

Renovation in Tibet May Be Too Hot for China Communists

Tokyo — (UPI) — Communist China may have found the mountainous country of Tibet too hot to handle but it hasn't given up trying to master that ancient kingdom.

It has served notice that it is going to step up what it calls a "democratic renovation" in Tibet.

One of the main points on the Communists' 1959 program for Tibet is the development, "on a wide and deep scale, propaganda and education on patriotism and socialism."

And its leaders are going to have to work.

Every indication from Tibet, however, is that the Tibetans do not need any lessons in patriotism, patriotism toward Tibet, that is.

Reports from Tibet give firm evidence that there is a wide-spread revolt in the kingdom against Communist Chinese rule. Estimates of Red deaths is a summer-fall uprising total about 50,000, and Tibetan death estimates range from 5,000 to 15,000.

The warlike, nomadic Khamba tribe in the eastern province touched off the uprising, and it apparently is spreading.

The Peiping government admitted that it was having trouble in Tibet when it announced it was going to delay imposition of its controversial commune system in that country.

But that does not mean Red China has given up its attempt to communize Tibet.

The "Tibet Autonomous Area Preparatory Committee" met in Lhasa last Friday to discuss 1959 policy.

NATIONAL FOREST TIMBER FOR SALE

Oral auction bids will be received by the Forest Supervisor, authorized representative at the office of the Forest Supervisor, Post Office Building, Medford, Oregon, beginning at 2:00 p.m., February 2, 1959, for all merchantable timber marked or designated for cutting on an area embracing about 207 acres, more or less, within section 20, T. 31 S., R. 3 E., W. 1/4 M., surveyed in the Union Creek District, Rogue River National Forest, Jackson County, Oregon. Estimated volumes are 850 M board feet of Douglas-fir, 130 M board feet of pine species and 80 M board feet of white fir and other species. The minimum acceptable bid per M board feet is as follows: Douglas-fir, $30.85, pine species, $29.00, white fir and other species, $19.95. This includes the following stumpage rates per M board feet: Douglas-fir, $23.85, pine species, $22.00, white fir and other species, $9.95, plus $4.50 for sale area betterment and $1.00 for slash disposal, for all species. In addition there is within the sale area an unestimated volume of Douglas-fir cull peels which will be paid for at $2.00 per M board feet gross scale, for stumpage only. As a qualification for oral bidding, all bidders must submit a sealed bid accompanied by the required payment to the Forest Supervisor prior to 2:00 p.m., February 2, 1959. Sealed bids will be posted at the beginning of the auction for the information of all bidders. A money order, bank draft, cashier's check, refunded, or retained in part as liquidated damages, according to the conditions of sale, of an oral bid is declared to be high at the closing of the auction, the bidder must immediately confirm the oral bid by submitting it in writing on a Forest Service bid form. The right to reject any and all bids is reserved. Forest Service bid forms for use in submitting sealed bids and full information concerning the timber, the conditions of sale and the submission of bids should be obtained from the District Ranger, Union Creek Ranger Station, or the Forest Supervisor, Medford, Oregon, before bids are submitted.

Though one is almost as unlikely to see a wild reindeer in the United States as to see those pulling Santa Claus' sleigh, there are a few left in the northern part of the country, and there are plenty in Canada.

They are known as caribou. Nonetheless, they are just as much reindeer as the domesticated type, used by the Lapps, some of which were imported to Alaska in the late 1890s.

There are two main varieties of American caribou, the chief difference between them being the terrain in which they live. One, the smaller, is the Barren Ground type that lives in the open tundras of the extreme north. The other is the woodland caribou that inhabits the wooded areas from the northeastern states north to where the tundra begins, just below the Arctic Circle.

Strangely enough, there is a tendency on the part of the southern variety to migrate north in the winter, while the Barren Ground type definitely moves south. The two meet where the forest gives way to the barrens, but there is apparently no mingling of them.

Why the Lapps and some of the northern Siberian tribes should have domesticated the Eurasian caribou, or reindeer, and the Eskimos and Indians, who presumably came from Asia, have not done so with the American is something of a mystery. So far as the Eskimos are concerned, it couldn't have been for lack of appreciation of the animal. Chicago packers boast they use all of the pig but the squeal. The Eskimos, however, go them one better. When they kill a caribou, they make it a point to eat the contents of the animal's stomach. Unpalatable as that may seem, it is apparently quite sound.

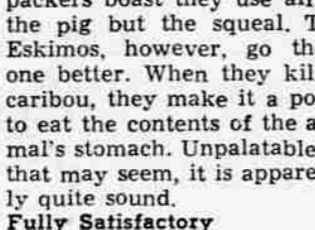

Fully Satisfactory The caribou feeds on mosses and lichens. These plants in their natural state would be as undigestible to an Eskimo as grass would be to us, but once the digestive juices of the caribou have begun to act on them, the Eskimo finds them fully as satisfactory as they would be in the final form of steak.

The caribou population of the Far North was estimated at upwards of 30,000,000 less than a century ago. Today, however, it probably does not exceed 1,000,000.

Cub Scouts

Den 11, Pack 8

Den 11 of Pack 8, Jackson school, met Tuesday, Dec. 16, at 727 Alder, the home of Jack Young. There, Mrs. Young had a surprise party arranged for the Cub Scouts with decorations, refreshments and games. This celebrated Jack Young's 10th birthday.

A short business meeting was held in which Michael Clark was elected Denner and Spence Webber was elected assistant denner.

Tuesday, Dec. 23, Den 11 again met at the home of the Den mother, where the Cubs made Christmas presents for their families. What we made were long strings of bells made from tin can lids, strung on red cords. There will be no meeting during the holidays, but Den 11 will meet again on Tuesday, Jan. 6.
