

Clergymen Reminded of Deadline To Get Social Security Coverage

Clergymen are reminded by the Social Security Administration that some of them will never be able to have their earnings from the ministry count toward old-age, survivors, or disability benefits if they fail to take certain steps within the next few months, W. V. Nusbaum, district manager of the Medford office, has announced.

Any clergyman who has not yet elected to be covered under the social security law must file a waiver certificate with the District Director of Internal Revenue on or before the due date of his income tax return for his second taxable year after 1956. For many clergymen who file income tax returns on a calendar year basis, this deadline is April 15, 1959.

If a waiver certificate is not filed within the time limit specified in the law, it cannot be filed at all. In this case, the clergyman's earnings from the ministry can never be counted toward social security benefits.

When a clergyman comes under social security he reports his earnings as self-employment income even though these earnings may be salary paid to him by the congregation or religious order which he serves. He must pay the social security self-employment tax on his earnings. The church or religious order which he serves does not become involved in any way. For further information about their rights and obligations under the old-age, survivors, and disability insurance program, clergymen may contact their social security district office and ask for a copy of the leaflet "Social Security for Clergymen."
