Wabash Threat Believed Ended; California Hit

By United Press International
The threat of further severe flooding on the worst Wabash river rampage in 46 years appeared ended today with the crest rolling harmlessly toward well protected Vincennes, Ind. Our West, a tropical storm which battered Southern California with gale winds and flooding rains headed inland where it was expected to dump up to five inches of snow in the mountains. The storm, which began Sunday, tapered off to showers in California today and rain in Oregon and Washington. Weathermen warned of heavy snows Tuesday in parts of Montana and predicted snow or snow flurries for the Rockies, the Dakotas, the upper Mississippi Valley and the upper Great Lakes. At least two traffic fatalities were blamed on the Pacific storm which left considerable wind and water damage in its wake. At Santa Maria, Calif., more than 50 trees were uprooted by 75-mile an hour winds and schools were closed Monday due to power failures. Trees also were downed in numerous other cities, including Los Angeles and Santa Barbara. The heavy rains flooded intersections and temporarily closed a portion of the harbor freeway. However, the storm, second in recent weeks, eased the effects of a seven-month drought in Southern California.

Jet Airliner Veers To Avoid Mid-Air Collision

Miami — (UPI) — Federal authorities today attempted to identify a B47 military jet that almost collided in air with an Eastern Airlines Electra airliner Monday. "That was a mighty big-looking B47," Capt. Raymond Ruprecht, pilot of the airliner which was carrying 17 passengers and 5 crewmen, said. The airliner, the same type ship which crashed in New York's East river recently killing 65 passengers, was on its way from Chicago to Miami when the near-miss happened over Chattanooga, Tenn.

Hurled To Floor
Three passengers were hospitalized here with injuries received when they were hurled to the floor as Ruprecht yanked his prop-jet into a steep climb to avoid a collision. Ruprecht said the Electra was on automatic pilot at 23,000 feet five minutes past Chattanooga.

"I just happened to glance back to the right and I caught this B47 starting a shallow turn," he said. "I yelled 'look' and I grabbed the wheel. There's a button on the wheel that disconnects the auto-pilot. "I pulled up and turned to the left. He turned to the right and dove and we went apart."

BERSERK SHOOTING—Mrs. Christine McGowan, shot twice by her berserk husband, lies on the steps in front of her house in New York while awaiting ambulance. Man standing at right is detective. Her husband, Vincent (The Bug) McGowan, shot his wife and was threatening to kill their 10-year-old daughter also when she was rescued by neighbors. McGowan fled, and was caught by police shortly after. Prior to this shooting, McGowan had been awaiting trial on rape charges.

Nixon To Submit To Questioning as Wind-up of Tour

Los Angeles — (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon winds up his two-day visit to Southern California tonight as guest at a question and answer session before members of the Greater Los Angeles Press Club. Nixon, calling for revitalization of the Republican Party, planned to spend most of today visiting with his mother and relatives in nearby Whittier before his press club visit and his return to Washington. The Vice President arrived here Monday afternoon from San Francisco where he talked with former Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) defeated last fall in his bid for the California governorship, and other state GOP leaders. He later spoke to more than 1,000 luncheon guests here at a testimonial affair for party worker Orville J. Evans, who was retiring after 25 years as executive secretary of the Republican Central Committee of Los Angeles county. Nixon cited Evans as an example of party worker who is "the backbone of the party" and dedicated professional necessary for the GOP's revitalization. Not Enough Principle "In the changing image of the Republican party," he said, "there's too much talk about image and not enough about principle. "The Republican party wants progress—not stand-pat-ism. We must present to the people what we really believe, that the only way to progress is through conservative economic policies and through private enterprise. "We must tolerate honest disagreement within both major parties—there is room for people who disagree. "We can't afford to kick anybody out of the party." Nixon said his swing

Belgians Riot Over Plan To Close Mines

Mons, Belgium — (UPI) — Mounded police used tear gas and fire hoses Monday night to break up a mob of about 500 anti-government strikers in this city in the heart of Belgium's "black belt." About 30 rioters were arrested here and in nearby Guaregnon, where the anti-government demonstration started. The rioters were protesting a government plan to close coal mines which are producing fuel the nation does not need. Even after months of layoffs running to as much as 12 days a month, the government has a record 7 million tons of coal on hand. Economic Minister Jacques van der Schueren is expected to propose restrictions on U.S. coal exports to Belgium and other nations of the "Schuman plan" pool to help reduce the Belgian coal backlog.

He expressed hope both the subcommittee and the full labor committee could complete action on a bill by the end of next week.

Robber Placed on FBI 'Wanted' List

Washington — (UPI) — John Thomas Freeman, 40, a knife-wielding fugitive whose partner in crime was found brutally crushed, shot and his throat slit, was placed today on the FBI's list of 10 most wanted criminals. He is being sought on federal auto theft and robbery charges. Freeman, a native of Oklahoma, is believed to be armed and the FBI considers him "extremely dangerous." He is described as "a fast-moving, far-ranging felon who apparently considers a gun part of being well-dressed." His criminal record dates back to 1936 and he is known to police in Arizona, Texas and Kansas. To the FBI, he is known as an admitted user of drugs and narcotics and an excessive drinker.

Canada's largest trees, the Douglas firs of British Columbia, tower as much as 300 feet. Sea Lion Population Off California Grows
Washington — (Science Service) — The sea lion population off the coast of California increased from 8,700 in 1947 to 19,700 in 1958. U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service reported here. At least 10% of the increase was due to the fact that pups were counted for the first time in 1958. In 1947, photographic census takers made the count from a slow-moving blimp and were able to distinguish between pups and adults. The pups were not counted due to uncertainty as to how many could survive. In 1958, the census was made from a fast plane and pups and adults could not be distinguished from one another in the photographs. Thus all were counted. RETIRED BANKER DIES

Future of Cyprus Subject of Formal Talks in London

London — (UPI) — The foreign ministers of Britain, Turkey and Greece met with Greek and Turkish Cypriot leaders in formal conference today to decide the future of Cyprus and end the bitter years-long dispute over the strategic island in the Mediterranean. The conference opened at Lancaster House in an atmosphere of cautious optimism. It was announced Monday night that Britain, Greece and Turkey had reached full agreement on the substance of a solution to the problem which had seriously strained relations among the three Western Allied partners. There was no disclosure of the "basic principles" agreed on. But two of the major issues in the discussions were the question of British sovereignty over military bases on the island and whether Cyprus will remain within the British commonwealth. Participating in the round-table talks were Foreign Secretaries Selwyn Lloyd of Britain, Evangelos Averoff of Greece and Fatin Zorlu of Turkey. Archbishop Makarios, the bearded 45-year-old spiritual leader who was exiled from the island by the British, represented the Greek Cypriot community. Dr. Fazil Kutchuk represented the Turkish Cypriots. The talks are expected to last two or three days.

Avalanche Poised Over Swiss Town Said on Glacier

Herbrigen, Switzerland — (UPI) — Authorities today lost hope that the avalanche poised over this mountain village would hurt only a small portion of Herbrigen if it came tumbling down. Father Emil Schmid, the Roman Catholic parish priest of Herbrigen, said it has been discovered that the entire slide is on a glacier which could act as a "toboggan run" to send the whole mass down on the village. Acts as Brake "The glacier under the landslide can act as a brake if the present cold weather prevails because the landslide or at least the largest part of it, would be frozen," Father Schmid said. "On the other hand, any substantial increase in the temperature would unleash the landslide, which could come down at a faster speed than we expected." He said the hope that Herbrigen would suffer only limited damages faded after it was learned that the glacier might aid the avalanche. Eye on Mountain Meanwhile, the 215 Swiss call Herbrigen their home continued a day-to-day existence, one eye always on the mountain towering above them. Each day a few return to the village to get belongings, but none stays any longer than necessary. A dusk-to-dawn curfew has been imposed on the village. Practically every product or service sold on any day of the year will be purchased by a newspaper reader, because more than four out of five people read a newspaper on an average day. Cuba's normal tobacco crop is about 50 million pounds.
