Recognition Planned For Wesleyan Service Guilds

Special recognition is being given the three units of Wesleyan Service Guild by First Methodist church in observance of January as Guild month.

Sunday, January 25, Mrs. Richard Stratton, vice-president of the Susannah Wesley unit, will speak briefly during the church services. Ushers for both services will be guild members and the guilds will be hostesses at the coffee hour that morning.

The Wesleyan Service guilds are organized within the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist church to provide a channel through which employed women may participate in the Division program offering "spiritual enrichment, Christian fellowship, and the opportunity to take an active part in developing a world Christian community," it is stated.

Guild meetings are held evenings and week ends, times when the employed woman is usually free to attend. The program of the Guild meets the needs and interests of the employed woman and helps her to make a specific contribution as a Christian citizen in her church and community, and in the business, industrial or professional field in which she works, according to Mrs. Charles Adamson, Medford, secretary of the Oregon Conference Wesleyan Service Guild.

Miss Annette Gray is president of Ruth Esther unit; Mrs. A. C. James of the Gladamson unit; and Miss Dixie Dixon of the Susannah Wesley unit. Each unit serves the local church and community as needed; members serve as
