STUDY DRUNK DRIVERS

New York (UPI)—For the next few months, 500 drivers arrested in New York City on drunk driving charges will take part in a study to determine, among other things, whether the amount of alcohol in their blood offers a clue to the kind of accidents they might have. The study, to be conducted by the city's Police and Health Departments, will also try to find out about the drinking and drug-taking habits of the intoxicated drivers.
