Quotes From the News

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
Washington—Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) in demanding a United Nations investigation of the mass executions conducted by the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba: "It may be a gay pastime for Castro, but it bodes ill for Cuba."

Miami, Fla.—Mrs. R. L. Pitcock, on her husband's reaction to her invitation to Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan to attend a family barbecue in her backyard: "He thinks I'm out of my mind."

London—British European Airways Manager Thomas Larpain, on the BEA order to its 700 female employees to shorten their skirts to give customers a better look at their legs: "If a girl should refuse to obey the order, I'll have a fatherly chat with her and try to make her see the error of her ways."

Washington—Rep. Thomas J. Ashley (D-Ohio) in protesting that Northern Democrats have no voice in setting party policy: "The election results last November made it clear that the American people expect Northern Democrats to assume an active leadership role in congressional affairs."

Berlin, Germany—West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt, in announcing special security measures to thwart any moves against the city by East German Communists: "West Berlin is no testing ground for people's democratic maneuvers."

Here are Details on The Gruesome Squid
It doesn't seem possible that anything could look as bad as an octopus, yet the squid does; he has 10 arms instead of eight, and the rest of him is just as ridiculous. What makes him so much more gruesome is the fact that this character can, if he's lucky, grow to be 50 feet long. He's the largest living invertebrate on the face of the earth. Imagine, being 50 feet long and having no backbone.

He has intrigued the imagination of fiction writers to the point where the reading public is well acquainted with this ferocious looking creature. The squids have a beak, something like that of a parrot, and powerful jaws that can tear and rip their prey into shreds. The long "arms" are equipped with alternate rows of suction disks, arranged along the underside. These cups or "disks" are under direct muscular control of the animal and are capable of terrific suction.

Being dwellers of the dark, oceanic depths, many of the squids have the power of emitting light, a pale greenish glow which makes it possible for the creature to find its way in the darkness that is always present at great depths. They also have the ability to change their body-color to match their surroundings; what good this does at dark depths, has never been established. These waves of color sweep over the soft body, following one another with flowing rapidity; red, blue, yellow, and brown, as the occasion dictates.

From the ink - sac of one species of squid a fluid known as sepia is extracted. This material is the "India ink" of commerce. When alarmed, or excited, the squid, like the octopus, ejects this brown fluid into the water, and probably hides until danger is past. To the family of squids, also belongs the cuttlefish, whose backbone becomes a necessary piece of equipment for a canary bird's cage; called cuttlebone.

The giant squid who lives alone at the bottom of the sea and apparently likes it, is known to be one of the fastest animals in the ocean. He is also exceedingly alert, and disgustingly active. He could bear a formidable foe if he lived near the surface, or came in contact with man. The one good thing about these monsters is that they know their

CENTRAL POINT PTA Sets Meeting

By DORIS HUGHES
Central Point - "Information, please, about county services available to us" is the theme for the Central Point Parent Teachers association meeting at Central Point Junior High School, Thursday, Jan. 15, at 8 p.m.

Lyle Paull, city recorder, announced that within the next few days the Central Point city council will meet with the Jacksonville library board to discuss county library problems.

Cave Junction Groups Tell Sunday Speakers
Cave Junction - Rex von Krohn, lay reader of St. Luke's church, Grants Pass, will conduct the services at St. Mathias Episcopal church Sunday.

"The Man Who Tried to Buy God's Favor" is the topic of the second in a series of sermons on Old Testament characters which will be given by the Rev. Harold Mackey Sunday at the Immanuel Methodist church.

Word was received here that Mrs. Edward Knapp of Kenosha, Wis., died Jan. 12. Mrs. Knapp was the mother of Ed Knapp, physical education director at Crater High school.

Washington - Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) has introduced a resolution to establish a standing legislative committee on veterans' affairs in the Senate.

"There is nothing new or daring about this resolution," Morse said. "It was actually recommended to the Senate in 1946 by the LaFollette-Monroe Committee which made so many outstanding recommendations on the reorganization of Congress. As we know, the House of Representatives accepted and carried out that recommendation; the Senate did not."

Morse deplored the present practice of dividing legislation affecting veterans and their families among several Senate committees, all having many other legislative duties.

When so many House-passed veterans bills die in the Senate without even reaching the floor, we simply are not doing our duty to those citizens who have served in the Nation's armed forces. "In offering this Resolution, I sincerely hope it will receive the early consideration of the Rules Committee."

Co-sponsoring the resolution were Senators Holland of Florida, Talmadge of Georgia, Moss of Utah, Murray of Montana, Chavez of New Mexico, Langer of North Dakota, Neuberger of Oregon, Young of North Dakota, Humphrey of Minnesota, Gruening of Alaska, Javits of New York, Martin of Iowa, Kuchel of California, Church of Idaho, Engle of California, Byrd of West Virginia, Cannon of Nevada, Kefauver of Tennessee, McGee of Wyoming, Keating of New York, Bartlett of Alaska, Randolph of West Virginia, and Yarborough of Texas.
