

DESPERATE MOTHER—Mrs. Frances Chienchio, in her hospital bed in New York, waits and prays for the safe return of her baby daughter, kidnaped from the hospital two hours after birth. Police and the FBI are searching for a woman resembling California's Betty Jean Benedicto, who three years ago kidnaped a new-born baby from a San Francisco hospital under similar circumstances.

HORN BROOK Tree Sale Brings Profit

By KATHERINE CHAPMAN
Hornbrook—Speaking in behalf of all members of Boy Scout troop No. 38 of Hornbrook, Scoutmaster Harley Baker extended thanks to all persons who bought their Christmas trees and greenery from the Boy Scout stand near Mrs. Kurt's store.

This is an annual money-making project conducted by the scouts, who, accompanied by their scoutmaster, go out to the territory assigned them by the Forest service, and cut their own trees and bring them in.

They were assisted this year in the sale of the trees by Mrs. Kurt, and by Joe Leon, proprietor of Mountain View Barber shop.

Miss Barbara Burns of Bellflower, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Bill Paulsen and daughter Debbie of Berkeley, and Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Dilley and son Pete, of Reno, Nev., were Christmas holiday visitors at the home of the girls' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ardon Burns. The Paulsens also visited in Central Point, Ore., with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Paulsen.

New Year's week end visitors at the Burns' home were his aunt, Mrs. Ida Henderson of Oroville, Calif., and Mrs. Eva Gandy of Eugene, Ore. They returned to their homes on Sunday.

That same day, Mr. and Mrs. Burns drove to McCloud, Calif., where they visited their son Bob, and his family.

Holiday visitors at the L. E. Jeter home were their son, Pvt. Bill Jeter, who is stationed at White Sands, N.M., and their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Campbell and son Ricky.

The Campbells returned on Saturday last to their home at Chico, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Fick of Canyonville, Ore., were Christmas eve and Christmas day guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chapman.

Leonard Bear returned Sunday from a two week's holiday trip to Portland, Salem, and Corvallis, where he visited his brother and sister. En route home he visited Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Fick in Canyonville.

En route from their home in Abbotsford, B.C., Canada, to Palm Springs, Calif., for a three month's winter vacation, Mr. and Mrs. William Klontz, were overnight visitors last week at the home of his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bear.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Walsh and daughter, Sharee, spent the Christmas holidays in Salem, Ore., with Mr. and Mrs. William Nothelfer, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Cameron, and Miss Florence Cameron.

Mrs. Walsh, Mrs. Nothelfer and Miss Cameron are sisters, and Cameron is their brother.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. C. (Bill) Small, pastor of the Hornbrook and Mt. St. Ague Methodist churches, drove to Santa Barbara, Calif., where they spent Christmas with their daughter and her family.

Pvt. Glenn Goodwin spent Christmas with his grandmother, Mrs. Priscilla Augsbarger, He returned last week to his base at Ft. Ord, Calif.

New members have been added to several Hornbrook families recently. On Nov. 24, a daughter weighing 8 pounds 15 ounces, was born at Mountain Home, Ida., to M/Sgt. and Mrs. E. R. Burtner. The baby has been named Ann Lynette. She is the couple's fifth child and third daughter. On Dec. 26 at Sacred Heart

Is That So?

By OLGA BURNS

When you see what is billed as a trained seal, the chances are better than a thousand to one it will be a trained sea lion.

You can tell by the ears. Seals haven't any that show. There are various other differences too. The sea lion's neck is long and graceful while the seal's in comparison is missing. Also, the sea lion can rotate his rear limbs, an advantage that gives him greater mobility on land and, quite possibly, the water as well.

As one might suspect from an animal that can hear better, crane his neck better and move better, the sea lion is also more intelligent than the seal. While the latter has been taught tricks, the seal is much slower to learn. Furthermore, he seems to do it in a plodding way, as if thinking only of the reward—a fish. The sea lion, on the other hand, goes at it with animation, almost blithely, learning with the speed of a student who is happy in his work. They are interested in the reward, too, of course, but some of them that have done well in circuses or on the stage have been thought to enjoy the applause almost as much as human stars.

Two decades later, when the sea lions were active again, the fishermen once more raised an outcry. In the 1920's the sea lion rookeries were attacked by riflemen and blasted with dynamite, but it was finally decided that the sea lion was not really a menace after all.

Today, their numbers are up again, and it is illegal to kill them unless they are caught in the act of destroying fishermen's nets.

(Released by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

Sorry, I simply cannot answer your many friendly letters individually, but I will be glad to answer letters of general interest through the column. Please address your letter to: Is That So? c/o Mail Tribune, box 1069, San Francisco, Calif.

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual report. The Family Council does not give advice; it merely reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Bruce K.—I am a bachelor of 29. I have had a lot of hard luck trying to get established in a career. Although I have a college education I have held only very low paying jobs and none of them seem to lead to anything.

I am now living with my widowed mother. My father left her a good-sized estate, but I know he wanted me to share in it. My older brother is very well off and on his own in business.

I want my mother to lend me some money to start my own small business. I have an idea that many people think is very good. I feel that it is my mother's duty to help me out in this way, but she is reluctant. I'm not saying she is unethical exactly. I just feel that she lacks confidence in me.

Mrs. R. K.—I am no miser and I want to give my son the best of everything. I have been supporting him on and off all these years when he has been floundering.

I would gladly give him even more money than he asks, but a lot of my friends have told me his idea is ridiculous.

We see no objection to a parent's helping a young man

SATCHMO ENDING TOUR
Vienna—(UPI)—American jazz king Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong will wind up his current European tour with a concert in Vienna's new City Hall Feb. 22, city officials announced Friday night.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

joy the applause almost as much as human stars.

Two decades later, when the sea lions were active again, the fishermen once more raised an outcry. In the 1920's the sea lion rookeries were attacked by riflemen and blasted with dynamite, but it was finally decided that the sea lion was not really a menace after all.

Today, their numbers are up again, and it is illegal to kill them unless they are caught in the act of destroying fishermen's nets.

(Released by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

Sorry, I simply cannot answer your many friendly letters individually, but I will be glad to answer letters of general interest through the column. Please address your letter to: Is That So? c/o Mail Tribune, box 1069, San Francisco, Calif.

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual report. The Family Council does not give advice; it merely reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Bruce K.—I am a bachelor of 29. I have had a lot of hard luck trying to get established in a career. Although I have a college education I have held only very low paying jobs and none of them seem to lead to anything.

I am now living with my widowed mother. My father left her a good-sized estate, but I know he wanted me to share in it. My older brother is very well off and on his own in business.

I want my mother to lend me some money to start my own small business. I have an idea that many people think is very good. I feel that it is my mother's duty to help me out in this way, but she is reluctant. I'm not saying she is unethical exactly. I just feel that she lacks confidence in me.

Mrs. R. K.—I am no miser and I want to give my son the best of everything. I have been supporting him on and off all these years when he has been floundering.

I would gladly give him even more money than he asks, but a lot of my friends have told me his idea is ridiculous.

We see no objection to a parent's helping a young man

SATCHMO ENDING TOUR
Vienna—(UPI)—American jazz king Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong will wind up his current European tour with a concert in Vienna's new City Hall Feb. 22, city officials announced Friday night.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual report. The Family Council does not give advice; it merely reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Bruce K.—I am a bachelor of 29. I have had a lot of hard luck trying to get established in a career. Although I have a college education I have held only very low paying jobs and none of them seem to lead to anything.

I am now living with my widowed mother. My father left her a good-sized estate, but I know he wanted me to share in it. My older brother is very well off and on his own in business.

I want my mother to lend me some money to start my own small business. I have an idea that many people think is very good. I feel that it is my mother's duty to help me out in this way, but she is reluctant. I'm not saying she is unethical exactly. I just feel that she lacks confidence in me.

Mrs. R. K.—I am no miser and I want to give my son the best of everything. I have been supporting him on and off all these years when he has been floundering.

I would gladly give him even more money than he asks, but a lot of my friends have told me his idea is ridiculous.

We see no objection to a parent's helping a young man

SATCHMO ENDING TOUR
Vienna—(UPI)—American jazz king Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong will wind up his current European tour with a concert in Vienna's new City Hall Feb. 22, city officials announced Friday night.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

The Council—Bruce appears to be far more psychologically dependent upon his mother than he ought to be.

According to his own statement he would like to have the money as a sign of his mother's confidence in him. He would not like to acknowledge it, but it is fairly evident that he also wants this assurance of her love. If she gave him the money it would serve as a sign that she will always be there ready to help him in his need.

get started in business, but we see many objections to a parent's pandering to the childish needs of an adult. Unfortunately, Mrs. R. K. caters to these needs in a reverse form when she denies him the money because "a lot of my friends have told me his idea is ridiculous." Her obvious lack of confidence in him is the whip that Bruce uses to punish himself for his failures.

On the face of it, we would judge that man of 29 who has had serious difficulties on his jobs is not a likely person to succeed in business. But we could be all wrong. His idea could have merit. However, Mother's friends and "people" are probably not the best judges.

If Bruce is serious about his idea and is not using it merely to punish himself and his mother, he will go to sources that can give him real information and advice—the bank, businessmen who know something about the field. If his idea has possibilities, the bank will give Bruce a loan. He will then be able to enjoy a sense of being on his own for better or for worse.

(Copyright 1958, General Features Corp.)

Do you have children 15 or younger?

If so, you will be vitally interested in Equitable's new COLLEGE COST COMPARISON folder which gives such important information as average tuition, board and room, fees, etc., for all 40 colleges and universities in Oregon and Washington.

This outstanding folder, which will help you in planning now for the future education of your children, is yours FREE, without obligation. Ask your Equitable representative or send coupon. You'll be glad you did.

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

EQUITABLE SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION
Equitable Building, Portland 4, Oregon
Please send me your COLLEGE COST COMPARISON folder which gives information on all 40 Oregon and Washington schools.

Name _____
Address _____
City or town _____ State _____
Age of Children _____

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Equitable SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

merely to punish himself and his mother, he will go to sources that can give him real information and advice—the bank, businessmen who know something about the field. If his idea has possibilities, the bank will give Bruce a loan. He will then be able to enjoy a sense of being on his own for better or for worse.

(Copyright 1958, General Features Corp.)

your Equitable representative
JIM METZ
1310 Ridgeway
Medford, Oregon
Phone: SP 2-4294

CLOSE OUT SALE

Eads Transfer & Furniture Co. HAS BEEN ORDERED TO Dispose Bal. of $50,000 Surplus Stock

New Name Brands FURNITURE & BEDDING AMERICA'S FINEST January 8 - 9 - 10 BUY FOR LESS THAN COST!

End Tables, Floor Lamps, Occasional Chairs—Below Cost!

SAVE UP TO 1/2

FOR MORE

Bedroom, Kitchen, Living Room Groups, Carpets, Lamps, Divans

3 DAYS ONLY!

EVERYTHING MUST BE SOLD! SPECIAL TERMS

FOR EXAMPLE
3-pc. SECTIONALS AND
4-pc. SECTIONALS
Below Cost

FOR EXAMPLE
Nationally Known
BOX and MATTRESS
Reg. 139.00 Set
1/2 Price

FOR EXAMPLE
5-pc.
Wrought Iron DINETTE SET
Choice of Colors
NOW 3750

FOR EXAMPLE
Foam Rubber SOFA BEDS
NOW 16900

FOR EXAMPLE
2-pc. DIVAN with Matching chair
NOW 8950

SALE BEING CONDUCTED AT TRANSFER & FURNITURE CO. 123 South Front Street

No Refunds
All Sales Final