

Scientific Skill Noted in Almanac

American scientific skill make 1958 a year of accomplishments in the view of the 1959 World Almanac published by the New York World-Telegram and The Sun.

The publication cites placing satellites in orbit, the first try for the moon and the trips of the Nautilus and Skate under the North Pole as examples of American technical capacities.

Influential on the home front, the Almanac notes, was the Democratic victory at the polls in the general election, and the turn of the recession into partial recovery by late in the year.

The World Almanac, in its section on the Middle East, points out that the United States, under the Eisenhower Doctrine, maintained peace in the area by sending Marines to Lebanon. The book of facts also reports on other turbulence in the Middle East.

New tables of statistics and descriptive matter, including a list of cardinals of the Roman Catholic church, a report on the first sample religious census taken by the government, and population returns, are available in the reference book.

Other items of note in the publication include a section on social security, space navigation, Alaska, sports events during the year, eclipses of the sun and moon, medical science, and many other subjects.

Park Group to Draw Up Plans

Ashland-The Ashland park commission has decided to postpone a proposal to ask for extra funds to meet increasing costs of park maintenance.

Eldon Scripser, chairman of the park commission, said the commission intends to draw up a clear and concise plan of what it plans for improvements in the park before asking for a vote on additional millage of our budget.

The plan would include a proposal to refurbish the zoo and to replace Lithia Auto court with park improvements. The plan also will indicate rises in maintenance costs, which the additional money being sought will help cover.

The suspects are charged under the National Firearms Act.
