Medallions alternating with foliage transfers give glass screen its special distinction.

A flat surface, scissors, sponge, and transfer pattern are the only equipment needed.

Transfers Work Decorating Magic

HOBBYISTS are agog over a new decorative accent for use in the home—a simple plastic transfer which is easily applied to any nonporous surface.

Much thinner than paper, these plastic sheets come in a variety of decorative patterns created by skilled artists. Some are in bold colors inspired by stained-glass windows; others are metallic hues on clear backgrounds. Most of the designs are translucent and include stylized foliage and leaves, medallions, monograms, even Chinese characters—to be used singly or in combination, as your inspiration dictates.

You can create beautifully original trays, platters, bowls, or vases with these transfers, for they adhere well to glass, metal, or ceramic surfaces. The larger, bolder, more dramatic motifs are suitable for wall panels or folding screens. The smaller geometric designs may be repeated to create all-over effects. One color transferred over another produces a sparkling intermediate color.

Amateurs as well as skilled artists delight in the almost limitless custom-decorating possibilities of these transfers.
