Kidnaped Infant Found Alive, Well

Grandmother, Insisting Baby Own, Arrested

Father Identifies Abducted Child

New York—UPI—A girl kidnaped from a hospital nursery 2 1/2 hours after her birth 10 days ago was found alive and well Sunday night in a wicker bassinet in a former Brooklyn mansion.

A grandmother, mother of eight children, was arrested and charged with kidnaping the infant, Lisa Rose Chionchio.

The woman, Mrs. Jean Iavarone, 43, insisted the baby was her own, born unattended and out of wedlock. She named its father a "Mr. Iavarone," a man she said had taken an apartment with her last May and had lived with her at intervals since then.

Chief Assistant District Attorney J. Kenneth McCabe, said she continued to claim the baby as her own even after Lisa Rose was positively identified by her footprints and blood type.

The baby's father, attorney Frank Chionchio, 28, found his own identification—a tiny scar above one eyebrow he had noticed in his first brief glimpse of his newborn daughter Jan. 2.

Mother Thankful
"It was too unbelievably good to be true," Mrs. Chionchio said at her home today. "I could think of nothing but to say a little prayer of thanks to God for giving me back my dear baby."

None of Mrs. Iavarone's seven living children, ranging in age from 3 to 21, made their home with her, police said. The younger ones are in orphanages in private foster homes, apparently because their mother could not support them on her $45 a week salary as a department store clerical worker.

Mrs. Iavarone's landlady, Mrs. B. M. Collins, said she did not believe Mrs. Iavarone had been out of her large, cluttered one-room furnished apartment for the last week. She said she had come out in a bathrobe on Sunday or the day before and asked to use the telephone.

Police went to the house on Sunday after a woman's voice gave them the address on a special police line at 3:15 p.m.—the 320th such call since the line was installed to take confidential tips on the case.

Mrs. Iavarone faces a possible 20 years to life prison sentence if convicted under New York's kidnap law.

Salem—UPI—A requested 14.5 per cent rate increase by Pacific Power and Light company has been suspended for six months by Public Utility Commissioner Howard Morgan.

Western Oregon To Get Relief From Rainfall

By United Press International
The weather bureau today promised relief from heavy western Oregon rain that shot several streams over the flood mark and resulted in closure of several roads and property damage in the Brookings area.

The weather man said the last storm front in a current series moved inland over western Oregon this morning and that showers should practically come to a stop Tuesday.

A storm which carried nearly four inches of rain in 24 hours in the Brookings and Gold Beach areas caused some damage to homes and property. There was no immediate damage estimate.

Hatfield Appoints Howell Appling as Secretary of State

Salem—UPI—Gov.-elect Mark Hatfield today named Howell Appling Jr., 39, Portland farm implement distributor, as Oregon's 17th secretary of state.

Appling has been in Portland since 1947 when he formed a business partnership with his Navy mustering-out pay. Known as Independent Distributors, the operation has grown from two employees to a business with an annual sales volume of more than $3 million. It serves Oregon, Washington, Idaho, California and Canada.

The appointment clears the way for a test in the Oregon Supreme Court of Dave O'Hara's right to hold the secretary of state office.

Retiring Gov. Robert D. Holmes previously appointed O'Hara as his choice for secretary of state.

Court To Decide

The high court will have to decide which man is entitled to the job on the basis of a "quo warranto" proceeding expected to be filed by Hatfield.

The secretary of state, in addition to membership on the Board of Control, Land Board and Banking Board, heads a department with an accounting, audits, elections, buildings and grounds division including some 270 employees and a budget of nearly $3 million.

Appling would fill Hatfield's unexpired term which ends in January of 1961.

He made no indication when asked if he would seek election in his own right.

Hatfield commented: "I have withheld the name of my successor until the legal authority for making the appointment might be clearly established. It has been my feeling that the issue at hand should be resolved without the introduction of personalities."

Not Obligated

Hatfield said Appling was "neither dependent on nor obligated to me in any manner. He is now a constitutional officer of the state of Oregon."

Appling commented: "I have accepted the appointment in the conviction that if we, as individual citizens, have any right to complain or criticize the course of affairs in our government, we must be equally prepared to assume the duties of citizenship when the occasion requires it."

"I did not ask for the job. I did not seek it. But Gov. Hatfield is a man of great stature, and I shall do everything I can to cause him and the people we serve to take pride in the appointment."

Appling is a native of Carthage, Tex., and earned an engineering degree from Rice Institute and did advance work in industrial management at Texas A & M.

He served as a lieutenant in World War II with the Navy. He is married and the father of four children.

Lakeview Man Held Following Knifing

Elmer Ward, 49-year-old Lakeview man, is being held in Jackson county jail on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon following the knifing of a 17-year-old Lakeview youth in Jacksonville Saturday night, according to Jacksonville Police Chief Frank Carter.

Ward is charged with inflicting an 8-inch gash on the shoulder of Dorsey Lewis, 17, Lakeview, about 9:40 p.m. Saturday.

Lewis said he and two other youths were visiting in the home of Ronald King on West California st., Jacksonville, when the knifing occurred. A pocket knife was used to make the wound, which required over 30 stitches by a local physician. Lewis said he was not taken to a hospital.

Ike, Mikoyan Schedule Meeting Next Saturday

Berlin Crisis To Be Discussed

Washington—UPI—President Eisenhower will meet with Deputy Soviet Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan Saturday to discuss the Berlin crisis and other East-West tensions.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who conferred with the Kremlin leader when he first arrived for his current U.S. tour, also will sit in on the conference.

Mikoyan, emerging from his informal talks with Dulles, told newsmen "there will be peace."

In President's Office
His meeting with Eisenhower will be held in the President's White House office. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said it is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. Saturday, but that he had no idea how long it would last because the President has fixed no time limit on the discussions.

Mikoyan, now in Los Angeles at the tag end of his cross-country goodwill tour, had planned to return here next Monday. But his return visit apparently was moved up by two days to permit him to make a flying visit to Florida. He had expressed interest in visiting the "sunshine" state before returning to Moscow.

Hagerty said in announcing Saturday's White House meeting that others besides the President, Mikoyan and Dulles undoubtedly would attend. He said such details will be announced later.

This morning Eisenhower conferred at length on what the White House described as "natural security matters" and undoubtedly involving America's role in the space age.

Those meeting with the chief executive included the secretaries of state and defense, Dr. James R. Killian, special science adviser to the President, and Gordon Gray, special consultant to the President for national security affairs.

Later he met with Killian and Dr. George B. Kistiakowsky of the Science Advisory Council.

Circuit Court Jury Seated to Hear Case

A circuit court jury was selected and sworn in this morning for the trial of Marion Ben Day and Hazel Pauline Day, 417 King st., Medford, charged with unlawfully obtaining public assistance.

On Oct. 17, 1957, the Days did, "unlawfully, willfully, feloniously, knowingly and falsely, represent to the state of Oregon Public Welfare department that they were entitled to assistance from said department . . . when in truth, Marion Ben Day was gainfully employed and receiving income," the complaint declares.

At the time the charges were brought, Day was picking peaches in Hollywood orchards owned by Bear Creek Orchards, according to James Pullman Jackson county public welfare administrator. The charges were brought following a routine investigation, Pullman said.

"Gambling Isn't Being Entirely Eliminated"

Inaugural Address Asks Cooperation To Achieve Program

Salem—UPI—Mark O. Hatfield, 36-year-old Republican elected as the youngest governor in Oregon's history last November, today called for "achievement worthy of the Oregon pioneer" in the state's 100th year.

In his inaugural address prepared for delivery to the 50th state Legislature, controlled by Democrats in both houses, Hatfield said he expected Oregon's government to become more manageable, more efficient and more economical in the next four years.

He asked for a cooperative coalition of Republicans and Democrats to put over his program.

Hatfield struck the economy theme hard.

"If we are to choose new services and expanded programs, we must be prepared to sacrifice. May we discover ways to meet the problems of progress with solvency," he said.

He asked that the test of the Oregon pioneer be applied to new proposals as Oregon enters its second century. "Is this essential or merely desirable; and, if it is only desirable, can I afford it? If all proposals which fall this test are left beside the trail of the second century, then we truly will have re-dedicated ourselves to destiny—a to a bountiful destiny for all."

Hatfield made a number of proposals in specific areas of government including his estimate of outgoing Gov. Robert

Planning Group Sets Open Hearing

A public hearing to consider a set-back variance for eight apartment units at 825 East Ninth st. is slated for tonight's Medford planning commission meeting at city hall.

New members Harold Snodgrass and Larry Schade Jr., are expected to attend, according to the Mayor's office. But William Prentice, the third member appointed by Mayor John W. Snider early this month, reportedly must attend an Army Reserve meeting instead.

Four public hearings on zone changes about the city are also slated for tonight, along with a hearing on amending the city's sign ordinance for subdivision tract signs.

The session is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. One item not appearing on the agenda is the election of a new chairman to succeed M. Thomas Wray.

Salem—UPI—Both Democrats and Republicans met here on Sunday in House and Senate caucuses on the eve of the opening of the 50th Oregon Legislature to elect their chief officers.

In complete harmony, members of the Senate elected Walter J. Pearson, Portland, president.

They also elected desk and other senate officers. All elections were by unanimous vote.

Salem—Committee assignments for Jackson and Josephine county members of the legislature were announced today.

The appointments were made by Sen. Walter Pearson, president of the state senate, and Rep. Robert Duncan, speaker of the house of representatives. The appointments are these:

Jackson county:
Sen. Edwin Durno—Public health (vice-chairman), ways and means, alcoholic traffic, resolutions.

Rep. F. I. Bristol—Education, forestry, taxation.

Robert Duncan, Medford, was unanimously elected as speaker of the house.

Rule Changes Made
Several changes were made in Senate rules, most noteworthy being creation of a permanent president pro-tem of the senate. State Senator Harry Boivin, Klamath Falls, who presided over the Senate caucus, was elected to this office.

State Sen. Jean Lewis, Portland, chairman of the rules and resolutions committee, stated that heretofore a temporary presiding officer had been designated by the president of the senate, but it was felt that in the event the president of the Senate succeeds to the governorship, there should be someone to function during the remainder of the biennium.

The president pro-tem would serve on all committees to which he is entitled but would not be in line for succession to the governorship.

Carl Cover, Salem, who for a number of past sessions has been chief clerk of the Joint Ways and Means Committee, was elected chief clerk of the Senate.

Others Listed
Ruth Renfro was named chief clerk of the house.

Only debate in the House centered on a new committee on planning and development. It was approved.

Morgan Slashes Phone Rate Bid

Salem—UPI—Resigned Public Utility Commissioner Howard Morgan today slashed $4 million from the rate increase application of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company.

It was one of his last official acts prior to leaving his office at noon.

Instead of the company's requested rate increase of $4,858,000 annually applicable to all classes of telephone service in the state, Morgan granted $759,097 applicable only to certain special services and equipment charges and to business telephones in those cities where toll free service has been provided in recent years.

The company was forbidden to increase the rates of any residential telephone service in the state and to increase any long-distance toll charges within the state.

Several appointments to county governmental bodies have yet to be made, County Judge Earl Miller said today.

Chief Justice McAllister Gives Oath in House

Joint Session Attends Rites

Salem—UPI—Mark O. Hatfield was to be sworn in shortly after 2 p.m. today as Oregon's youngest governor.

The 36-year-old Hatfield, whose rise in politics has been meteoric, was to take the oath of office from Chief Justice William McAllister of the Oregon Supreme Court amid pomp and pageantry in the House chamber.

Before Joint Session

His inauguration was to take place before a joint session of the Legislature which convened at 10 a.m. for its 50th biennial session.

The actual ceremony was not to begin until the new speaker of the House, Robert Duncan, Medford, read the official canvass of the votes from the November elections.

This was the point at which some observers speculated for a time that the Democratic-controlled Legislature might balk and refuse to inaugurate Hatfield.

But these rumors were spiced by retiring Democratic Gov. Robert D. Holmes who promised not to interfere and also by Duncan and Senate President Walter J. Pearson who promised to go through with their parts in the ceremony.

Court Battle Seen

Hatfield's inauguration will set off a court battle as to who will be the new Secretary of State, succeeding the new governor.

Holmes appointed Dave O'Hara, 71, former state elections chief and a Republican, as his choice, clearing the way for Hatfield to announce his man and get a test before the Oregon Supreme Court.

Hatfield's choice is Howell Appling Jr., 39, Portland.

The high court was expected to act promptly on the "quo warranto" proceeding to test O'Hara's right to office.

In appointing O'Hara, Holmes was following advice of Attorney General Robert Y. Thornton who contended that Hatfield must resign unconditionally before he can assume the office of Governor.

Hatfield's resignation submitted earlier to Holmes only became effective as he assumed the office of governor.

The Legislature went into session at 10 a.m. to reveal appointments to House and Senate committees.

Major officers of House and Senate were ratified at caucuses Sunday.

Family Attends Ceremony
Present for the inauguration with Hatfield were his wife of six months and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Hatfield.

The invocation was to be given by the Rev. Arlin Halverson, pastor of the First Baptist church here. Music was to be provided by the Eugene Glee-men and the Oregon National Guard band.

The Rev. Paul Poling, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Salem, was to give the benediction.

A public reception was scheduled after the inauguration and continuing from 7 to 9 p.m. in the executive suite.

The Russian official had a shave and mustache trim by Ambassador Hotel barber Bill Smith before he was whisked to the UCLA campus for an informal talk with professors and students.

Next on the busy schedule was a private noon luncheon at the World Affairs Council. It was closed to the press.

Council Director Walter Coombs said Mikoyan had asked that the luncheon be before a group of some 50 directors of the organization, including businessmen and school presidents, be "off the record."

Mikoyan was to be the guest of producer Cecil B. DeMille at Paramount Studios after the luncheon.

Sees Good Will
The deputy premier said he was not an authority on movies but he believed one good film coproduced by American and Soviet companies "might lead to increased results of good will."
