

Smaller Turkeys Now Predicted

Salem - Consumers who wrestled with turkeys this holiday season and had difficulty getting the big birds into the ovens, will welcome word from the state department of agriculture of a decided shift to smaller birds for next season.

There will be fewer broad-breasted bronze birds on the Oregon market and a greater number of Beltsville small turkeys, according to Earl Reisma, who supervises Oregon's poultry and turkey improvement program.

In 1957, 206,227 of the heavyweight BBB's were kept for breeding purposes, the latest figure is 184,218. Meanwhile the number of Beltsville's have doubled to 34,466, as compared with 17,107 for the previous year.

About two million school children in the U.S. have impaired hearing. Figures show children so afflicted fail in their school work four times as often as normal children.

Most fruits and vegetables depend on bees for pollination.

The Medical Roundup

Depression After Childbirth

Even in my practice, which is limited to internal medicine, I see a number of women whose abdomen is a pain, causeless worry, great fatigue, feelings of toxicity, slight fever, indigestion, headache, or pain in the face is really a symptom of a depression which, as a little questioning shows, followed the birth of a child. Sometimes I get suspicious the minute the woman in my office starts to break down and cry. Then I send for her husband or her mother, and learn that she has been badly depressed ever since her child was born.

I am ashamed to say that since none of us older doctors were ever shown such cases when we were at college, in nine out of 10 cases we fail to make the correct diagnosis when the woman comes in. Usually she is put through the so-called "diagnostic mill" and whatever is found is supposed to be her trouble. For instance, a year ago I saw a young woman in a typical depression which had followed the birth of her second baby. Because most of her complaint was of a pain in the chest, she was taken to a young "heart specialist." When he, after much study of her, thought he had heard a slight murmur and had found slight changes in her electrocardiogram, he started treating her for heart disease.

Taken To 'Specialist'

When this didn't do any good, and when she began to complain of pain in her stomach, she was taken to a "stomach specialist" who promptly found that she had a very small diaphragmatic or hiatus hernia (in the midriff), she had almost no acid in her stomach, and she had a little spasm in her duodenum (the first four inches of bowel outside her stomach). Accordingly, the stomach specialist started treating these three supposed diseases. The only

Ike Nominates New Administrator

Washington - (UPI) - President Eisenhower has nominated Norman P. Mason as the new housing and home finance administrator.

Mason, whose home is Chelmsford, Mass., is now commissioner of federal housing. He was named to succeed Albert M. Cole whose resignation was accepted Tuesday by the President.

Cole, 57, told Eisenhower he was stepping down for personal reasons. The Reynolds Metals Co. later announced he would become vice president of the Reynolds Aluminum Service Corp., and help develop programs for using aluminum in building construction.

Dr. Kreisman to Attend Bellingham Conference

Ashland-Dr. Arthur Kreisman, chairman of the Southern Oregon college humanities division, has accepted an invitation by the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools to serve as a member of its evaluating and accreditation team for Western Washington college of education in Bellingham.

Slated to leave for Bellingham Jan. 26, where he will be in charge of the evaluation of the humanities. Kreisman will return to his campus duties Jan. 30.
