

Coming High School Play Based on Real Life Story

"The Diary of Anne Frank," to be presented February 26-27 by the senior class of Medford High school, is no piece of fiction. The play is based on the day-by-day diary of a young Jewish girl who, with her family, lived in hiding in the attic of a warehouse in Amsterdam for 25 months. The diary recounts the hours of fear and dread which eventually ended in the Franks being found and arrested by the Nazis. The play is an exciting and fearful story of real life.

The Franks were an old German-Jewish family. Otto Frank, Anne's father, was born and grew up in Frankfurt am Main. He was graduated from school and went into business. After the outbreak of World War I he was assigned to an artillery company and was eventually promoted in the field to the rank of lieutenant. After the war he returned to Frankfurt where he specialized in banking and the promotion of brand-name goods. He married Edith Hollander of Aachen, who died in Auschwitz in 1945.

Financial organization is the main topic of this fourth part of the study; personnel management and county planning are also included. Mrs. Dunbar Carpenter, Mrs. Harry Danielson, Mrs. Richard Frederick and Mrs. Robert Minear, the league's Know Your County committee, will be present to answer questions. Anyone wanting to see county government in operation may join the League's "Go See" tour of the county courthouse Friday, February 27, from 10:45 a.m. to 1 p.m. A sandwich lunch will be served by the league. For reservations call Mrs. Hugh Collins, SPing 2-9997. Time of the March 3 board meeting has been changed to 11 a.m.; the meeting is at the home of Mrs. Hugh Collins.

Couple Visits Historic Spots On Trip North

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Leach, 1228 Corona avenue, have returned to Medford after a motor trip north. The Leaches visited their daughter, Miss Beverly Leach, a hospital technician in Eugene, and then motored to the coast and up to Astoria. With Oregon's attention focused on history because of the Centennial year, Mr. and Mrs. Leach made an effort to see points of historical interest. They made stops at Fort Clatsop and Fort Stevens, and in Astoria visited the Astor column.

In Portland they were guests of Mr. Leach's mother, Mrs. Lillian Eickhoff, and one day drove to Oregon City to visit the home of the pioneer resident, John McLoughlin, which is preserved in its original state. En route south they also visited Champeog State park. While in Portland Mrs. Leach also saw the Van Gogh exhibit at the Portland Art Museum.

hood, while Mrs. Frank temporarily remained with her mother in Aachen, keeping the children with her. Anne Frank's existence from 1933 to 1942 was just a normal life - friends and carefree schooldays. The happy times continued until 1942, although the German invasion of The Netherlands had come on May 10, 1940, and although the avalanche of anti-Jewish laws started 53 days later. The people of Amsterdam did everything they could to shield the many Jewish children in their midst as long as possible. Then in July, 1942, the Franks had to go into hiding.
