

Announce Way To Help Drain All 8 Sinus Cavities Without Discomfort

New decongestant tablet for sinus congestion sufferers acts both to drain clogged sinus cavities and relieve distressing head pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) Announcement has been made of a new tablet development which has the remarkable ability to help drain clogged sinus cavities and thus relieve congestion and pressure. The headaches, pressure pains, stuffed-up head, nasal drip, clogged breathing—all the unrelenting symptoms the sinus sufferer knows so well—are attacked directly by improving drainage of the sinus areas.

Most remarkable of all is the fact that this is accomplished with extraordinary speed and without discomfort of any kind. This new tablet does its remarkable work internally, through the blood stream. It deposits into every drop of blood plasma a new medication which is carried to the sinus area, where it shrinks the swollen doors to the sinus cavities and helps drain away the pain-causing pressure and congestion.

The shrinking substance in this new tablet has been so successful topically in promoting drainage of the sinus cavities that it is now prescribed more widely by doctors than any material for this purpose. This new medication is now available at drug counters without the need for a prescription under the name, Dristan® Decongestant Tablets. Dristan Tablets cost only 98¢ for a bottle of 24 tablets. Buy and use Dristan Tablets with the absolute guarantee that they will drain away pain-causing pressure and congestion of the sinus cavities, relieve the pain and distress, or purchase price will be refunded.

RISE AND SHINE!

It really is great when you can bounce out of bed feeling like a million and all rarin' to go. But, as you may know, an irregularity problem can spoil all of that.

Of course, for people who like to start off the day feeling tops, there is a natural way to regularity. It's the delicious Kellogg's All-Bran way.

You see, a common cause of constipation is lack of bulk in the diet. And just half a cup of Kellogg's All-Bran with milk provides all the bulk needed for gentle regularity.

So if you'd like to break the laxative habit, and get back to natural regularity, try Kellogg's All-Bran, America's favorite whole bran cereal.

WHEN WE WERE in England last Summer, my husband and I drove a little English car on sight-seeing trips. En route to see the cathedral in Lincoln, we came to a steep hill. As we went on, the street became steeper and steeper.

Finally we stopped and asked a man if we were on the right route. He said, "Take the next right, then a sharp left," adding the typical English expression, "You can't miss it!"

We followed his directions, but found the next street even steeper and very narrow—so narrow we had to drive with two wheels on the sidewalk. At last, going what seemed to be almost straight up, we came to the cathedral.

As we paused to look back, we noticed a sign leading into the street we had just left: "This hill impossible for cars."

We've often thought since that the impossible is possible if you aren't aware it's impossible.

CAPE CANAVERAL, like many areas of Florida, has a large part of its population made up of retired oldsters. With the missile launchings nearby, these elderly citizens have a special diversion to keep them busy.

Recently, one retired gentleman, fearful of missing an expected launching, came down to the beach in spite of a stiff neck that prevented him from looking up. He asked another spectator if the missile had gone up yet. The man said, "No." A while later he asked another man, and got the same answer. Fifteen minutes went by. He asked another man if it had gone up. "Yes," said the man, "there it goes."

"Well," was the reply, "I guess I might as well go home then."

IF ANYONE WANTS to claim that the United States has the most efficient postal service in the world, I'll support him.

While hitchhiking back to school in Minneapolis late last Summer, I was given a lift by a couple en route to their vacation spot. After they turned off my route and I was waiting for another ride, I suddenly realized I had left my new jacket in their car. How to get it back? I didn't know their name or address and they didn't know mine.

I tried to recall bits of our conversation which might help, then I composed a letter to them and addressed it:

To the Couple from Southern Minnesota
Driving a New Black Buick Sedan
Staying at a Lake North of Aitkin, Minn.

Five days later the postman handed me a package containing my jacket.
