

State Counsellor for Blind To Visit Lions Auxiliaries

Miss Mollie Vlasnik, who has served as counsellor for parents of preschool age blind children in Oregon for the past several years, arrives in Medford today for a series of visits to Lions clubs and their auxiliaries in Jackson county. Aid to the blind is a continuing state-wide project of the groups.

Tonight Miss Vlasnik, accompanied by Mrs. Frank Christian, Talent, auxiliary director for District E, will visit the Butte Falls clubs. Tuesday noon she will meet with Crater Lions and auxiliary, Medford, and Tuesday evening with Medford Lions and auxiliary.

Wednesday, March 4, a meeting will be held at the Talent City hall with members of the Talent, Phoenix and Jacksonville Lions and auxiliary members as hosts. Members of the Ashland, Gold Hill and Central Point groups are to be guests.

Famed Violinist To Be Soloist

Portland-Nathan Milstein, recognized throughout the continent as one of the world's greatest violinists, will appear as soloist with the Portland Symphony orchestra on March 9. Theodore Bloomfield will conduct.

Using his famous Stradivarius violin made in 1716, the noted violinist will play two works with the orchestra, Mozart's "Adagio and Rondo for Violin" and Mendelssohn's "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra."

Milstein's appearance will be one of 52 he will make during his 1958-59 North American tour. Among his other engagements will be performances with 17 American orchestras, including New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Los Angeles.

A Russian by birth and an American by adoption, Milstein began his career at 19 in his native land, touring extensively with another young musician also to become world-famous, the pianist Vladimir Horowitz.

The "Academic Festival Overture" by Brahms will be performed by the orchestra to open the concert, with the orchestra's main presentation being the mighty Sibelius' "Symphony No. 2 in D Major."

Tickets for all symphony concerts are on sale at J. K. Gill box office beginning Thursday prior to each concert or may be placed in advance by writing the symphony office in the Park building.

Arts Committee Of Centennial Sets Final Date

March 17 is the final date set for submitting projects to the Fine Arts Advisory committee of the Oregon Centennial commission, according to Dr. James Hart, chairman. These projects may be concerned with music, art, dancing, drama, photography, literature or allied fields. It is preferred that the suggestions be accompanied by detailed descriptions, and budget of expenses if financial assistance is required.

Such undertakings may be the work of civic organizations, communities or individuals. In each instance, a substantial share of the overall cost of production must be assumed by the instigators, according to Hart.

Among the activities being planned by the Fine Arts committee is an invitational all-Oregon photography show and the touring of the state with dramatic productions in keeping with the Centennial theme.

Hostesses Give Welcome Party

Eagle Point - Mrs. Lloyd Doderhoff and Mrs. Ben Gardner were hostesses for a "welcome to Eagle Point" party for Mrs. Alma Meyer, given at Mrs. Meyer's home on West Tenth street in Eagle Point.

Guests were Mesdames Harold Zundel, Bert Doderhoff, Glenn Clymer, Vaden Hoff, Glenn Hale, Jack Brown, Jack Grow, Harold Meyer, Leland Meyer, Jack Fortin, all Eagle Point, and Mesdames Jim Martinson, Kirby Tant, Clifford Moore, Gene Crandell, Clarence Kelly, all of Reese Creek.

Mrs. Fortin bought the first bouquets of spring flowers; guests all brought gifts of plants and bulbs.

To Elect

Election of officers is slated at a meeting of the auxiliary to Medford Veterans of Foreign Wars Tuesday, March 3, at 42 North Front street at 8 p.m.

Chill candles in the refrigerator for 24 hours before using. They will burn evenly and will not drip.

the Oregon School for the Blind, and pictures of the summer institute which the Lions auxiliaries of Oregon co-sponsor with the school each year. This year's institute is set for May 29-June 2. The institute is for parents of blind children.

It is stated that Miss Vlasnik shares responsibility with the superintendent of the school for the blind in organizing the institutes. Prior to coming to Oregon, Miss Vlasnik served in a similar capacity for four years in Illinois. She believes that much can be done to broaden the experiences of blind preschool children by placing them in nursery schools with seeing children; on the basis of this conviction many children in Illinois and Oregon have had an opportunity for such experiences.

"Through the cooperation of many organizations in the state—such as the Lions and auxiliaries, there has come wide interest and increased understanding to professional and lay people who previously had looked upon blind children only with a sense of pity," Miss Vlasnik states.

Mrs. Christian plans to attend all the meetings with Miss Vlasnik. Recently Mr. and Mrs. Christian were in Eugene for a meeting which celebrated the 35th anniversary of the founding of Lions International, and this month Mrs. Christian plans to make official visits to auxiliaries in Klamath Falls, Roseburg and other cities in District E.

Early Spring Concert Competes With Weather

Yesterday the Philharmonic Society of Southern Oregon gave an early spring concert, and yesterday was the first really bright, warm Sunday in many weeks. It was music versus the sunshine, and the sunshine won. A number of music lovers and supporters of the Philharmonic concerts were missing from the audience, and it would be a good guess that they were either working their gardens or enjoying their first spring drive around the valley.

Director Richard D. Werner had made a special effort to offer a program of popular appeal, using music of the Romantic period which is particularly tuneful and interesting. He also arranged it with an eye to keying orchestral numbers with the arias which were sung by Miss Frances Thrun, Medford soprano.

Wagner's March from "Tannhauser" was used as the opening number, followed by Miss Thrun singing "Dich teure Halle" from the same opera. In the second half of the program she sang "Voil la sapete" from "Cavalleria Rusticana," preceded by the orchestra's playing of the Intermezzo from this opera.

Miss Thrun is blessed with a truly beautiful soprano voice and yesterday she sang especially well. The mood of the Mascagni aria seems particularly suited to her warm, rich tones and Miss Thrun sang the highest notes of the composition with both brilliance and power. The continued enthusiastic applause, brought her back for a number of certain calls and during one of these she presented a sheaf of pink carnations.

Miss Thrun sang with both orchestra and piano accompaniment, and Bruno Pelligrini was at the piano. He is associate conductor of the orchestra.

Rehearsals Stressed At the risk of sounding monotonously repetitious, this reporter feels obliged to say that yesterday's concert would have been much more enjoyable to the audience if the group rehearsed oftener—with all the musicians present. How a purely volunteer group, with each musician leading a double and even triple life as teacher, businessman or woman, homemaker and parent, in addition to orchestra, can accomplish this feat we do not know. But it needs to be accomplished, somehow or the other.

The group sounded particularly ragged in the opening number, but seemed to settle "into the groove" as the afternoon progressed and managed a creditable performance of the closing number. This was "Les Preludes" a Liszt symphonic poem, a work of much emotion and color which the audience seemed to like very much.

All in all, it was an enjoyable concert, and the small audience applauded warmly. During intermission, members of the Philharmonic guild served coffee and those in the audience mingled in the entrance hall in a friendly fashion. The coffee hour adds charm and a festive air to the concerts. The guild has inaugurated a policy of asking two women to serve as honorary hostesses, and those presiding yesterday were Mrs. Almus Pruitt, Medford, and Mrs. Vinson Vaughan, Eagle Point—O.S.

Meeting Planned By Medford Unit Medford Parents Home Extension unit will meet Tuesday, March 3, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. W. J. Thompson, 1210 Smith street. The project, "Care and Pruning of Shrubs" will be given by the program leaders, Mrs. Lee Johnson and Mrs. Stanley Forbes.

Hostesses will be Mrs. W. J. Thompson, Mrs. Walter Higgins and Mrs. Al Filatrea.

Rice Nests with Shrimp Sauce are the perfect "something different" to add sparkle to Lenten menus. The nests are a combination of cooked rice and cheese, quickly turned a crusty golden brown in deep fat and served in a creamy shrimp and mushroom sauce. Center the rice with a bright jelly sauce laced with horseradish. For speedy preparation, cook extra rice the day before when you are serving it as a vegetable or in a casserole combination dish and set aside 2 cups. Combine with the other ingredients and shape, and the rings are ready for quick deep frying on the day you are serving them. Rice, of course, reheats perfectly to original fluffiness in a small amount of water, so plan to cook an extra amount for a combination dish another day.

The sauce for the Rice Nests is a creamy shrimp and mushroom combination, using canned shrimp. Serve with French green beans with almonds, a salad and favorite dessert and beverage.

Rice Nests With Shrimp Sauce (6 to 8 servings)

| 1-1/2 cups grated cheddar cheese  | 1/4 teaspoon salt   |
|                                   | 1/8 teaspoon pepper   |
- Saute mushrooms in butter 6 to 8 minutes. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer for 10 minutes.

Research On Roses Announced

About 50 members and guests attended a meeting of Medford Rose Society February 23. A total of over 3,000 roses is being grown by those who attended the meeting, according to the roll call. Two reported growing over 300, four more than 200 and seven members reported growing over 100 rose bushes in their gardens.

A sale of plants and shrubs netted the society over $50. Eldred Peyton, co-chairman of the 1959 rose show, announced that the show will be held in the Medford Senior High cafeteria June 9.

The president, Carl Norris, announced that through the American Rose Society foundation, arrangements have been made with Oregon State college to carry on research control of rose diseases under northwest conditions.

Mrs. Wallace Peabody received a Pink Favorite hybrid tea rose bush as a prize. Among the guests attending the meeting were Mrs. Al Boris, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Music, Mrs. Wayne Turpin, Mrs. E. F. Archer, Mrs. C. O. Lack, and Mr. and Mrs. Al Lewis.

The guest speaker, Victor Boehle, Grants Pass, said that in many instances roses had personalities which would require special handling to take care of their needs. For instance, among the hybrids, the Doctor, Fred Edmunds and Ulster Monarch require very little pruning.

Even Peace is sensitive to pruning—it should be thinned, but not cut back very much. Aztec, Huntsman and Rex Anderson should be pruned to an inside bud because these varieties tend to be sprawly. Montezuma, a grandiflora rose, should also be pruned in this manner. The usual practice for most roses is to cut to an outside bud. Queen Elizabeth, also a grandiflora, should be cut to five stalks and then shaped, he said. Buccaneer is pruned to about 30 inches.

Mr. Boehle recommended that large cuts in pruning should be covered with a mixture of tree seal and wettable sulphur. Generally speaking, pruning of roses should be completed 90 days before the date of the Rose Show, which would mean that locally rose pruning should be completed within 10 days from now, since the date of the show is June 9. In order to have a better chance of having a good rose of a given variety at show time, canes may be cut at three different heights, the speaker said.

The members of the Medford Rose society are hoping that more local rose growers will plan to exhibit at the show this year. The rose growers of the valley are always welcome to attend the regular meetings of the society.

Auxiliary Has Plans For Variety Program Townsend Harmony auxiliary will sponsor a variety program Wednesday, March 4 at Carpenters hall.

At last week's club meeting a quilt tying was held before the business session. Mrs. Lulu Stringer, Mrs. J. N. Peacher and Ed Wolters were honored with a February birthday cake. Two visitors were present, and two new club members were reported by the membership chairman. The club's musicians entertained with numbers in keeping with the Centennial celebration.

The meeting closed with games and dancing. Visitors are always welcome.

Mrs. Arnold Bohnert To Be Club Hostess Central Point - Central Point Garden club will meet at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 4, for dessert at the home of Mrs. Arnold Bohnert on Grant road.

Mrs. L. C. Gorden will be in charge of the program on the way to prepare horticultural specimens for exhibiting in flower shows.

Committee Sought To Make School Study Salem - UPI - Appointment of an interim committee to study problems of school building construction and financing was called for in a resolution introduced in the House today by Rep. Carl Yancey (D-Klamath Falls) and others.

A $10,000 appropriation is included. To prevent the gloss from coming off white painted woodwork, wash with milk and a little soap.

Congressmen Like Homes Selected by Their Wives

BY ROSE MCKEE Washington - Two lawmakers who have worked in Congress to enable other Americans to have homes of their own left their personal housing problems pretty much up to their wives.

As a consequence, Sen. John J. Sparkman and Rep. Albert Rains have homes which please them. The two, both Alabama Democrats, have worked as a team to sponsor housing legislation. Senator Sparkman is chairman of the housing subcommittee of the Senate; Representative Rains heads the corresponding subcommittee in the House.

What kind of homes do the Congressional housing leaders have for themselves? The Sparkmans have an attractive, 20-year-old English-type house of stone and stucco here which they bought about four years ago. The senator told the National Association of Home Builders: "The house sold itself to my wife. She liked the space it had, the larger kitchen and the trees around it."

He explains that they had a smaller house which they sold when they bought their present home. He was busy on housing legislation at the time and wasn't too keen on the change because "I can get along anywhere—I'm not too hard to please." Now he's glad his wife spurred the move.

Book-Lined Den The senator has a book-lined den in the rear of his home where he reads, works on speeches and listens to the radio. Mrs. Sparkman enjoys the large kitchen, which she had rebuilt, the dining room with a bay window and the screened porch off the living room. One of her treasures is a grandfather's clock "made in England, bought in Germany and keeping perfect time." Congressman and Mrs. Rains live in an apartment in Washington. But they recently built themselves a fine, one-story brick home in Gadsden, Ala.

Mrs. Rains worked 10 years studying architecture, drawing plans, revising them and finding the setting for the house, which has a background of stately pine trees. Her enthusiasm over the project was contagious and the congressman eventually found himself absorbed in planning structural details of the house.

While on a speaking trip, Rains spied a 100-year-old military academy being torn down in Tennessee. He and his wife, who was with him, decided the antique brick of the academy was just what they wanted for their house. They bought the brick and had it shipped to Alabama. They used it for the exterior, the back terrace, and the huge fireplace in the den.

The den has walls of Philippine mahogany. Its dapples—mirroring the congressman's interest in history—have an imprint of small maps of the 13 original colonies and the year each became a part of the Union.

Friends of Mrs. Rains consider her U-shaped kitchen a homemaker's dream. A serving bar separates the kitchen from the breakfast nook. The walls of this area are in antique white with the cabinets and kitchen equipment a soft yellow. The vinyl tile of the floor and the kitchen-breakfast nook curtains are tan with brown and yellow accents.

Representative Rains says that getting the house built was a "most fascinating" adventure that now gives him and his wife the "greatest satisfaction." "If we had to do it over, we would do it exactly as we did except for one or two very minor changes," he says.

Leaders Make Plans For Coming Pre Fair Eagle Point - A group of 4-H club women leaders met at the home of Mrs. Cecil Kee in Shady Cove to make plans for a pre-fair for the home economics group and sewing classes. Attending were Mesdames James Edge, John Noble, Joe Sutton, O. E. Hayes, and Ben Gardner of Eagle Point; Mrs. Kee, Mrs. Hale, Mrs. Gene Weitman, Mrs. Smith and daughter, Miss Bonnie Smith of Shady Cove.

Medford Student Secretary of League Eugene - UPI - A North Salem High school student, Douglas Nohlgren, has been elected president of the Oregon High School International Relations League yesterday at a convention of the league here.

Quick Casserole

The contents of three cans and a package combine to make an interesting and satisfying supper casserole. A can of cream of mushroom soup, thinned slightly with milk and seasoned to taste with Worcestershire sauce, prepared mustard and instant minced onion makes the sauce. To this, add a can of tuna broken into generous chunks, and a can of blue lake green beans, drained. Turn into shallow baking dish and top with small biscuits prepared from packaged biscuit mix. Brush biscuits with melted butter and sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese. Bake in a hot oven until mixture is bubbly hot and biscuits are nicely browned. Serve from the baking dish with a crisp green salad.

Simple Dessert Simple fruit desserts provide a last course without many calories. Drain canned cling peach slices and sprinkle lightly with flaked coconut. Drizzle on a little orange juice, and chill thoroughly. Add crisp cookies for an accompaniment, if you wish.
