Wilson Warns Against Education Complacency

Eugene - University President O. Meredith Wilson warned against national complacency and asked that people become aware of the increased need for support of education in a speech at Salem recently.
Wilson was honored at a dinner given by Charles A. Sprague, Salem, former governor of Oregon. The dinner honored Wilson for his recent election as chairman of the American Council on Education. He is the youngest chairman ever chosen and is the first west of the Mississippi.
Wilson decried any feeling in present day America which would take "ours as the golden age . . . the goal."
A great increase in the birthrate after World War II has presented us with the greatest crop of human resource in the history of our civilization, Wilson stated. "But at the moment when we should be congratulating ourselves and gladly making the appropriate investment to bring each of these children to his brightest potential, half the country is cautiously counting the educational pennies as though the perfection of our children were an extravagance rather than a prudent investment."
Wilson pointed out that the supply of teachers in college

Crater High Vo-Ag Lists Activities

Central Point - The vocational agriculture students and members of the Crater Future Farmers of America chapter leave a long list of achievements behind them as they move into another year of activities, Don Denning, chapter reporter, noted.
During the past year the boys earned $16,846.56 from their supervised farming programs. Supervised farming which is a basic part of the vo-ag program is essentially the home project or projects the boys own. They study their classroom material and take it home to apply to their projects, Denning explained. These are visited periodically by the agriculture instructors. The project may be livestock, poultry, field crops, truck crops, or any other agricultural production program. Town boys rent land in the country to farm, he explained.
To aid the boys in their supervised farming activities each one has a farm record book. Each year classroom instruction is given on records to help the boy keep accurate records and teach him how to study them for a correct evaluation of his program, said Ed Griggs, instructor.
To aid the farming programs, the chapter purchases a new tractor every year. This year, because of the increased class enrollment, the chapter purchased a new 800 series Ford which is a three-row tractor. The larger tractor will get more work done for more boys, according to Griggs.
Although each boy is entitled to use the tractor, he must first pass a tractor driver's license test which the tractor foreman gives. Classroom instruction prepares him for the test.
The tractor is used also for custom work for the community's residents. The chapter owns a disc, plow, mowing machine and blade. A new plow was purchased this year to go with the larger tractor, Denning said.

Grain crops from the 18-acre chapter farm each year helps finance the yearly activities, the chapter reporter added.
The chapter recently finished a series of public speaking contests. In the Rogue-Umpqua district, FFA public speaking and parliamentary procedure contest, Don Denning, Crater chapter FFA, placed second, following first place winner Leon Small, Phoenix FFA chapter, Illinois Valley took first place in the parliamentary procedure contest and Crater placed second. Both first and second place winners in both public speaking and parliamentary procedure will participate in the state semi-finals at Crater High school at 1 p.m., Feb. 26, Griggs, district advisor, announced.
The chapter this year initiated a farm newsletter to be sent to all farmers of the Central Point area. The newsletter is a digest of all the latest farm magazines and college bulletins. Nate Barry is editor, Howard Misner, co-editor and Larry Ryerson, cartoon editor.
Past activities included a wreath-making party with the Crater Future Homemakers, initiation of 56 freshmen in the Green and initiation and a barn dance.

Interest Rates Expected To Go Higher With Financing Deficit

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor
New York - Estimates on 1959 financing show there will be a deficit of $1 billion in new capital, according to Girard L. Spencer of the stock exchange firm of Salomon Bros. & Hutzler. As a result of this excess of demand for long-term capital and a continuing restrictive monetary policy, pressure is expected to continue in the money market.
Interest rates are likely to continue to rise, says Spencer, at least during the first half of the year. But the rise is expected to be less rapid than in the second half of 1958.
Spencer anticipates a supply of $23.7 billion in long-term funds seeking investment. He places demand for these funds at $24.7 billion.

Sources of Supply
Here are the sources of supply: Life insurance companies $4.7 billion, mutual savings banks $2.2 billion, savings and loan associations $5.5 billion, corporate pension funds (not funded with insurance companies) $3.3 billion, state and municipal retirement and pension funds $1.6 billion, fire and casualty insurance companies $1.3 billion, and other long-term funds $5.1 billion.
Demand for long-term funds is expected to come from mortgage financing $13.3 billion; state, municipal and public revenue authority financing $3.5 billion, and corporate financing $7.9 billion.
Based on Housing Starts
Spencer arrives at his shortage financing estimate on the basis of 1,500,000 private housing starts.

Corporate financing consists of $8.6 billion bonds and notes, $10.5 billion preferred stocks, and $1.6 billion common stocks, less $2.8 billion maturities and sinking fund retirements.
It is interesting to note that this calculation includes more than $2 billion in stocks, including preferreds.
Wall Street has been looking for a rise in stock offerings for industry financing in 1959. In the first place, the stock market is strong for making a climate to absorb new offerings, and the bond market unpopular as well as cluttered with municipal flotations.

House Seen Certain To Approve Bill for Extension of Draft

Washington - A bill to continue the draft was certain to win House approval today. The only question was: How long an extension?
Some congressmen were set to touch off a fight by urging that military induction be extended only for two years. The House Armed Services Committee okayed a bill 34-1 which would continue the draft for four years, as President Eisenhower requested.
Rep. Carl Vinson (D-Ga.), chairman of the armed services group, was scheduled to open debate with a plea that the House approve the committee measure without change. The chamber was expected to go along with this appeal after voting down a two-year extension.
Expires June 30
The draft is scheduled to expire June 30. In addition to maintaining induction, the House bill would continue for four years the authority to draft doctors and dentists and would extend the dependents assistance act.
Only the Army uses draftees. But Vinson and other backers of the extension contend that it pros men to enlist in the Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force. About 138,000 men were inducted last year. Another 100,000 were expected to be called up this year.
Other congressional news:
Housing: The Senate prepared to slap down a liberal move to increase a $3 billion housing bill. The chamber Wednesday rebuffed the President's economy pleas by refusing to supplant the Democratic measure with the less costly Eisenhower program. The liberals conceded their attempt to boost the urban renewal outlay from $2,100,000,000 over ten years to $6 billion over six years had little chance of success. They were prepared to scale down their request.

Rackets: The Senate Rackets Committee turned its attention once again to the affairs of the Teamster Union. It opened an inquiry into a disputed election of Teamster Local 208 in Los Angeles involving a friend of Union President James R. Hoffa. The friend, John W. Filipoff, is said to be hanging out in the union office he allegedly lost in an election.

Two Children Die East of Eureka

Eureka, Calif. - Two members of a family of five from Terre Bonne, Ore., were killed when their auto failed to negotiate a turn on icy highway 299 and plunged over a 300 foot embankment Wednesday.

Dead are two children, Terry Leach, 2, and Vernon Leach Jr., 3 months. Barbara Leach, 4, was today reported in extremely critical condition in Trinity hospital in Arcata.
Mrs. Vernon Leach was in serious condition but expected to survive. Vernon Leach, who was driving, was hospitalized for shock after miraculously walking away from the wreck.
The accident occurred about 40 miles east of here. A witness told California Highway Patrolmen that the auto overturned six times as it careened down the sharply inclined hill. Terry Leach was crushed beneath the auto. Vernon Jr. died Wednesday night at the hospital.

Nude Bathing Shots 'Must' for Movies

Stockholm, Sweden - (UPI) - Nude bathing scenes are a must in Swedish-produced movies if they are to be sold to Latin American distributors, a Swedish director said today.

Director Rolf Rusberg said South American film distributors refused to buy the film "Laila" unless a few scenes with nude girls were added. The film is a story of love among the Laplanders and was shot in the snowy wastes of the Arctic Circle.

The demand was met. The export version of the picture will show four girls running around nude in the snow. They take a snow bath to cool off after bathing in a sauna, the Scandinavian steam bath.

Pan American Reaches Agreement

Washington - (UPI) - Pan American World Airways reached agreement Wednesday on a new labor contract with the Air Line Pilots Association (AFL-CIO), ending 18 months of negotiations.

Sources close to the negotiations said the agreement provides top pay of $33,000 a year for jet pilots if they put in 85 hours flying time every month. Pilots of the plane would average about $28,000 a year, compared to $23,000 now, these sources said.

The contract runs for 18 months.

FIND MASTODON BONES

Baton Rouge, La. - (UPI) - Geology students from Louisiana State University have found the fossilized bones of a mastodon in a bayou near here. College officials said the area may have been a graveyard for mastodons, a woolly elephant that roamed the continent 25,000 years ago.
