

Awards for Outstanding Service Are Presented by Central Point Jaycees

Central Point—Dr. Bruce Turner, Central Point dentist, H. P. Jewett, superintendent of district 6C schools, and Richard G. Ireland, 1680 Butler rd., Ashland, were honored by the Central Point Junior Chamber of Commerce on Friday night.

Dr. Turner, who has practiced dentistry in Central Point since 1956, received the Jaycee's Distinguished Service Award at a banquet at Crater High school.

Jewett, who will retire as superintendent of district 6C Aug. 1 after 37 years, was presented a silver platter in recognition of his service.

Outstanding Farmer
Ireland, a 23-year-old rancher who moved to Jackson county three years ago, was presented the Outstanding Young Farmer of Jackson County award.

Also honored was Mrs. Jewett, who also will retire Aug. 1. She is second grade teacher at Jewett Elementary school, Central Point.

Dr. Arthur Taylor of Southern Oregon college spoke on southern Oregon folklore for the principal talk during the banquet. More than 100 residents attended the annual event.

Dr. Turner is chairman of the Crater High school stadium committee, chairman of the Southern Oregon Dental Society Centennial committee, is serving a three-year term on the executive council of juvenile court, is on the executive council of the Southern Oregon Dental Society, a

He was born in Los Angeles and lived in La Puente, Calif., prior to going to college. Ireland operates a 640-acre ranch with cattle, sheep and grain crops his principal interests.

A life membership in the Central Point Jaycees was presented to Richard Taylor, for his outstanding service to the Central Point area. He was a charter associate member of the Jaycees when the group organized in Central Point.

Three Complaints Filed in Circuit Court Last Week

Three complaints were filed in circuit court last week asking damages for injuries received in automobile accidents within the county last year.

Marjorie P. Holmes, 2439 Howard ave., seeks $50,000 general damages and $375 special damages from Charles T. Sorenson and Miss Matilda M. Wall, now Mrs. Matilda M. Zachary, both Ashland.

According to the complaint, Marjorie Holmes was seated in a car parked off Highway 99 in Talent Dec. 7, when a vehicle operated by Sorenson hit the parked vehicle. She charged the driver with negligence, carelessness and lack of care and reported that she suffered severe injuries in the accident.

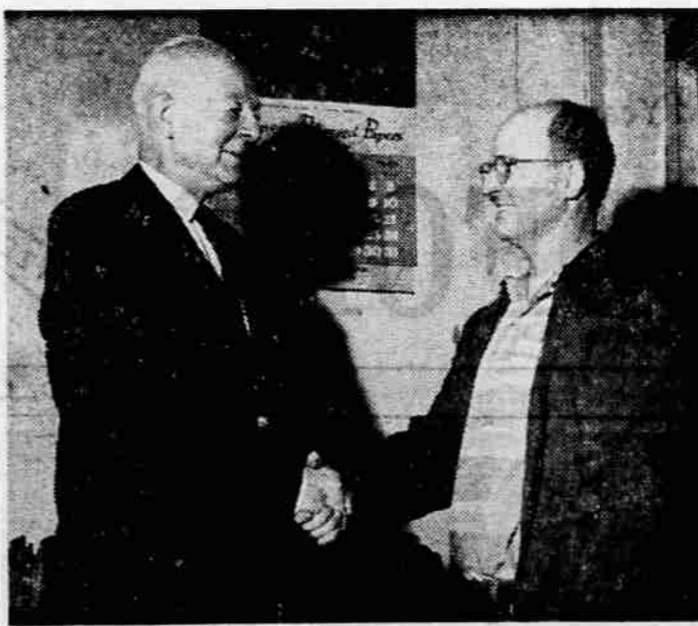

The automobile was registered to Miss Wall at the time of the incident. Attorney for the plaintiff is Manville Heisel.

Portland Law Firm
A complaint, filed by the Portland law firm of Sims and Sims for Rollyn Glassford, asks $12,500 general damages of Raymond B. Browns, Delta Waters rd., Medford.

According to the complaint Glassford was a passenger in an automobile driving to Medford when the vehicle was hit from behind by a logging truck operated by Browns. The accident occurred at the intersection of Crater Lake highway and Airport junction.

The defendant is charged with negligent, carelessness and recklessness. The complaint states that the plaintiff was violently thrown about within the vehicle at the time of the accident.

A third complaint filed seeks $100,000 for injuries, $252, hospitalization, and $2,400 for loss of earnings following an accident at the intersection of Fourth st. and
