Quotes From the News

By United Press International

Des Moines, Iowa—National Chairman Meade Alcorn, commenting on his party's plans for a year-round campaign program to answer the challenge of labor help to the Democrats:

"We're not going to be able to match that, but we need more staff to work full time. We oppose an army of full time troops with volunteers working only two months."

Montreal, Que.—Construction executive R. G. Johnson, on the necessity of limiting construction activities at the Churchill, Manitoba, air base to daylight hours due to nocturnal visits from polar bears:

"Judging by progress reports, those polar bears don't scare so easily. We've had to limit construction work to the six-hour winter daylight period to be on the safe side."

New York—A Brooklyn grand jury presentation, in calling for legislation which would permit New York school teachers to paddle unruly students:

"This grand jury has found ample evidence showing a direct connection between the namby-pamby attitude of the educational hierarchy and the collapse of discipline in the schools."

Washington—Vice President Richard M. Nixon, mourning the death of movie producer Cecil B. DeMille:

"The world loses one of the truly great showmen of all times. In his productions, he had the special talent of bringing to life both history and religion in a most meaningful way, which has significantly increased the nation's understanding of the events which shaped the early world."

Washington—Argentine President Arturo Frondizi, in a warning to Americans not to ignore the economic poverty of millions of Latin Americans:

"A stagnant and impoverished country cannot uphold democratic institutions. On the contrary, it is fertile soil for anarchy and dictatorship."

America's Talking Satellite Dead

Washington—UPI—America's Atlas talking satellite is dead. The Defense Department said the 4.4-ton Atlas with its 150 pounds of instruments probably plunged back into the atmosphere and burned up over the Pacific sometime before 7 a.m. (p.s.t.) Wednesday after circling the earth for more than 500 times.

The Smithsonian Astrophysical Laboratory at Cambridge, Mass., said a fiery object was seen in the skies at 6:08 a.m. (p.s.t.) by the U.S. Naval Base at Guam and by the cruiser Rochester halfway between Hawaii and Japan.

When the Atlas, the heaviest satellite ever launched, was blasted into orbit from Cape Canaveral, Fla., Dec. 18, scientists predicted it would stay aloft 20 days. It actually circled the globe 35 days.

Second Collision Fatal To Motorist

Hayward, Calif.—UPI—Fred M. Henriques, 50, of Palo Alto, Calif., survived one auto accident Wednesday—and was killed in another at almost the same spot just an hour later.

Henriques, who owns an interior decorating firm, suffered minor injuries in an accident on the approach to the San Mateo Bridge at 1:45 p.m., and was taken to Fairmont Hospital.

He telephoned a friend, Edward Johnson, to pick him up at the hospital because his car had been damaged.

At 2:55 p.m., the car driven by Johnson was struck head-on by a car on the San Mateo Bridge. Johnson suffered serious injuries—and Henriques was dead on arrival at Fairmont Hospital.

Rep. Porter Better Known To People Of Latin America

By United Press International

Rep. Charles O. Porter—one of two congressmen visiting Cuba this week—is far better known to the people of many Latin-American countries than to most people in the United States outside of Oregon's Fourth Congressional District.

Porter in 1956 became the first Democrat elected to Congress from that district in 75 years. He was reelected last November despite complaints from critics that he was paying too much attention to Latin-American affairs. He countered that Oregon is part of the world community and it was his duty to take an active interest in U. S. foreign policy. Porter claims the issue helped reelect him.

Porter, 39, looks more like a young college professor than the popular conception of a congressman. He is baldish, wears horn-rimmed glasses and an eager, studious look.

Soon after his election to Congress, he was plunged into a controversy involving a constituent—Gerald Lester Murphy of Eugene, Ore., a pilot for the Dominican Republic Airlines who mysteriously disappeared in the Dominican Republic.

Murphy's parents appealed to Porter for help in finding him. After investigation, Porter charged that Murphy was slain by agents of the Trujillo regime in the Dominican Republic because he knew too much about the disappearance of Jesus de Galindez, a Columbia University professor and foe of the Trujillo regime.

Dominican strongman Rafael Trujillo hotly denied the congressman's charges.

Hailed By Latins
The controversy catapulted Porter into prominence in Latin America. Porter began a series of attacks on U. S. policy toward Latin-American dictators. He charged that the United States was "patting dictators on the head" and should distinguish between dictators and democracies.

He was hailed by some pro-democratic groups in Latin America as their "champion" spokesman in the United States.

Not long after Vice President Richard M. Nixon was stoned by agitator groups at Caracas, Venezuela, Porter entered the city where he was hailed by the provisional Venezuelan president as "a champion of democracy."

A native of Eugene, Ore., Porter was graduated with honors from Harvard University. He served four years in the Air Force during World War II, rising to the rank of captain. Then he returned to Harvard and got a law degree in 1947. He practiced law at Eugene, Ore.

He is married and has four children.

Higher Budget For Police Asked

Salem—UPI—H. G. Maison, state police superintendent, has requested an increase of about $900,000 in his 1959-61 budget appropriations.

Maison told a Joint Ways and Means Subcommittee Wednesday that money was needed for additional police service teletypes, a dozen more employees, normal increase in operation costs, expansion, and improvement of radio equipment directed by the Federal Communications Commission.

Maison said new teletype service was planned for Astoria, Bend, Eugene, Klamath Falls and The Dalles.

Rep. Keith Skelton (D-Eugene) said he has written to Rep. Charles O. Porter asking him to introduce a bill to reimburse Oregon for increased budget charges made necessary by a recent FCC ruling.

Skelton said the state police budget was increased by a change in FCC standards for police broadcasts and "there is no reason why the state should be required to assume the added burden of a tax increase which has been made necessary by a ruling of a federal agency."
