

Three Booklists Available Through County Library

Three booklists prepared by the Jackson County library staff are now available for distribution through county library agencies, extension groups, the Oregon Centennial committee, and other interested organizations.

The first of these, prepared as an aid to citizens working on Centennial projects, is entitled "Oregon Heritage." In sections devoted to general history, the Indians, the Oregon Trail, pioneer days in old Oregon, Oregon biography and first-hand reminiscence, and to Oregon in romance are listed some of the best of the library's available books on Oregon, past and present.

The generous bequest of the late Ella J. Smith of Gold Hill makes it possible for the library to acquire almost every available publication concerning this state.

Second List

A second list, "For Farmer, Forester, Fruitgrower," was published to let Rogue Valley residents engaged in agriculture know of the many books available on subjects related to their industry.

Under the heading, "Facets of Farming" are such miscellaneous items as "The Government and the Farmer," "Repairing and Constructing Farm Buildings," "Farm Shop Skills in Mechanized Agriculture," and "Law on the Farm."

A section on "Field and Furrow" lists books on soil, water, fertilizer, and on the production of field crops, growing vegetables, and range and pasture. The largest part of the booklist is devoted to books on feeding and breeding anything from earthworms to dairy cattle.

Fruit Production

Readers engaged in fruit production will find a page of titles of interest to them, as will those working in forestry. The final page of the booklist lists 10 readable and humorous books on adventures in farm and country living.

The third booklist being issued this week is one of "Helps in Home Making." It is divided into groups of books on home management, planning the house, landscaping the home grounds, interior decoration, feeding the family, sewing for the home and the family, and do-it-yourself "hints for the handy."

These continue a series of booklists planned on various subject specialties. The first to be issued was "Memo to a Businessman; tested business ideas - free." Others will be announced as they are completed.

Small Boat Owners To Get New Charts

New York—(Science Service)—New charts for the nation's 7,000,000 small boat owners may soon be rolling off the Government presses.

Visitors to the National Motor Boat Show here will get their first look at the experimental charts—said to be the "greatest change in nautical charts since the introduction of color in 1882."

The boating public is being asked to make suggestions on the type of charts and their format. Rear Admiral H. Arnold Karo, director of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, announced. Although the research and development program was begun only in July, 1959, the Survey rushed completion of the four series of charts so they could be evaluated at the Boat Show and at the United States Power Squadron's annual exhibit here.

Four series, each covering the same area and containing approximately the same information, have been published which contain supplemental descriptive information needed by small-boat owners previously found only in Coast Pilot volumes.

4-H Club News

Valley Experimenters

The Valley Experimenters 4-H Rabbit club held its second meeting of the year Sunday, Jan. 18, at 243 South Stage rd. We talked about feed and rabbit judging. That is judging of both the feed used and the rabbits produced. The president's proposal "that any member ruled out of order would have to sing a song" was defeated. It was decided that no dues or fines would be collected in our club.

The next meeting will be Feb. 15, and will be devoted to hutch construction and culling of a litter to decide which ones should be kept as breeders.
