fruits and nuts may well go into salads with a generous bowl while

The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual report. The Family Council does not give advice; it merely reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Ruth M. — Mildred doesn't respond to my help.

Mildred S. — Nobody cares if I live or die.

Ruth M. — I have been a widow for several years and I feel that I am in a good position to help a good friend of mine whose husband died a year ago. However, I am worried because Mildred doesn't seem to be snapping back and doesn't respond to my help.

One problem may be that Mildred is childless. I have three married children and they and the grandchildren keep me busy and active. But even that is not enough. I have found a lot of pleasure in going to lectures and joining women's clubs.

I feel that Mildred needs that kind of thing, but she is so reluctant to go. She refuses to go out and buy herself nice clothes and then insists she has nothing to wear. If she does go she says she feels out of place. I tell her she must do these things. It's good for her.

Mildred S. — Is it good for anyone to do things you don't care for and have no interest in? Those lectures and women's clubs Ruth has taken me to are so boring I could hardly sit through until the end.

It is certainly no incentive to have to get up and go out to a thing like that. Sometimes I think there is just no sense in getting up in the morning at all. Just putting on any old clothes seems to take more energy than I have. My husband was an invalid for some time before he died. No effort I made for him seemed like too much. I had boundless energy. Yet I can't seem to do a thing for myself.

I suppose if I had a lot of relatives living near me things would be different. But I have nobody who cares if I live or die.

The Council. Mildred is lucky to have as good and thoughtful a friend as Ruth, particularly in view of the fact that at this time she takes no interest in others and probably does not reciprocate Ruth's kindness. She runs a strong risk of losing even this one good friend.

Ruth should realize, however, that good advice and graciousness can serve as a spur to a down-in-the-doldrums friend, but it can't do the whole job. As long as Mildred allows herself to be dragged to various functions and is unable to generate any active interest, little will be accomplished.

Mildred's reaction to her lonely widowhood is a natural one, but it is also rather dangerous if it is allowed to continue indefinitely. What Mildred is really saying is that her incentive to live is gone now that she is no longer needed and no longer in an
